The Hokies opened their brand-new indoor practice facility over the winter, a building that allows players to work on all aspects of their games no matter the time, day or weather. The facility includes retractable cages that enable infield practice, wall-to-wall field turf, and a video system that assists players in recording and analyzing their techniques almost instantly.

VIRGINIA TECH IS A PART OF THE NATION'S BEST COLLEGIATE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Virginia Tech AD Jim Weaver and ACC Commissioner John Swofford at the announcement that the Hokies would be joining the ACC.

THE TRADITION

Consistency. It is the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now, in its 57th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture; the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 116 national championships, including 62 in women's competition and 54 in men's (through the fall sports season of 2009). In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 125 times in men's competition and 84 times in women's action.

The 2009 season saw two ACC representatives - North Carolina and Virginia - advance to the College World Series at Omaha, Neb. It marked the third time in four years the conference had sent multiple teams to the CWS, as a record four teams advanced in 2006 and three made the field in 2008.

Boston College, Clemson, Florida State, Georgia Tech and Miami also made the NCAA Tournament field to give the ACC a record-tying seven teams in postseason play. Clemson and FSU joined North Carolina and Virginia in advancing to the national tournament's "Sweet 16." Miami's 37th straight appearance added to what was already an NCAA record, and FSU's 32-year streak marked the second-longest by any program.

North Carolina's 2009 CWS appearance was its ACC-record fourth straight, and Virginia made its first ever trip to Omaha. The Tar Heels' Dustin Ackley, who was the No. 2 overall selection of the Seattle Mariners in the 2009 MLB Draft, finished with a 22-game hitting streak in NCAA Tournament play; and his 28 career hits in CWS play (2007-09) set an NCAA record.

Over the last 13 years, the current 12 ACC schools have combined for 85 NCAA Tournament appearances, winning 61.3 percent of their games (287-181) and taking 22 trips to the College World Series.

Overall, ACC teams won 247 non-conference games in 2009 while losing just 86, a winning percentage of .743. The ACC has posted a nonconference winning percentage of .600 or better each of the last 18 seasons. The league stands 4,425-1,722-20 in non-conference games since 1990.

The 2009 season marked the fourth year of division play for the ACC, as Florida State won its third straight Atlantic title and North Carolina captured the Coastal Division crown. The 2009 ACC Championship, which was held at the Durham (N.C.) Bulls Athletic Park, saw Virginia capture the title with a 6-3 win over Florida State in the title game on May 24. The sixth-seeded Cavaliers, led by tournament MVP Dan Grovatt, became the lowest seed ever to win the championship.

North Carolina's Ackley was voted ACC Player of the Year, while Georgia Tech's Deck McGuire earned Pitcher of the Year honors and Virginia pitcher/ first baseman Danny Hultzen was voted Freshman of the Year. Florida State's Mike Martin, who led the Seminoles to a 45-18 overall record and the Atlantic Division title, was named ACC Coach of the Year for the sixth time. Ackley hit .417 with 22 homers and 73 RBI, and he finished with 346 career hits - fifth all-time among ACC players.

The ACC has consistently infused Major League Baseball with talented players. The current 12 ACC schools have had 704 players selected in the MLB Draft since 1994, including 53 first-round picks. The conference's three student-athletes chosen in the first round in 2009 - North Carolina's Ackley, Boston College catcher Tony Sanchez and North Carolina pitcher Alex White - extended the ACC's streak of at least one player selected in the first round to 18 consecutive years.

The 56 selections in 2009 were the second-best all-time for the Atlantic Coast Conference (behind 63 selections in 2007). Clemson led all ACC schools with nine picks. Miami had eight players selected, while Duke set a school record and North Carolina tied a school record with seven each. The ACC has had at least 50 players taken in each of the last four drafts (54 were chosen in 2008). The conference has also had multiple first-round selections in eight of the last nine drafts.

The ACC has produced four No. 1 overall picks in North Carolina's B.J. Surhoff in 1985, Florida State's Paul Wilson in 1994, Clemson's Kris Benson in 1996 and Miami's Pat Burrell in 1998.

2008-09 IN REVIEW

The 2008-09 academic year saw league teams capturing five national team titles and 16 individual NCAA crowns. In all, the ACC has won 48 national team titles over the last 13 years. The ACC has won two or more NCAA titles in 28 of the past 30 years.

A total of 128 ACC teams placed in NCAA postseason competition in 2008-09. League teams compiled a 130-74-1 (.637) mark against opponents in NCAA championship competition. In addition, the ACC had 199 student-athletes earn first team All-America honors this past year. Overall, the league had 265 first-, second- or third-team All-Americans and the ACC produced eight national Players of the Year and five national Coach of the Year honorees.

THE CHAMPIONSHIPS

The conference will conduct championship competition in 25 sports during the 2009-10 academic year - 12 for men and 13 for women. The first ACC championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship meet held in tennis at Wake Forest University. Championships for women are currently conducted in cross country, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf, lacrosse, softball and rowing, with volleyball deciding its champion by regular season play.

A HISTORY

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region's newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were: Dixie, Mid South, Mid Atlantic, East Coast, Seaboard, Colonial, Tobacco, Blue-Gray, Piedmont, Southern Seven and the Shoreline.

Duke's Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concluded with each member institution assessed $200.00 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when the Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964. The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State University.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting July 1, 2005.

Located in downtown Greensboro, N.C., NewBridge Bank Park opened its gates to a crowd of 8,540 on April 3, 2005 with an exhibition game between the Class-A Greensboro Grasshoppers and its major-league parent club Florida Marlins. Built at an original construction cost of $21.5 million, the state-of-the-art facility features a 30-foot wide, open-air concourse and 36 concession points of sale, a child-safe play park and the second largest video board in the minor leagues.

Seating capacity currently stands at 7,499, which includes 5,300 chair back seats, 16 luxury suites and two grass banks, as well as picnic areas. Baseball America recently rated NewBridge Bank Park the top stadium in the South Atlantic League and the No. 8 overall minor league stadium nationally.

"We are excited to be able to hold the 2010 ACC Baseball Championship at such a first-class facility," ACC Commissioner Swofford said. "Anyone who has attended a game there knows it is a beautiful stadium and one we believe fans from throughout the conference will enjoy. We thank the city of Greensboro and the Grasshoppers for all that they have done, and for their willingness to extend a hand to the ACC and work with us to make this happen."

Tickets for the championship are available for sale and can be purchased by visiting the championship Web site at (www.theACC. com/ACCbaseball).

COMPLETION OF INDOOR BASEBALL BUILDING CONTINUES FACILITIES ARMS RACE

The Virginia Tech athletics department is constantly looking for ways to upgrade its facilities, as evidenced by the completion of the Basketball Practice Facility in the summer of 2009 and the construction of the football locker room project going on now.

The latest addition to the lineup is the indoor baseball facility, which broke ground in December of 2008 and was completed in December of 2009. The Hokies began using the building when they returned from holiday break for the spring semester.

"Three years ago, no one was even mentioning the idea of a hitting facility," Tech head coach Pete Hughes said. "That tells you where we are as a program and where we're headed in the eyes of our administration; it's purely invested in the development of our players. Our administration invested on that premise alone, and as a baseball coach, that's all you want – the support from your administration when it comes to the development of your players. That's exactly what that hitting building represents."

The 8,000-square foot facility will serve the Hokies in a number of ways. When the team wishes to work on hitting, there are four separate batting cages that can be employed. When the team wants to work on fielding and/or throwing, those cages can be raised to open up an area of turf that is nearly as big as the size of a normal infield.

"The addition of this building will be pivotal because when you are located where we are, you need a facility that will allow you to get better in the winter months," Hughes said. "I feel like this might be the best indoor baseball situation in the ACC. "We will have the capability to do everything from hitting to pitching, from fielding ground balls to working on bunt coverage, and from practicing pickoffs to working on rundowns. They did an excellent job of maximizing space with these retractable cages."

The floor of the building is outfitted with field turf, which allows for a natural roll of the ball, even while working inside. Also included in the building will be two instructional video labs, one for pitchers and one for hitters. The facility will be equipped with video cameras that can film the players from both side and front angles, and the players can then view themselves in the labs on computer monitors for immediate feedback on form and execution.

Located just beyond the left field foul pole at English Field, the building has large, garagelike doors that can be opened for an open-air atmosphere, as well as a great view of the field, if the weather permits.

"I can't say enough about how important and advantageous it will be to utilize everything this building has to offer," Hughes said. "Our main task is to allow our players to improve at any time of any day, and this new building allows for exactly that."

The completion of the hitting building comes on the heels of English Field's most recent project, the terracing of the grass-covered hill that runs down the third base/left field line. The hill had long been a favorite of Tech fans who wished to spread out and relax while watching the Hokies, but the renovation has made it more comfortable and accessible. The terrace looks much like one would see in an outdoor amphitheatre and features a series of steps/ seating areas constructed with VERSA-LOK walls and sod-type pads. There is about seven feet of space between each terrace, so there is plenty of room to put blankets down and for children to play.

"I think it's awesome; it's just what we had in mind," Hughes said of the terracing. "It caters to our clientele, which is families and the student body. Rather than going the route of 2,500 metal bleachers, we met two needs – we created more seating and we created a better venue. Very few projects come out better than what you had in mind, but that's what happened with the terracing. They did an unbelievable job. It is as unique as any other facility in college baseball."

Coinciding with the terracing project was the realignment of the left and right field foul line fences. Both were cut in tighter to the playing field, significantly reducing the foul territory in the outfield. This change not only provides a new element to the play on the field, but it also allows the terraces to get a little closer to the action, both increasing room for attendance and giving fans a new and unique viewpoint from which to watch the game. This renovation also included the addition of new bullpens.

"I can't emphasize enough how important the changes to our facility and the investment in our program has been," Hughes said. "It sends a great message of commitment. We're gradually becoming a player in the ACC in every single sport, and I think that's what [Tech athletics director] Jim Weaver has in mind for us."

Scenic English Field continues to provide Virginia Tech with a first-class campus setting for college baseball, day or night. The field, which was officially dedicated during a special ceremony on April 8, 1989, is named for the late E.R. 'Red' English and his wife, Ruth, who provided financial support for construction of the field.

Located at the intersection of Rt. 314 and Duckpond Drive, English Field features 1,033 permanent chair-back seats in its concrete stands. The seats were made possible through a contribution by an anonymous donor. The stands also include easy-access handicapped sections, which are located at the top of the stands on each side of the center section.

In the summer of 2008, the terracing of the hill along the third base/left field line was completed to provide fans with a new, unique and comfortable way to take in the action. When added to the permanent seats in the grandstand, the new terracing allows for approximately 4,000 fans to be accommodated at any given time. The terracing includes a sloping, paved walkway to allow for wheelchair access and easy navigation.

The terracing had other effects as well, as it required the fencing down the left field foul line to be realigned and the bullpens to be re-done. The right field line was done as well to keep things symmetrical, and as a result, all of English Field's fencing, including the outfield wall and the backstop wall, is painted in a forest green color much like one would see at many major league parks.

A completely new drainage system was installed during fall 2005, along with a new eight-foot wooden outfield fence and a new net backstop behind the plate. The previous spring, a new scoreboard and message center were added along with additional landscaping and a concrete patio behind the stands.

Prior to the 2004 season, a new lighting system was installed. The Hokies played their first baseball game under the lights in Blacksburg on April 28 of that year, defeating VMI, 8-0.

A permanent press box was completed in January 1997. The two-story building located at the top of the stands behind home plate provides a working area for game operations workers and media, as well as two broadcast booths. It also houses a concession stand and restrooms, and a brand-new sound system that was installed in 2008. The press box was equipped with new windows in January of 2010.

The field, which was constructed by the S. Lewis Lionberger Company, has dimensions of 330 feet down the lines, 375 feet in the power alleys and 400 feet to center field. The natural grass surface is composed of a mixture of rye and bluegrass.

Other features include spacious dugouts faced with Hokie Stone, bullpens that are located near each dugout and a practice hitting cage along the right field line. Security fencing was added in January 2003. The landscaping also allows for further expansion of the facilities as needed, as evidenced by brand-new indoor hitting facility that was completed in December of 2009.

E.R. English, a native of Altavista, Va., played as an offensive and defensive guard on Virginia Tech football teams from 1930-33 and graduated from Virginia Tech in 1934. English contributed to Tech athletics for over 50 years and was one of the founders of The Student Aid Association in 1949. He served as president of that organization two of its first three years. English received the most outstanding alumni award at Tech in 1984.

Through a generous gift from alumnus George Sampson, the home team dugout was named for long-time Tech baseball coach G.F. 'Red' Laird during a ceremony on April 12, 1991. Laird recruited and coached Sampson at Tech.

The Hokies opened play at their new home with a 7-2 victory against George Mason University on March 22, 1989, and went on to post a 17-7 home record during their first season in the facility. Heading into the 2010 season, Tech's 21-year mark at English Field is 343 wins, 178 losses and three ties.

Prior to the opening of English Field, Tech played its home baseball games at Tech Park, where it compiled a 431-122-1 record over 34 seasons.

2010 OUTLOOK

Michael Seaborn can play second or third for the Hokies and provides some pop with his bat, having hit 15 homers in two seasons.

Ronnie Shaban filled many roles in a breakout freshman season and is one of the most versatile players on the Hokies' roster.

EXPERIENCED AND BATTLE-TESTED HOKIES BEGIN 2010 WITH EYES ON THE POSTSEASON

"I would be really disappointed if we didn't make the national tournament."

Those are the words of Virginia Tech baseball head coach Pete Hughes, and really, a perfect summary of the level of expectations that the 2010 Hokies have for themselves heading into Hughes and his staff's fourth season with the program.

Of course, all coaches are disappointed when their team's season doesn't end with a postseason berth, but for the first time since joining the ACC, the Hokies appear to have the personnel to do it.

For the first three seasons in Hughes' tenure, the Hokies routinely had one of the youngest and most inexperienced rosters in the Atlantic Coast Conference. But now in 2010, those players who were pressed into duty before they were ready in 2008 and 2009 are suddenly some of the most battle-tested and seasoned veterans in what is considered the best baseball conference in the NCAA.

"As far as experience coming back, we're as good as you can be in this league," Hughes said. "We had some young guys who were wide-eyed and overmatched as freshmen but then became productive, and in some cases, dominant players in year two."

As many teams around the conference lose graduating seniors or talented juniors to the MLB draft, the Hokies return the bulk of their team. Of pitchers who contributed major innings, only one, departed senior Rhett Ballard, is gone. As for the rest of the field, starters for all eight positions return.

With all of that experience comes mental toughness, a trait that Hughes desires over almost all others in his players.

"Our guys have been put in every single competitive situation over the past two years," Hughes said. "They've seen it all. For the longest time, we'd get in a close game and it wouldn't go our way. But we finally put ourselves in a situation where we got in a close game, and it got flipped the other way and we won.

"You need to play to bury somebody when you have a lead late in the game. I've seen us play not to lose. But I've seen that transformation, too, and I saw it against Virginia in the last weekend of the season [when Tech took two games from the eventual College World Series participants that weren't decided until the final inning]. We've come a long way mentally. It's as experienced and as talented of a team as I've ever coached. Now they've got to go out, have fun and play."

For a look at the guys who'll be going out and playing, here's a quick preview of each of the positional areas and who will be contributing in each:

INFIELDERS

Two players in particular will be key to the Hokies' defense in 2010 – juniors Tim Smalling and Austin Wates.

Smalling, now in his second year with the program – he sat out last season to meet NCAA transfer requirements after starting for two years at Arkansas – is penciled in as the Hokies' shortstop. The 6-foot-3, 207-pounder exhibited some offensive prowess during the fall when he hit .444 with two homers, four RBIs and four runs scored in the Hokie Fall World Series, but it's his steady hand in the field that has the coaching staff excited.

"We think he's a special player defensively," Hughes said. "To have him be a calming presence in our infield, where our pitchers know that a play on a routine ground ball is going to be made, is what Tim really brings to our lineup this year."

Speaking of offensive prowess, one needs to look no farther than Wates, who has been selected as a third-team preseason All-American by Collegiate Baseball/Louisville Slugger and Baseball America. Wates finished his sophomore season ranked fourth in the

8 VIRGINIA TECH

ACC with a .397 batting average, seventh with 20 doubles, eighth with 16 stolen bases, 12th with a .608 slugging percentage and 13th with a .447 on-base percentage. He also added 50 runs scored, five home runs and 42 runs batted in.

Wates then went out and impressed many with a great summer season in the prestigious Cape Cod League as an outfielder, but it's at first base where he may make the biggest impact for the Hokies.

"Austin will play in the outfield for us and he'll play first base," Hughes said. "Wherever we need him that day, he'll play, and he'll be very good at it."

First base was manned by committee for the first half of last season, but the athletic Wates settled in for most of the second half and was making plays that his peers around the league couldn't make.

"We saw last year how important it is to have a really good first baseman," Hughes added. "It takes away a lot of errors and it cuts your pitchers' pitch count down when you have a guy who can pick everything. Austin was unbelievable. If our best defensive team features Austin at first base, that's what we'll do."

Second base and third base look to be occupied by Michael Seaborn and Ronnie Shaban, respectively. Seaborn, now a redshirt junior, began last year at third base until an injury to Tony Balisteri left a void at second. Seaborn made the switch and wound up starting 33 games at second, hitting .300 with seven homers and eight doubles. Shaban started a combined 45 games (10 at third) as a true freshman and delivered, hitting .326 with 19 doubles and 38 RBIs.

Balisteri, a junior, will be the primary backup at second, short and third, and has proven that he can make plays at all three spots during his first two years. Should Wates spend some time in the outfield, expect any number of options to play at first. Those options include, but aren't limited to, much-improved redshirt junior Matt Blow, redshirt sophomore Buddy Sosnoskie, redshirt freshman Andrew Rash or redshirt junior Brandon Lower.

Blow, Lower and Rash can also fill in at third, while true freshman Brent Zimmerman provides extra depth at the middle infield spots.

OUTFIELDERS

Much like last year, the Hokies will have a deep and competitive outfield situation. Though the starting center fielder does not return – Steve Bumbry opted to leave early after getting selected in the 12th round by the Baltimore Orioles – the Hokies have the benefit of welcoming back their starter from 2008, redshirt senior Sean Ryan.

"Sean is someone we really missed last year at the top of our order and as a defender," Hughes said. "To be able to have his leadership and experience in our program as a fifth-year senior is a luxury that we missed out on for the entirety of last season."

Ryan was voted a team captain and began last season on a tear, hitting .450 with four doubles over the first five games, but he broke a bone in his hand and surgery left him out for the year. He was granted a medical hardship waiver and returns as a valuable asset for the Hokies both in the field and at the plate, having batted .305 in 50 starts as a junior.

Senior Mike Kaminski will have the first shot at the right field job, as he returns after batting .340 a year ago with six homers, 11 doubles and 38 RBIs. He was one of two Hokies to have played in all 53 games last season, with 37 starts coming in right. It was a seamless transition to the ACC for the junior-college transfer, and much will be expected of him after he proved he belonged at this level in 2009.

Departed senior Klint Reed (.358) started 26 games in left field last season, but current redshirt senior Steve Domecus made 19 starts there as well and looks to be the first option at that spot in 2010. Also a junior-college transfer who made his Hokie debut last year, he won the ACC's regular-season batting title after hitting .406. That made him the first Tech player to hit over .400 since 1997, as well as the first Tech player to earn All-ACC honors since the Hokies joined the league prior to the 2005 campaign.

"Steve returns as one of the top hitters and offensive performers in the ACC," Hughes said. "When you look at on-base percentage Sean Ryan returns after missing nearly all of 2009 with a broken hand and will provide leadership and great defense in center field.

> Steve Domecus batted .406 last season and returns as one of the better all-around offensive threats in the ACC.

(.477), strikeout numbers (only 13), average and the way he runs the bases, I think he's one of the top three or four guys in the league."

Domecus is also one of the Hokies' top catching options, but he was limited to 10 games there (and 40 overall) because he also suffered a broken bone in his hand late in the year. Should he spend more time at catcher, or even designated hitter, look for any number of guys to battle for the left field spot, including Buddy Sosnoskie, Wates if he isn't at first, freshmen Chad Morgan and Tyler Horan, Rash or redshirt senior Luke Padgett. Most of those guys are also capable of filling in at center or right in place of Ryan and Kaminski.

CATCHERS/DESIGNATED HITTERS

Senior Anthony Sosnoskie (.314, 18 doubles, seven homers, team-high 51 RBIs) has been the Hokies' everyday catcher for most of his career, and he will once again be behind the plate more often than not. But with a healthy Domecus, a proven backup in junior Chris Kay and a talented rookie in Morgan, Hughes has depth at the position like never before.

"I think Anthony is really going to benefit from having such a solid core of guys at the position to rest him so he can be a better offensive player," Hughes said. "We're not going to ask him to catch 56 games for us. We are so deep at that position that I think he'll be able to really benefit, especially toward the end of the year. I think he's gotten tired in the past and it's hurt him offensively."

If Domecus, Kay or Morgan are spelling Sosnoskie at catcher, Sosnoskie is a good option for the DH spot, though Hughes has never been one to use a regular DH. In fact, he started 10 different players at DH last year, including eight guys for at least three games and three guys for at least eight games.

"We'll use the DH spot to get the extra offensive guy in who's just not as good as the other guys in the field defensively," Hughes explained. "We have options against lefties and righties, we have depth and we have versatile, multiple-position guys. Those are all good things to have. We may never settle into a lineup, but whoever is going to hit, compete, be consistent and field the baseball – that's who is going to play for us."

STARTING PITCHERS

Remember all of those wide-eyed freshmen mentioned earlier, the ones who slowly began finding their place and growing into productive players? That's a good description of the pitching staff in a nutshell. The Hokies' top four projected starters – juniors Justin Wright, Sean McDermott and Jesse Hahn, in addition to sophomore Mathew Price – were all thrown into action as rookies and forced to learn on the fly. That's the type of risk that needs to be taken when trying to rebuild a team, and that's exactly what Hughes did.

"The learning curve with freshmen in the ACC is unbelievable," Hughes said. "You throw them out there that first year to let them learn and improve, and hopefully, they don't get so beaten down that they can't get better from it. That's why last year I kept hoping that we'd come out and get better. All of those beatings we took the year before are all for naught if the guys aren't growing from the experience that we gave them. But at the end of last year, I thought we definitely did that."

The left-handed Wright is locked in as Tech's No. 1 starter after proving himself as the most reliable pitcher over his first two seasons, accumulating career totals of an 11-2 record, a 4.06 ERA and two complete games.

"I think he's our top guy and we're going to rely on him a lot over the course of the year," Hughes said of Wright. "We have to keep him healthy because I think he matches up great against some of these lineups in the league that are lefty dominant. He's a winner, we think he can handle a lot, and we're going to give him a lot of responsibility."

The pecking order after Wright will be settled depending on who steps in and performs, but McDermott, Hahn and Price will all surely have their numbers called regularly. The left-handed McDermott went 3-1 with a save and a 3.31 ERA last year, but arm troubles limited him to just 32.2 innings. Righties Hahn and Price have taken their lumps, but both possess next-level talent if they are able to harness it. Hahn has spent time as starter, a reliever and closer, but the hope for this season is to have him reach his potential (which earned him a preseason All-America nod from both Baseball America and scouting service PG Crosschecker) and become a weekend starter. Price started nine games as a rookie last year and showed that he has as good of stuff as anyone, but he needs to show it more consistently and learn from his mistakes.

Other players looking to turn mid-week starts into opportunities to compete for spots on the weekend include junior-college transfers Joe Parsons and Manny Martir, redshirt sophomores Marc Zecchino and Jake Peeling, sophomore Clark Labitan and freshmen Patrick Scoggin and Joe Mantiply.

RELIEF PITCHERS

With experience comes close games, and with close games come save opportunities, so it's no surprise that the 2009 Hokies recorded more saves than any Tech team since 2003. If things keep progressing, there should be even more to come in 2010, and Ben Rowen and Brandon Fisher will be there to slam the door shut.

"Ben and Brandon are the most reliable guys coming out of our bullpen," Hughes said. "Look for those two to be there at the end of the game for us. I don't really know what's going to happen with the closer role, but that usually sorts itself out. I don't like to back myself into a corner with the closer role because match-ups really matter in this league, so I go with the best match-up that's available according to the team we're playing against."

Rowen, who saved four games last year and earned four wins in a team-high 30 appearances, has a submarine delivery that baffles hitters the first time they see it. Fisher saved three games in 19 appearances and has earned the coaches' trust after taking advantage of every opportunity he's been given.

Both will be ready to go when called upon, but two others who could also factor in late into games could be Labitan and Shaban. Labitan served many roles as a rookie, appearing in 22 games, starting two, and picking up four wins. He may start mid-week, he may pitch in long relief or he may close, but one thing the coaches do know is that he won't back down from a challenge.

Shaban only pitched 6.2 innings last year while he made the transition to college ball and filled so many roles in the field, but he was recruited as a two-way player and will see more opportunities on the mound this year.

"Ronnie could get the ball late in the game because of his personality, his competitive nature and his stuff," Hughes said. "We want to establish that early in our season."

Others expected to provide help out of the bullpen include any of the starters listed earlier, Buddy Sosnoskie, redshirt junior Danny Farris, redshirt freshmen Luke Erickson and Charlie McCann and true freshman Jake Joyce. Senior Kyle Cichy will sit out the season as he recovers from shoulder surgery.

SCHEDULE

The Hokies could very well have the toughest road schedule in the nation, as all five of their conference road trips come at schools ranked among the top 15 in the USA Today/ESPN Coaches' preseason poll: No. 4 Virginia, No. 5 Florida State, No. 10 Georgia Tech, No. 11 North Carolina and No. 15 Clemson. Tech will also face No. 13 Miami at home, in addition to NCAA Tournament participant Boston College and 35-win Duke.

Because of that, the Hokies cannot afford to get off to the 3-10 start in ACC play that they did last year. Tech went 9-7 the rest of the way, and that's what will need to happen from the outset if a postseason berth is desired.

"The last half of last year, I thought we were a national tournament-level team," Hughes said. "We're right where we want to be. Our goal right now is Omaha [the site of the College World Series], and I couldn't have told you that two years ago. The fourth place team from our division [Virginia] went to Omaha – a team that we took 2-of-3 from and had a chance to sweep. That tells you how close it is. But you're judged on your whole body of work, so we need to come out from game one and play like the experienced team we are."

A TIMELINE OF HIGHLIGHTS

February 20: Virginia Tech began its 116th season of play by blasting UNC Asheville, 21-4, in a tournament co-hosted by Wofford and USC Upstate, pushing its opening-day record to 59-55-2. The 21 runs were the most by a Tech team in a season opener since 1988.

February 22: The Hokies defeat USC Upstate to begin a season 4-0 for the first time since starting 5-0 in 1993.

February 23: Catcher Anthony Sosnoskie was named ACC Player of the Week after earning MVP honors at the Courtyard by Marriott Classic with a .643 average, three homers and seven RBIs. He was the first Hokie to earn the honor since Bryan Thomas in February of 2006 and just third overall.

March 6: The Hokies hammered Duke, 19-4, in the ACC opener to move to 2-3 in ACC openers since joining the league. The 19 runs, as well as the winning margin of 15 runs, marked the highest totals in an ACC game for Tech since joining the conference. The win also improved Tech's 2009 record to 9-1, marking the best start for the Hokies since the 1992 squad began 10-0-1.

March 17: Tech pounded out a season-high 23 hits in a 14-5 victory over VMI to score in double digits for the 10th time in 11 wins.

March 21: The Hokies upset No. 3 Georgia Tech at home by a score of 9-5, marking the third time in four seasons that they knocked off a top-3 team (No. 1 Florida State in 2006 and No. 1 Miami in 2008).

March 31: Five Virginia Tech pitchers (Clark Labitan, Rhett Ballard, Kyle Cichy, Brandon Fisher and Ben Rowen) combined to post the Hokies' first shutout in nearly two years by tossing Tech to a 4-0 win at James Madison.

April 5: Sophomore Justin Wright tossed the second complete game of his young career to lift Tech over visiting Wake Forest by a score of 3-2. He allowed eight hits, no walks and struck out eight. Senior Klint Reed homered in the bottom of the eighth for the deciding run.

April 11: Steve Domecus saw his 24-game hitting streak come to an end at Maryland, though it would prove to be the longest hitting streak recorded in the ACC all season.

April 12: Three Tech pitchers (Mathew Price, Jesse Hahn and Rowen) combined for the Hokies' second shutout in two weeks, a 5-0 blanking at Maryland that finished a three-game sweep of the Terps. It was the first three-game conference series sweep for the Hokies since joining the league prior to the 2005 season.

April 15: The Hokies launched a season-high six home runs on their way to the most runs scored in a game since 2003, crushing High Point 22-13. Ronnie Shaban and Steve Bumbry each drove in seven runs, with Bumbry becoming just the second Hokie to hit three dingers in a game since 2002.

April 17: Tech knocked off No. 18 Clemson, 5-2, to improve its ACC record to 8-10, marking the most conference wins in a season by the Hokies since joining the league.

April 18: The Hokies defeated Clemson again to claim the series and push their winning streak to eight games – the longest such streak since winning 14 straight in 1999. It was also their sixth consecutive ACC win, marking a new team high.

April 25: Wright baffled 11th-ranked Miami with a career-high 10 strikeouts, going eight innings to lead Tech to its fourth win over a ranked team of the season. It was his fourth straight game tossing at least seven innings, and he was later given ACC Pitcher of the Week honors to mark the first time that two Hokies were recognized by the league in the same season.

April 28: Redshirt freshman Marc Zecchino pitched Tech's second complete game of the year, scattering eight hits and one walk to lift Tech to a 9-1 victory over High Point and earn his first collegiate win. Redshirt sophomore Michael Seaborn recorded nine putouts at second base to set a new Tech singlegame record for the position.

May 10: The Hokies completed a double-header sweep of Delaware State thanks to three home runs in game two by sophomore catcher Chris Kay, who joined Bumbry and Sean O'Brien from 2008 as the only Hokies to homer three times in one game since 2002. The Hokies also set two school season records throughout the day, breaking the doubles mark of 126 set by the 1988 team, as well as the hit-by-pitches mark of 66 set by the 2002 team.

May 14: Sophomore Austin Wates delivered a walkoff home run in the bottom of the 10th inning to lift Tech over No. 10 Virginia, 5-4, breaking a 12-game losing streak to the Cavaliers. Ballard struck out nine batters to move past current Major Leaguer Joe Saunders and into fourth place on Tech's all-time strikeout list, finishing his career with 263.

May 15: Tech clinched the series over Virginia, which eventually advanced to the College World Series, with another one-run win, fighting off a late rally to emerge 9-8 and record its sixth win, and second series win, over a ranked team of the season.

May 16: Though Tech dropped the season and series finale to Virginia to fall to 32-21 (12-17 ACC), the Hokies finished with their best winning percentage (.604) since 1999. The 32 wins was the highest total since winning 34 in 2003, and the 12 conference wins was the most since winning 15 that same year as a member of the BIG EAST.

May 18: Domecus was named to the All-ACC second team, becoming the first Hokie baseball player to be named to an All-ACC team in Tech's five seasons in the league. The redshirt junior finished the year with a .406 batting average to win the ACC's regular season batting title. He was the first Hokie to hit over .400 over the course of a season since Matt Griswold hit .408 in 1997.

PETE HUGHES HEAD COACH

As head coach Pete Hughes begins his fourth season at the helm of the Virginia Tech baseball program, both he and the Hokies have the luxury of looking forward to at least five more years together. That's because in the summer of 2009, Hughes agreed to a contract extension that would keep him in Blacksburg through the 2014 season.

"My wife Debby and I are unbelievably grateful to [Virginia Tech president] Dr. [Charles] Steger and [Virginia Tech athletics director] Jim Weaver for extending us the great opportunity to raise our family in such a wonderful community and athletics department," Hughes said at the time. "I want to see the growth of the Hokies fully through and I love the direction of our program, as well as the vision of Mr. Weaver."

Hughes took over the Tech program following the 2006 season and the retirement of Hall of Fame coach Chuck Hartman, who spent 28 years with the Hokies and 47 years as a head coach. The 2006 campaign saw the Hokies win just 20 games, their lowest figure since 1974, but Hughes has quickly turned things around and gotten the Hokies back on the path to the winning tradition that Hartman established long ago. Through his three seasons, Hughes has amassed a 78-84 record, including a 32-21 mark in 2009. The Hokies' 2009 record accounted for Tech's best winning percentage (.604) since 1999, when the Hokies went 42-17 (.712). The 32 wins were Tech's highest total since winning 34 in 2003, and the 12 conference wins were the most since winning 15 that same year as a member of the BIG EAST.

"I am pleased and proud that we have been able to attract an outstanding young head coach to follow one of the winningest coaches in NCAA history," said Weaver when announcing Hughes' arrival. "Pete Hughes is familiar with the Atlantic Coast Conference and knows Virginia Tech, having competed against us in recent years in both the BIG EAST and the ACC. He also knows that we want to be a nationally competitive baseball program. I believe Coach Hughes is the right person for Virginia Tech at this moment in time."

Before arriving at Tech, Hughes, 42, spent the previous eight seasons as the head coach at Boston College, where he compiled a 250-181-2 record. He also was the head coach at Trinity University in Texas for two seasons (1997-98), guiding the Tigers to a 52-30 mark.

Prior to Hughes' arrival, Boston College averaged 13 wins a season over 35 years. During their eight seasons under Hughes, the Eagles averaged 31 wins per year. In 2005, he led BC to a school record 37 wins and his squad was named the Division I New England Baseball Team of the Year.

During his first two seasons at Boston College, Hughes guided his teams to back-to-back singleseason school marks for win improvements (nine). He took over a team that finished 17-23-1 during the 1998 season and coached it to a 26-21-1 record in 1999. The following season, the Eagles posted a 35-20 record and made just their second-ever appearance in the BIG EAST Tournament.

Hughes was named BIG EAST, New England and ABCA/Diamond Division I Northeast Region Coach of the Year following the 2000 season. He also earned BIG EAST Conference Coach of the Year honors in 2002 and was the New England Coach of the Year again in 2005. Hughes took the Eagles to the BIG EAST Tournament a total of five times in seven seasons.

In 2006, Boston College posted a 28-25-1 record during its first year of Atlantic Coast Conference competition and finished fourth in the Atlantic Division. Among the Eagles' ACC victories were three wins against the Hokies in Blacksburg, along with two wins versus Georgia Tech and a victory against Clemson, both of which went on to participate in the 2006 NCAA College World Series.

Forty-three players who were coached or recruited by Hughes at Boston College or Virginia Tech have been drafted or signed pro contracts, and four have received All-American honors. Pitcher Chris Lambert was selected in the first round of the Major League Baseball Draft by the St. Louis Cardinals in 2004, becoming the first-ever Boston College player to be selected in the opening round. He made his major-league debut with Detroit in 2008. The majority of those 43 players were undrafted out of high school, a further testament to Hughes' commitment to developing and helping players reach their full potential.

Even more impressive was the Eagles' academic success under Hughes. During his eight seasons at Boston College, the baseball program had a 100 percent graduation rate.

At Trinity University (Texas), Hughes inherited a team that had averaged 11 wins per season in each of the previous 17 years. In just two years with the program, Trinity averaged 26 victories and won 63 percent of its games under Hughes, setting the school record for wins (33) and earning a regular season conference championship during his second and final season in 1998.

Hughes began his coaching career at Hamilton College in New York in 1990-91 and found himself torn between football and baseball. During his year at Hamilton, he served as an assistant in football and held the top assistant and recruiting coordinator jobs for baseball. He continued his dualsport coaching roles in the very same capacities at Northeastern University in Boston from fall 1991 through spring 1996. When he started his stint with the Huskies, he was the youngest full-time assistant coach in the Division I-AA football ranks, but when he left, he was headed to the state of Texas to be a college baseball head coach.

As a player, the Brockton, Mass., native was a four-year standout as a third baseman on the diamond and a four-year starter at quarterback on the gridiron at Davidson College (1986-90). Hughes was captain of the baseball team as a senior in 1990 and graduated that year with a bachelor of arts in sociology/anthropology.

Hughes and his wife Debby have five children: sons Thomas, 13, Hal, 11, Dominic, 9, and PJ, 5, and a daughter Grace, 7.

PETE HUGHES ON ...

COACHING PHILOSOPHY

"My goal is to never get out-competed or out-worked, and to be very aggressive and force the action no matter where we are playing or who we are playing. That's always been my style, and I think kids who have bought into that mindset have reached their potential and then some."

ACADEMICS

"As far as evaluating our program from top to bottom, academic performance will always be at the top of my list. We are going to overachieve in the classroom. Without a doubt, performance and effort in the classroom correlates to performance and effort on the baseball field."

GRADUATING PLAYERS

"That's my job. I have a huge responsibility to do that. The only kids I want to coach are kids who are motivated to graduate and are motivated academically. I don't want to coach anybody who has different ideals than that."

CONDITIONING

"Strength and conditioning is the quickest way for us to have success. Our strength coach, Terry Mitchell, and his staff have done an unbelievable job with our program. Based on mid-year testing, each team has become stronger than the last."

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

"I think it's important for kids at this stage to get out of their comfort zone ... to get out and do more than what they are doing in their regular academic and baseball lives. Doing things other than athletic-related activities together is healthy for the team and healthy for the individuals. My family and I have raised over $300,000 for cancer research over the years. There are bigger things out there other than college athletics – and our players need to know that."

THE RIGHT KID

"I just love high energy, competitive kids who care about being good students and good people. When you find that, then you've got something to work with ... then you look to see if they can play."

DAVE TURGEON ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH

Dave Turgeon is in his fourth season as the Hokies' associate head coach and pitching coach. He arrived in Blacksburg by way of Duke University, and in addition to several coaching stints in both college and the minor leagues, he also had an extensive playing career that traveled him around the globe.

Turgeon was the first staff member named by head coach Pete Hughes. The two are not strangers, however, as Turgeon coached under Hughes at Boston College, and the two were teammates during their collegiate playing days at Davidson College.

"Dave has been an unbelievable asset in carrying on the winning tradition of Hokie baseball," said Hughes. "In his seven years at the college level, he has become one of the most respected recruiters and evaluators in the country. Also, Dave will get the best out of our pitching staff. Instructionally and being able to motivate on a daily basis, he is the best I've ever been around."

Tech's staff ERA has lowered in each of Turgeon's previous three seasons in Blacksburg, while walk totals have dropped and strikeout numbers have increased. He helped Rhett Ballard rise to fourth on Tech's all-time strikeout list before seeing him get drafted in 2009 by the Colorado Rockies.

Turgeon was the associate head coach and recruiting coordinator at Duke University during the 2006 season. He spent the 2005 and 2004 seasons as the associate head coach/pitching coach at the University of Connecticut and oversaw the pitching staff and recruiting for Hughes at Boston College during the 2002-03 academic year.

While a member of the BC staff, Turgeon worked directly with current Detroit Tigers pitcher Chris Lambert, who was the St. Louis Cardinals' first-round draft pick and the 19th overall selection in 2004. During his tenures at Boston College and UConn, both teams saw their earned run averages drop and they both set records for wins.

Turgeon has an extensive background as both a player and manager in the professional ranks to go with his collegiate coaching experience.

Prior to joining the staff at Boston College, Turgeon enjoyed a 13-year professional playing career – the first five in the field, where he advanced to the AA level, and the last eight as a pitcher, where he rose to the AAA level. He then managed and coached three years in the Cleveland Indians organization.

From 1987-90, Turgeon was an infielder in the New York Yankees system and played for both Stump Merrill and Buck Showalter. From 1991-1999, he played in Holland (1991), France (1992), Taiwan (1993-96, 1998) and Mexico (1997-99). In 1998, he returned to the United States and played for the Rochester Red Wings, the Baltimore Orioles' Class AAA affiliate.

During his professional playing days, Turgeon was a three-time all-star selection in Taiwan. He also captured 1998 Player of the Year honors with the Reynosa Broncos, a Class AAA team in the Mexican League.

After concluding his playing career, Turgeon served in various coaching capacities with the Indians. He managed the Burlington Indians of the Appalachian League in 2000 and the Mahoning Valley Scrappers of the New York-Penn League the following season. In 2002, Turgeon worked at the Indians' extended spring training in Winter Haven, Fla.

The Groton, Conn., native is a 1987 graduate of Davidson College, where he earned a bachelor's degree in history. Turgeon was a three-time All-Southern Conference selection at third base for the Wildcats. He earned all-region honors his senior year, when one of his teammates was freshman Pete Hughes. In 2005, Turgeon was inducted into the Wildcat Hall of Fame, and in 2006, he was inducted into the St. Bernard High School Hall of Fame in Uncasville, Conn.

Turgeon is one of four in his family to have played professional baseball. His brother, Steve, played in the St. Louis Cardinals organization, while his other brother, Mike, was a minor league player of the year and batting champ with the Chicago Cubs and San Francisco Giants organizations. His nephew, Erik, is currently a pitcher in the New York Mets' system.

Turgeon and his wife, Theresa, have four children; Calli, Allisa, Christian and Francesca.

MIKE GAMBINO ASSISTANT COACH

Mike Gambino joined the Virginia Tech staff as an assistant coach in the summer of 2006 not only with playing and coaching accolades on his resumé, but with professional scouting experience as well. Now in his third season in Blacksburg, he serves as the Hokies' recruiting coordinator and works with Tech's infielders and hitters. Much like associate head coach Dave Turgeon, Gambino has a history with head coach Pete Hughes, having both played and coached for him at Boston College.

"We are very fortunate to have someone with Mike's extensive background on our staff," Hughes said. "We believe his talents as an instructor and as a recruiter/evaluator are instrumental in carrying on the winning tradition of Hokie baseball. I have had the pleasure of both coaching Mike and working with him. He is loyal, a tremendous worker and a true competitor – all qualities that we need to have in our program to win in the ACC."

Since arriving at Tech, Gambino has helped the Hokies' hitters to improved statistics across the board. The team batting average was a full 40 points higher in 2009 than it was in 2006, the 2009 Hokies scored the most runs by a Tech team since 1999. His eye for young talent also resulted in three Hokies being named among the Cape Cod League's top pro prospects by Baseball America in the summer of 2009.

Gambino, 32, came to the Hokies from the Detroit Tigers, where he worked as a regional scout. Gambino was an infielder for Hughes at Boston College from 1995 through 2000, earning the team's leadership award as a redshirt sophomore in 1997-98. He was named second-team All-New England and made the BIG EAST Academic team following the 1999 season. In 2000, Gambino collected a school record 78 hits on the way to earning first-team All-Big East, All-New England and All-Northeast Region honors.

Following his collegiate playing career, Gambino spent two seasons as a minor league infielder for the Boston Red Sox. In February 2002, he became a special assistant to the Red Sox Major League staff. In that capacity, he assisted the coaching staff with all on-field activity and aided the scouting department with coordinating the Amateur Draft.

Gambino was a coach for the Lowell Spinners, the Red Sox Short Season-A team in the New York-Penn League, from June-September 2002. He worked with hitters and infielders and coached first base for the Spinners. He also assisted with all game and prospect reports. When the season concluded, the Red Sox sent Gambino to the Major League Baseball Scout Development Program.

In January 2003, Gambino returned to Boston College as a volunteer coach for Hughes. He coordinated the developmental program for hitters and infielders and also coordinated BC's summer baseball camps.

After two seasons with the Eagles, Gambino moved back to the pro ranks in November 2005 to become an area scout for Detroit, working in the Northeast and Deep South (Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi).

Gambino, who received a bachelor's degree in English and theology from BC, is a native of Garrison, N.Y.

GAMBINO'S HITTING PHILOSOPHY

"First and foremost, our hitters need to get a good pitch to hit. You can have the best swing in the world, but if you consistently swing at bad pitches and pitches out of the zone, it becomes very hard to have success at the plate.

"After that, my overlying theme is to 'keep it simple.' I don't believe in a 'cookie cutter' approach to hitting – or making every hitter do the exact some thing at the plate. There are a few basic things that all good hitters must do, but there are numerous ways to do them. Our guys have all had some level of success to get here, so let's figure out what it is that they do well and help them stay there. Hitting is all about comfort, and if you manufacture swings, players cannot ever really get comfortable.

"As a team, we'll stress a short, quick and inside approach to the baseball, with good extension through the baseball. We'll focus on our situational hitting – especially our twostrike approach – and getting a good pitch to hit. We will not spend a lot of time trying to rework swings and make all of our guys look the same, as that is counterproductive, in my opinion."

MIKE KUNIGONIS Volunteer Assistant Coach

Mike Kunigonis, a former coach at Radford, Canisius and Niagara, is in his second season with the Virginia Tech baseball staff as a volunteer assistant coach. His duties include working with Tech's outfielders, assisting with the hitters, coordinating the Hokies' camps and clinics and helping with the in-house and everyday recruiting efforts. He also coaches first base for the Hokies.

"This is Mike's fourth Division-I program, so he's got some tremendous experience and a great resume for a young guy at this stage of his career," Tech head coach Pete Hughes said. "He's been a full-time coach before so he's been on the recruiting trail and he is able to help us out there. He brings a lot to our program."

Kunigonis spent the 2008 season at nearby Radford University, where he served in a similar capacity as a volunteer assistant. Before coming to the New River Valley, he spent five seasons as a full-time assistant, including three at Canisius and two at Niagara.

Prior to beginning his coaching career, Kunigonis starred for four seasons at American International College and was named an All-Region, All-Conference and All-ECAC first baseman as a senior in 2001. He hit .413 that year and received the Butova Sportsmanship Award for excellence on and off the field.

The Worcester, Mass., native earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice and sociology from AIC in 2001, and he completed his master's degree in sport administration while at Canisius in 2006.

Kunigonis and his fiancée, Amy Miller, the athletic trainer for Tech's women's basketball team, reside in Blacksburg.

JOHN SHIFFLETT ATHLETIC TRAINER

Athletic trainer John Shifflett is in his third year as a graduate assistant in the Virginia Tech training room, and he begins his second season as the full-time athletic trainer for the baseball team.

In his time at Tech, Shifflett has worked with the Hokies' football team and men's soccer team, as well as the cheerleading and HighTech dance squads. He joined the baseball team in the fall of 2008, and travels with the team on all road trips.

Shifflett arrived at Tech by way of Averett University in Danville, Va., where he earned a bachelor's degree in athletic training in 2007. While at Averett, he worked with the football, men's basketball and baseball teams.

In addition to his collegiate work, Shifflett has completed a pair of internships with NFL teams; the Indianapolis Colts in the summer of 2006, and the Philadelphia Eagles in the summer of 2008. He earned a master's in education from Tech in May of 2009.

CAMPS AND CLINICS

The Virginia Tech baseball coaching staff runs numerous prospect clinics and youth camps throughout the year, offering a fun and upbeat baseball experience that provides instruction in all phases of the game from the current Tech coaching staff as well as current and former Hokie players.

"We do it to promote our program," Tech head coach Pete Hughes said of the camps and clinics. "We've opened up a lot of avenues to the community that weren't there before, and any sport in Hokie Nation begins and ends with community support. That's our lifeline, so the more we can do to get that community support and get people to English Field, it's going to benefit our program, and I think our camps have done that.

"From a recruiting standpoint, when you get to the older age groups, we get kids flying in here from all over the country. You and I both know that once you set foot in Blacksburg and on Virginia Tech's campus, you have a completely different perception than what was in your mind. The more we get people on our campus, whether they're coming for our camp or not, the more they can see how beautiful and special of a place this is."

The camps have been an unbelievable recruiting tool for the Tech staff, as many current Hokies were evaluated and signed thanks in part to their participation in Hokieball clinics.

RECRUITING

One thing that the Virginia Tech coaching staff takes enormous pride in is its recruiting efforts and abilities. After welcoming 21 newcomers as part of the staff's initial signing class in 2008, the Tech roster featured 10 more new faces in 2009, and eight more in 2010. As a whole, the roster includes not only some of the best players in the Commonwealth of Virginia, but many other talented players hailing from nine other states.

Assistant coach and recruiting coordinator Mike Gambino on his recruiting philosophy:

"The first thing we will do is focus on recruiting the best players in the state of Virginia. This is a state that takes high school baseball very seriously. There are a lot of great players playing in successful programs for very good coaches, and we will do our best to find and recruit Virginia kids who fit the mold of what we want our team to look like.

"Beyond that, we would like to capitalize on the fact that Virginia Tech has a great reputation nationally – both in terms of the quality of the education and the state of its athletics program. That will allow us to recruit the whole country to find the right players.

"Coach Hughes is great to play for because he expects and demands a lot out of his players (on and off the field) and will do everything in his power to make sure a player works hard, plays hard and competes. He's also very honest and upfront, both with praise and constructive criticism, and his players always know where they stand with him. When you play for him, you know you will get the most out of your ability.

"All of the above helps give us a model for the type of player we want in our program. We look for tough, competitive kids who want to come in and outwork and out-compete everyone, both athletically and academically. We look for kids who we feel will represent this university and its baseball program well in all aspects – on the baseball field, in the classroom and in the community."

THE DUGOUT CLUB

The Virginia Tech Hokies Dugout Club is an organization designed for alumni, friends and fans of the university who have a special interest in Tech baseball.

In the past, the Dugout Club has helped fund facility improvements for the team, such as the renovation of the baseball locker room and the installation of lights at English Field. The efforts and contributions of the Dugout Club are essential in helping to continue and enhance the great baseball tradition at Virginia Tech.

Membership in the Dugout Club requires a minimum yearly donation, with various gifts associated with each level of membership.

For more information on how to join the Dugout Club, log on to www.hokiesports.com/baseball. There you will find membership levels, Dugout Club gifts and tax information, as well as a membership form.

Hokie Baseball thanks you for your support.

HOKIEBALL!

Hokieball is an up-tempo, aggressive style of playing the game of baseball. Not only does it stress the fundamentals of the game, but it also stresses the importance of sportsmanship and hard work, both athletically and academically.

Since taking over the program before the 2007 season, the Virginia Tech baseball staff has stressed the importance of its players taking part in summer leagues.

"Summer baseball is a priority for us," head coach Pete Hughes said. "We will always work to get our kids placed in the best leagues in the country so they can develop and become better players. Our guys who want to reach their potential in baseball are going to play summer baseball at the highest levels."

Here is a recap of Hokies who competed in summer leagues in 2009:

MATT BLOW

Led the Valley League's Woodstock River Bandits with a .302 average and seven home runs ... Added 22 RBIs and 27 runs scored in 45 games played ... Was a mid-season all-star and a postseason allleague honoree.

CLARK LABITAN

Made nine appearances on the mound for the Southern Collegiate League runner-up Lake Norman Copperheads, going 4-2 with one save and a 2.93 ERA in 43 innings pitched ... Struck out 60 and walked just 13, while limiting opponents to a .219 batting average ... Also batted 18 times himself, recording six hits, three RBIs and two stolen bases ... Was a mid-season all-star.

BRANDON LOWER

Appeared in 23 games for the Covington Lumberjacks of the Valley League ... Hit .187 with 11 runs scored, two home runs and six RBIs.

CHARLIE MCCANN

22 VIRGINIA TECH

Made 10 appearances (four starts) for the Rockbridge Rapids of the Valley League ... Went 1-2 with 26 strikeouts in 33 innings pitched ... Tossed the first shutout in Rapids history by scattering five hits in nine innings of a 1-0 win over Waynesboro on July 27.

CHAD MORGAN

Was ranked the second-best pro prospect in the Clark Griffith League by Baseball America after earning all-league honors at the catcher position for the Carney Pirates ... Batted .345 in 25 games with two homers, three doubles, four triples and 21 RBIs.

LUKE PADGETT

Appeared in four games for the Staunton Braves of the Valley League ... Went 3-for-10 with a double, a home run, three RBIs and two runs scored ... Then moved to the Saratoga Phillies of the New York Collegiate League, where he hit .220 with four home runs in 20 games.

JAKE PEELING

Made 12 appearances for the Southern Collegiate League champion Tennessee Tornado ... Recorded a 3.05 ERA in 20.2 innings pitched, striking out 31 batters and allowing opponents to a .187 average.

MATHEW PRICE

Enjoyed a stellar season with the Harwich Mariners in the Cape Cod League, where he was named a mid-season all-star ... Made three starts in 12 appearances, going 2-2 with one save and a 2.97 ERA ... Struck out 34 batters in 36.1 innings of work.

BEN ROWEN

Helped lead the Cotuit Kettleers to the Cape Cod League championship series ... Appeared in 20 games, making one start ... Went 4-2 with one save and a 2.21 ERA ... Struck out 31 batters in 36.2 innings of work.

SEAN RYAN

Made 49 starts in 51 games for the Outer Banks Daredevils of the Coastal Plain League ... Batted .247 with 29 runs scored, three doubles and 13 RBIs ... Stole 10 bases.

MICHAEL SEABORN

Made 42 starts in 43 games for the Outer Banks Daredevils of the Coastal Plain League ... Batted .210 with eight doubles, one home run and 17 RBIs.

RONNIE SHABAN

Was ranked the 13th-best pro prospect in the Coastal Plain League by PG Crosschecker ... Led the Petersburg Generals of the Coastal Plain League with a .333 average ... Started all 50 games in which he played, accumulating team highs of 30 runs scored, 16 doubles, seven home runs and 38 RBIs ... Stole five bases ... Also threw 24.1 innings from the mound over nine appearances ... Went 0-2 with 27 strikeouts and just six walks ... Was a mid-season all-star and home run derby participant.

TIM SMALLING

Was named to the New England Collegiate League second team at shortstop after starting 37 games for the champion Newport Gulls ... Batted .210 with 14 doubles, three home runs and 21 RBIs.

ANTHONY SOSNOSKIE

Meet the Hokie

TONY BALISTERI #10 IF, 5-10, 170, R/R · Junior · Lexington, Va.

Hughes says: "Tony is, without question, our most athletic infielder. He is someone who can play three infield positions for us and he's also someone who has some power potential. We thought he started playing great baseball toward the end of last year, and we look for him to build on his growth as a player."

2009: Missed nearly a month with a broken hand ... Despite playing in fewer games and having fewer at bats, improved in nearly every offensive category ... Also cut down on his errors and finished third on the team with 81 assists ... Had made 18 starts (17 at second base) before suffering a broken bone in his left hand while being hit by a pitch on March 22 vs. GT ... Tallied at least one RBI in his first five games of the season, including three in three straight games vs. USC Upstate, East Tennessee State and Bucknell ... Had a nice effort in game one at Duke, going 2-for-5 with three runs scored and two RBIs ... Delivered a three-run homer at Radford ... Had three straight games with two hits in mid-March (both VMI games and the first GT game) ... Drove in his 20th and 21st runs in the first GT game, surpassing his freshman total of 19 ... At the time of his injury, was tied with Steve Domecus for the team lead with seven multiple-RBI games ... Made his return on April 15 with a start at third base at High Point ...Went 1-for-5 with a run, an RBI and a walk ... Drove in a run against High Point on April 28 ... Went 2-for-4 with a run the next day against Radford ... Went 2-for-3 with a double and two runs scored in the game-two win over Virginia.

2008: Made 32 starts at shortstop, finishing the year with a .220 average ... Committed a team-high 17 errors, but was second on the team with 79 assists ... Made his first collegiate start in the opener against Pitt and went 1-for-3 with a run scored ... Also had a hit and a run scored in the second game with the Panthers ... Walked twice and smacked a double in an extrainning loss to Coastal Carolina ... Was 2-for-3 with two RBIs in second game with CCSU ... Also had two hits in third meeting with the Blue Devils ... Had a two-run triple against JMU ... Delivered an RBI single in game one with FSU ... Had a two-run single against Longwood ... Tallied a career-high three RBIs in game two with Maryland ... Went 2-for-4 with two RBIs against VCU ... Was Fox Sports television's player of the game for game two with Wake Forest after going 3-for-5 with two runs, two RBIs and his first collegiate home run ... Also doubled in game two ... Went 2-for-3 with two runs, three RBIs and a triple at Liberty ... Went 2-for-4 in game one at Clemson with a double.

High School: Played his junior and senior seasons for Coach Paige Owens at Rockbridge County High ... Batted .482 as a senior with five home runs and 22 stolen bases, earning all-district recognition and All-Timesland honors by The Roanoke Times ... As a junior for the district champs, regional runners-up and state quarterfinalists, he hit .442 to earn the team's slugger and co-MVP awards in addition to another All-Timesland nod ... Was also selected for the Virginia Commonwealth Games in the summer of 2006 ... Played his freshman and sophomore seasons in New York, earning first-team All-Catholic honors while playing for a team ranked in the top five in the state among small schools.

Personal: Anthony Michael Balisteri, III ... Born 12/29/88 in Buffalo, N.Y. ... Son of Tony and Michelle Balisteri ... Enrolled in sociology.

Hughes says: "Matt is a kid who I respect a lot. Last year, he didn't play nearly as much as he did his first year, but he never left the goals of the team for a second. He wanted to win more than anyone else in our program, even when he sat the bench for a long time. He's going to look to factor in as a firstbase option or a left-handed bat. I'm rooting for him to win a job because he does everything right. His power potential has blossomed more than it has the past two years. He has the ability to hit the ball to all different parts of the park."

2009: Despite losing a lot of playing time in the regular season, had a strong offseason and was named the team's MVP for the fall after hitting .700 (7-for-10) with six RBIs and three doubles in the Hokie Fall World Series ... Scored once and drove in a run in the season opener against UNC Asheville ... Picked up hits in the second Wofford game and in the first USC Upstate game ... Made his first start of the year (at third base) at Radford on March 10 and went 1-for-5 with a double and a run scored ... Had a pinch-hit, RBI single in game three with GT ... Walked and scored a run in pinch-hit duty in game two at NC State ... Started game three at first base and picked up a hit before going hitless at JMU in a start at third ... Started at third in all three games of the Wake Forest series, registering a hit in each of the first two ... Scored a run in pinch-hit duty against JMU on April 8 ... Picked up a pinch hit in the first game at Florida State.

2008: Saw most of his time as a DH or as a pinch-hitter, finishing the year with a .290 average ... Saw his first action in game two against Pitt, entering the game as a pinch-hitter and moving to first base ... Singled in two at-bats ... Started as the DH in the second game with Coastal Carolina ... Picked up a key two-run single at Davidson and saw some action at third base ... Contributed a two-run double in the first Central Connecticut game ... Had another two-run double in the final game with CCSU ... Started at third against Binghamton and had two hits, an RBI and a run scored ... Hit his first home run, drove in two runs and stole a base against Fordham ... Recorded two hits against Longwood ... Doubled and stole a base in game one with Maryland, scored twice and drove in two in game two, and went 2-for-4 in game three ... Scored twice at Liberty ... Doubled in games one and three against NC State ... Had a pinch-hit single and a run scored in game 3 at Clemson ... Went 2-for-5 with three RBIs in game two with Presbyterian, including a walk-off RBI single in the bottom of the 10th.

William & Mary: Redshirted during the 2007 season before transferring to Tech.

High School: Lettered for three years under Coach John Marano at Mills E. Godwin High School ... Made the all-district team three times, as a designated hitter in 2004, a first baseman in 2005 and a utility player in 2006 ... As a senior, hit .350 with three homers and 14 doubles, while recording six saves and a 2-1 record on the mound ... As a junior, batted .342 with four home runs and 12 doubles, while going 3-1 as a pitcher for the 2005 district champions ... Also lettered for three years in basketball as a forward/center ... Other activities included National Honor Society, BETA, Peer Helpers and Key Club.

Personal: Matthew Stephen Blow ... Born 1/22/88 in Alexandria, Va. ... Son of Michael and Carol Blow, both of whom went to Tech from 1979-83 ... His sister, Katie, is a sophomore on the Hokies' tennis team ... Enrolled in residential property management.

2010 BASEBALL 25

Hughes says: "Steve returns as one of the top hitters and offensive performers in the ACC. When you look at on-base percentage, strikeout numbers, batting average and the way he runs the bases, I think he's in the top three or four guys in the league. He's also athletic enough to be one of our better defenders in the outfield, and I love him behind the plate. We're happy that he's back in our program. He'll be in the middle of our lineup, he's going to catch a bunch and he'll play a bunch in the outfield."

2009: Became the first Hokie baseball player to be named to an All-ACC team in Tech's five seasons in the league, earning second team honors as an outfielder following his first season in Blacksburg ... Was also named to the University Division All-State Baseball Second Team as chosen by the Virginia Sports Information Directors (VaSID) ... Saw very limited action over the season's final three weeks due to a broken hand ... CLARK LABITAN #41 P, 5-8, 170, R/R • Sophomore • San Diego, Calif.

Hughes says: "Clark has really improved himself physically. He had a very good summer and continued to get better. He got a lot of important innings for us last year, and like Mathew Price, we put him in a lot of situations that he probably wasn't ready for, but we needed him to be. I could see Clark being a key guy for us at the end of the game or I could see him moving into a starter's role. He's got three pitches that can go through the order a couple of times. He's definitely someone we trust and he loves to compete. His stuff has gotten better and better." 2009: Was relied on heavily as a true freshman, finishing second on the team with 22 appearances on the mound (20 in relief) ... Tied for second on the team with four wins against just one loss ... Factored into four decisions over his first seven appearances ... Took the loss against East Tennessee State on Feb. 24, but picked up the win the very next day against the Bucs after making the start and pitching two innings in a 'by-committee' outing by the Tech pitching staff ... Picked up another win on Feb. 28 after tossing a season-high three innings of relief against Bucknell ... Was credited with his third win in the victory over Radford on March 10 ... Made his second start at JMU, and though he pitched just two innings, that was predetermined, making him eligible for the win ... CHAD MORGAN # 33 C/OF, 5-11, 185, R/R • Freshman • Springfield, Va.

Hughes says: "Chad had an outstanding fall, and basically, it's going to come down to how quickly he can make the mental adjustment to playing at this level. Chad is very advanced for a freshman defensively. I have no problem catching him at this level as a freshman and that's a tough thing to do. Offensively, he definitely has the potential to hit at a high average with some power. He's a really good player, and we'll look to get him some playing time in the outfield, at the catcher position and at the DH spot."

High School: Was a four-year letterman for Coach

Billy Emerson at Paul VI, where he captained the team to a state championship as a senior while setting school records in batting average (.483), on-base percentage (.583), home runs (seven) and RBIs (34) ... Was named the Virginia Independent Schools Player of the Year, as well as to the All-Met, All-Washington Catholic Athletic Conference and All-Fairfax teams ... A member of the 2009 Baseball Clearing House All-National Team ... Helped Paul VI to the WCAC championship in 2007 and to the state playoffs in 2008 ... As a junior, batted .418 with 28 RBIs and two home runs while drawing a school-record 26 walks.

Personal: Chadwick Jonathan Morgan ... Born 2/21/91 in Detroit, Mich. ... Son of Lee and Heidi Morgan ... Enrolled in university studies.

Hughes says: "Luke is one of the top leaders in our program and he continues to overcome adversity to make himself a better player. He's basically learning how to play with vision in one eye. There's not too many more players in our program who we respect more than Luke. He's progressed far enough along to where he can compete for a right-handed DH spot."

2009: Had a limited role as he recovered from a 2008 eye injury that left him with very restricted vision in one eye ... Managed to hit .304 in 23 at bats over 17 games ... Went hitless in his first four pinch-hit appearances (Feb. 20 vs. UNC Asheville, Feb. 22 at USC Upstate, March 10 at Radford, March 15 vs. No. 1 UNC) ... Picked up his first hit since 2007 with a single in the ninth against No. 3 GT on March 22 ... Pinch-ran in two games at NC State ... Collected a pinch-hit single and scored a run in game one with Wake Forest ... Started at DH vs. JMU pn April 8 and went 0-for-1 ... Tallied a pinch-hit single in game three with Clemson and scored a run ... Recorded a pinch-hit single in the final game at Miami ... Started at DH vs. Radford on April 29 and went 2-for-4 with two runs scored ... Had an RBI single in the second Delaware State game ... Underwent left wrist surgery in the offseason.

2008: After being named MVP of the team's fall world series, suffered a serious eye injury during preseason practice and missed the entire year.

Hughes says: "We threw Matt into a lot of situations last year. He was a freshman throwing primarily on the weekend. He probably wasn't quite ready to do that, but we needed him to do that with the way our staff was. He's got stuff that is as good as anybody's in our program. We think he's improved on controlling the running game and being more consistent with the location of his fastball. He's got to learn how to be consistent and compete and have positive results even when he doesn't have his stuff. He should probably factor in as a weekend starter again for us."

2009: Was thrown into the mix as a true freshman, making 13 appearances, nine of which were starts ... Was a part of the weekend rotation for much of the season, going 3-4 with 53 strikeouts in 58.2 innings of work ... Personal: Mathew Alexander Price ... Born 7/8/89 ... Son of Mike and Kelly Price ... Enrolled in university studies.

Hughes says: "Andrew really came along in the fall and I thought he was one of our most improved players. His strikeouts were down and his power numbers were up. We look for him to play some outfield, DH or first base. He has the most power in our program and hopefully, that will translate and he can be consistent enough at the plate to get enough at bats. He's a legitimate power threat every time he steps to the plate. No one on our team has more pop than him."

2009: Did not appear in any games.

High School: Earned all-area, all-region and EN ROWEN #28 D, R/R • Senior • Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif.

Hughes says: "Along with Brandon Fisher, Ben is the most reliable guy coming out of our bullpen. We feel good about giving Ben the ball in any situation because of his ability to be ready, compete and throw strikes. He's as mentally tough as any player we have. Look for Ben to be in there at the end of the game with Fisher."

2009: Was Tech's most heavily used pitcher, appearing in 30 games out of the bullpen, including both of Tech's shutouts ... Led the team with four saves, the most by a Hokie since 2004 ... Went 4-2 with 34 strikeouts and just nine walks in 34.2

innings pitched ... Was named to the All-ACC Academic team ... Struck out four and picked up the win in his Hokie debut, allowing two hits and no runs in 1.1 innings at Wofford on Feb. 21 ... Fanned six batters over his next four appearances ... Pitched two innings in the loss to No. 3 GT on March 22 ... Was credited with his second win after tossing 1.1 innings of scoreless ball against USC Upstate on March 24 ... Earned another win in game one at NC State after pitching the final 2.2 innings and striking out three ... Also pitched the ninth in the shutout of JMU ... Struck out three batters in game one with Wake Forest ... Picked up his first two saves in the series at Maryland ... The first came in game one, as he tossed 1.2 perfect innings with two strikeouts ... The second came in 2.2 innings in game three, as he combined with two other pitchers to record Tech's second shutout of the season ... Pitched one inning in game two vs. Clemson ... Hughes says: "Offensively, I think Ronnie is outstanding. If there are two outs with men on base, I want Ronnie up, and that means he has some special qualities. We look for him to be much improved in all facets of his game. He can play the left side and he certainly showed that last year; he did a great job. His innings will jump on the mound for us. He'll get the ball late in the game because of his personality, his competitive nature and his stuff, and we want to establish that early in our season. He can hit for average, he can hit for power, he can play infield and he can provide innings out of the bullpen. He's a very versatile guy."

2009: Made an immediate impact as a true freshman ... Started a combined 45 games at first base, third base, shortstop and DH, while making six appearances as a relief pitcher ... Batted .326 with four homers, 38 RBIs and 19 doubles ... Scored two runs with his first collegiate hit as the first baseman in the first game of the Wofford doubleheader, and then struck out two batters from the mound in the nightcap ... Went 2-for-4 with two RBIs and a double in the first East Tennessee State game, and then pitched one inning, allowing two hits, in the second contest with the Bucs ... Went 4-for-8 with a double and run scored in the doubleheader with Bucknell on Feb. 27 ... Gave up his first run as a pitcher on March 6 at Duke ... Pitched a perfect inning at Radford on March 10 ... Had a four-game stretch from March 17-21 in which he went 9-for-17 with four doubles, a triple, three RBIs and five runs scored ... Was a home run shy of the cycle against VMI on March 18 ... Was named the Virginia Tech Athlete of the Week on March 23 for his accomplishments ... Had a big series at NC State, going 9-for-15 with four doubles, nine RBIs and his first collegiate home run ... Tallied career highs of four hits and four RBIs in the game-one win and was a triple shy of the cycle ... Had three hits and three RBIs in game two and two hits and two RBIs in game three ... Made his first start at shortstop at JMU ... Tallied five RBIs in game two with Wake Forest, going 3-for-5 with a homer and a double ... Added a three-run double against JMU on April 8 ... Swatted two home runs and drove in a career-high seven runs on three hits at High Point ... Also scored three times ... Went 2-for-4 with a double and a run in game one with Clemson ... Did the same against William & Mary ... Allowed three runs in two-thirds of an inning in game one with Miami, his first action on the mound in a month and a half ... Singled and scored twice in the second Miami game ... Doubled in the third game ... Doubled vs. High Point on April 28, and had a two-run single vs. Radford the next day ... Went 2-for-4 with another double in game one at Florida State ... Hughes says: "We've been waiting a year to get Tim in our lineup. We think he's a special player defensively. We also think he can have a lot of success at the plate for us. He can bring some added power to our lineup, and he is someone who has a lot of game experience at a high level of college baseball. To have him be a calming presence in our infield, where our pitchers know that a play on a routine ground ball is going to be made, is what Tim really brings to our lineup this year."

2009: Spent the season with the program but sat out as a redshirt to satisfy NCAA transfer rules.

Arkansas: Started 101 games over the 2007 and 2008 seasons for the Razorbacks before transferring to Tech ... Batted .288 as a freshman with two home runs, eight doubles and 23 RBIs ... Average dropped to .250 as a sophomore, but other numbers increased to the tune of nine homers, 14 doubles and 33 RBIs ... Also ratcheted up his defense and turned in a .967 fielding percentage.

High School: Was a two-time, first-team all-state selection at Broughton High School in Raleigh, N.C.

Personal: Timothy Robert Smalling ... Born 10/14/87 in Clifton, N.J. ... Son of Robert and Aileen Smalling ... Enrolled in public relations.

ANTHONY SOSNOSKIE #13 C, 6-0, 212, R/R • Senior • Front Royal, Va.

Hughes says: "Anthony has had a lot of experience at the catching position. He's probably played the most baseball out of anyone in our program over the past three years. I think he's really going to benefit from having such a solid core of guys at the position to rest him so he can be a better offensive player. We're not going to ask him to catch 56 games for us. We are so deep at that position that I think he'll be able to really benefit, especially toward the end of the year. I think he's gotten tired in the past and it's hurt him offensively. We expect him to do what seniors do – be a leader and a productive player for us."

2009: Started every game for Tech either at catcher, first base or DH ... Led the team with 51 runs batted in, while batting .314 and tying for second on the team with seven home runs ... Also added 18 doubles ... Had a blistering opening weekend on his way to MVP honors of the Courtyard by Marriott Classic Feb. 20-22, posting a .643 batting average, a 1.429 slugging percentage and a .750 on-base percentage ... In addition to belting three home runs in the double-header sweep of Wofford, he tallied nine hits, seven runs scored six walks and two doubles in the four games ... His efforts also earned him Virginia Tech's first ACC Player of the Week nod since 2006 and a spot on RecruitingCloser. com's national team of the week ... Continued his hot hitting with five hits over his next three games, but cooled off for a while ... Hit his fourth home run in the win at Radford on March 10 ... Had a good series against No. 3 GT by going 4-for-12 with his fifth home run, four runs scored and four RBIs ... Hit the game-winning, three-run double on March 24 against USC Upstate ... Led the team with a .667 average in the NC State series ... Walked twice with three hits and his sixth home run in game one ... Drove in a career-high five runs on a three-run double and two sac flies in game two ... Picked up two more RBIs in the win at JMU ... Went 2-for-5 with a two-run double in game one with Wake Forest ... Picked up two hits, a walk and an RBI in game three ... Walked twice and scored twice vs. JMU on April 8 ... Batted a team-high .400 with two doubles and two RBIs in the series at Maryland ... Walked three times and scored twice at High Point ... Doubled in game one with Clemson ... Had three hits in game two and doubled in game three ... Had an RBI single, two walks and two runs scored against William & Mary ... Scored once and had an RBI double at Liberty ... Picked up one hit in each of the Florida State games ... Homered and doubled as part of a 2-for-4, three-RBI effort at Davidson ... Tied a career high with four hits in the first game with Delaware State ... Doubled and had an RBI on a bases-loaded walk in game two ... Collected two sac flies in the Virginia series to give him a team-high eight on the year ... Also had an RBI single in game two and an RBI double in game three.

2008: Started 44 games at catcher ... Was second on the team with 15 doubles and 37 RBIs, and third with six home runs and a .315 average ... Hit safely in his first 10 games ... Started at DH in the second Pitt game ... Drove in two runs with three hits at Davidson ... Also scored twice in that game ... Scored three more runs in the first CCSU game ... Homered and drove in two runs in game two against the Blue Devils ... Had three hits and two RBIs during the win at Radford ... Drove in two runs with a pair of hits, including a homer, in game two at GT ... Added four more RBIs in the Fordham game ... Picked up two hits and Tech's lone RBI in game one at UNC ... Had one of Tech's two hits against the Yankees ... Doubled against BC ... Doubled twice in game two with FSU ... Went 4-for-6 at JMU with a home run and another double ... Drove in Tech's lone run during game one at UVa, and one of Tech's two runs in game two ... Tallied two hits in back-to-back games with Radford and Longwood, including three RBIs vs. the Highlanders ... Went 2-for-4 with two runs scored in each of the first two Maryland games ... Homered against VCU ... Also homered in the first two games at Wake to make it three straight ... Had four RBIs in game one and two RBIs in game two ... Doubled in each of the first two games at Clemson ... Saw his season come to an end in early May when he broke a cheekbone after getting hit in the face with a pitch in practice.

2007: Got his first collegiate start against Pittsburgh ... Doubled in his first at bat and went on to score a run ... Started against UNC Asheville and posted two hits, including a grand slam in the 10th inning ... Homered again in game two against North Carolina A&T, driving in two runs ... Was 1-for-3 at VCU ... BUDDY SOSNOSKIE #7 UTL/P, 6-1, 182, L/L • r-Sophomore • Front Royal, Va.

Hughes says: "Buddy will be competing for a position in a very crowded outfield. He also has the flexibility of playing first base. We will also look for him to give us some innings on the mound during the course of the season out of the bullpen. He's shown glimpses of a player who can hit for average and power and steal some bases. He's just got to be able to do that consistently. Hopefully, he can grow this year to be the player we recruited, which is a player who can run and hit for average with low strikeouts and some power potential."

2009: Played in 32 games, starting 24 at either first, left or DH ... Batted .234 and did not commit an error all season ... Went 2-for-6 with three runs scored in his collegiate debut against UNC Asheville in the season opener ... Missed seven games early on with a strained hamstring ... Hit his first home run in a 2-for-3 effort at Radford on March 10 ... Went 2-for-4 in the second game with No. 1 UNC and 3-for-4 with three RBIs and his first double in the first game with VMI ... Singled in game two with Wake Forest ... Went 1-for-3 with an RBI double in game two at Maryland ... Added a hit, a run and his first stolen base in game three ... Tied a career high with three hits in game three with Clemson ... Had a two-run double in game two at Miami ... Went 2-for-4 with an RBI in game two at Florida State ... Hit a three-run homer at Davidson in the ninth inning, but it was erased from ever happening after lightning struck and the game was called after eight official innings ... Tripled and scored in game one with Delaware State.

2008: Redshirted to recover from shoulder (labrum) surgery that he had in December of 2007.

High School: Earned four letters for Coach Mike Lockhart at Notre Dame Academy, helping the team to three consecutive Virginia Independent School state titles ... Was twice named a first-team all-state performer and was placed on the All-Extra second team by The Washington Post as a senior, in addition to receiving an All-Met honorable mention ... In 2007, batted .472 with six homers, 14 doubles and 48 RBIs, while also going 4-1 as a pitcher with three saves, 38 strikeouts and a 1.89 ERA ... As a junior, hit .364 with four homers and 38 RBIs, including a 5-1 record on the mound with a 2.02 ERA, two saves and 42 strikeouts ... Was a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and earned the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award.

Personal: Merritt Albert Sosnoskie ... Born 2/25/89 in Langhorne, Pa. ... Son of Tony and Marcy Sosnoskie ... Brother of catcher Anthony Sosnoskie ... Enrolled in financial planning.

Hughes says: "Austin is going to have a big year because he's so focused on winning and becoming a better baseball player for Virginia Tech. He'll play in the outfield for us and he'll play first base. Wherever we need him that day, he'll play, and he'll be very good at it. We look for him to really jump his stolen base totals up – we'll cut him loose a little more. I think his power potential, at some point, is going to take off. I think he's one of the most exciting players in our league. He's the best athlete I've ever recruited, and he's one of the better kids that I've coached, too. He's all about winning at Virginia Tech and that's why he's made the jumps he's made in the past two years. He's unselfish and he's focused on the right things."

2009: Broke out as a sophomore and ranked fourth in the ACC with a .397 average ... Led the team with 77 hits, 20 doubles, 118 total bases and a .608 slugging percentage, while adding 50 runs scored, three triples and five homers ... Also swiped 16 bases in 17 attempts ... JUSTIN WRIGHT #24 P, 5-9, 174, L/L • Junior • Montclair, Va.

Hughes says: "Justin has been our most steady performer on the mound. A lot of people don't know how many injuries he pitched through last year. He was never really healthy and he still had some quality wins for our program. He's a guy who you put out there on the weekends and you feel really good about when you give him the ball going into the game. I don't care who we play – when he has the ball in his hands, I feel really good about him pitching us into the seventh. I think he's our top guy and we're going to rely on him a lot over the course of the year. He's a winner, we think he can handle a lot, and we're going oreibility."

to give him a lot of responsibility."

2009: Was Tech's most reliable starter, going 7-2 with a 3.95 earned run average in 12 starts, with a complete game ... Struck out 59 and walked 17 in 66 innings of work ... Had a rough outing in his first start, allowing 10 hits and seven runs (six earned) in four innings, but got away with a no decision ... Picked up the win with a very strong outing in the second Bucknell game, throwing seven innings of shutout ball, while striking out a then career-high nine batters ... Pitched 3.2 innings in a no-decision at Duke on March 17, allowing three runs on six hits and four walks ... Took his first loss on March 15 against No. 1 UNC, though he threw just four pitches before leaving the game with a strained hamstring ... Was responsible for the game's first base runner, who scored, and UNC never trailed after that ... Missed his next start before returning for game three of the NC State series ... Was solid, striking out four in 5.1 innings while allowing just five hits, one walk and two runs (one earned) ... Led the Hokies to a win in game three vs. Wake Forest by throwing his second career complete game, striking out eight, while scattering eight hits and two runs and walking zero ... Picked up his third win by tossing seven innings in game two at Maryland, allowing three runs on four hits and four strikeouts ... Took a perfect game into the fifth inning against Clemson on April 18 ... Wound up pitching eight innings, allowing just two runs (one earned) on six hits and two walks ... Struck out five and earned his fourth win of the season ... Was dominant in a game-two victory over No. 11 Miami, striking out a career-high 10 batters over eight innings ... Walked just one batter and scattered seven hits in allowing two runs, earning ACC Pitcher of the Week honors for his effort ... Didn't have the same success at Florida State, taking the loss after allowing six runs on eight hits over four innings ... Picked up his sixth win after striking out seven over four no-hit innings in game two with Delaware State ... Earned his seventh win by tossing 5.2 innings in a start against Virginia on May 15 ... Allowed five runs (four earned) on nine hits and three walks while striking out four.

2008: Was arguably the team's biggest surprise, posting an ERA of 4.16 that was best among Tech's starters ... Like Rhett Ballard, made the move from reliever to starter midway through the season ... Finished with a 4-0 record and was second on the team with 57 strikeouts ... Also posted a save ... Highlight of the season came when he tossed a complete game to upset No. 1 Miami late in the year ... Came in to face one batter in game one against Coastal Carolina ... Gave up a hit and was charged with one unearned run ... Saved the day at Davidson, coming into a bases-loaded jam with no outs in the third inning and Tech already trailing 8-3 ... Allowed just one of the inherited runners to score and posted four shutout innings while the Hokies rallied ... Gave up just three hits, while striking out seven batters and walking just one ... Worked 1.2 innings of relief at Radford ... Allowed an unearned run on one hit ... Struck out two batters and did not have a walk ... Saw brief relief duty in the last two games with GT ... Pitched 2.1 innings against JMU, allowing one run on one hit ... Appeared in all three games at UNC, and allowed two runs on a walk in game one ... Pitched 2.1 scoreless innings in game two with FSU, and one scoreless frame in game three ... Allowed three runs at JMU ... Earned his first collegiate win against Radford on April 1, as he shut down the Highlanders to the tune of seven strikeouts with only one hit and one walk in 3.2 scoreless innings ... Earned his first save in game one with Maryland ... Tied his career high of seven strikeouts in four innings of relief in game two ... Made his first start against VCU, and allowed just one hit in 2.1 innings of work ... Was credited with the win in game two at Wake after entering in the third and throwing 4.1 innings of shutout ball ... Started game two with NC State and tied a season-high with 4.1 innings pitched ... Struck out three while walking four and giving up five hits and three runs ... Pitched a career-high 5.2 innings in a start in game two at Clemson ... Tossed five more innings in a start in game two with Presbyterian, striking out five on four hits and a walk ... Threw a complete game in just his fifth-career start to upset No. 1 Miami ...

Allowed nine hits, four walks and six runs, but tied a personal best with seven strikeouts in a 132-pitch effort ... Went eight innings on 110 pitches, fanning four, to defeat Duke in the penultimate game of the season.

High School: Lettered for three seasons under coaches Jerry Mobley and John Colantuoni at Forest Park High School ... Was named the district, regional and allarea player of the year following a senior season in which he went 11-0 with two saves, 95 strikeouts and a 0.84 ERA in 73 innings pitched ... Also batted .349 as a first baseman/outfielder, earning second-team all-state and first-team allmetro and All-Examiner honors ... Went 8-1 with 115 strikeouts and a 1.03 ERA in 67.2 innings as a junior, and was named the district, all-area and All-Examiner Player of the Year ... Also tossed two no-hitters and batted .389, getting named first-team all-region, in addition to honorable mentions on the all-metro and all-state teams ... His team won the district championship for the second time in 2007, in addition to being runner-up in the region and making it to the state semifinals ... Went 3-1 with a 1.15 ERA and 43 strikeouts as a sophomore ... Was also involved in FBLA, Key Club, SCA 2007 and Learn and Serve.

Hughes says: "I think we're just going to focus on Marc being a pitcher here. I want him to have fewer things on his agenda. I just think he's going to be able to reach his potential as a pitcher more quickly if he has fewer things on his plate. We think he has the ability to be really good. He's got the stuff, and he just needs to settle in there, learn from experience and get better. We expect him to make a big jump for us this year."

2009: Served as a two-way player in his first season, starting 12 games at first base and five on the mound ... Was solid as a starter in his Hokie pitching debut against East Tennessee State on Feb. 24, striking out five in six innings of Whether in the classroom or on the court, expectations placed on Virginia Tech student-athletes remain consistently high year after year. In collaboration with the Tech Athletics Department, Student-Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS) works tirelessly to help Hokie student-athletes achieve their full potential, both on and off the field. Services available include tutors, study assistance, computer and technology aid as well as individual skill development programs. In addition, SAASS integrates its services with those of the Virginia Tech community, assisting students in arranging appointments with various University departments, such as their academic advisors, the Registrar, the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid, dean's offices, Career Services, Cook Counseling Center, Cranwell International Center and the Center for Academic Enrichment and Excellence. The department is committed to providing a comprehensive academic and personal development program for studentathletes, offering academic counseling in combination with university academic advising to ensure students receive a complete system of support.

Each team at Virginia Tech is assigned an academic counselor to coordinate individualized support efforts for every team member. Together, SAASS department members assist approximately 500 student-athletes in all areas of academic assistance, from freshman orientation to course selection to career counseling and planning.

In addition, student-athletes have access to the department's spacious facilities, located in the West Side of Lane Stadium. Opened during the 2006-07 academic year, the SAASS suite, located in the Quillen Family Academic Center, features 18 private tutor rooms, a state-of-the art classroom, a 36-station computer lab with printer access, a conference room, three guiet areas for reading and studying and a reference library. The office is available between classes, after practice and in the evenings, while hours of operation are flexible and may be tailored to maximize the student-athlete's limited time. The collection of SAASS programs housed in Lane Stadium guarantees that all student-athletes, regardless of their personal backgrounds, talents and interests, achieve success during their time at Virginia Tech.

SAASS MISSION AND PROGRAMS

The Virginia Tech Student Athlete Academic Support Services office is committed to providing fundamental and supplemental programming, consistent with University and NCAA policy, aimed at enhancing each student-athlete's educational experience. Following is a summary of the programs SAASS offers:

ATHLETIC TRANSITIONS All Freshman Student-Athletes

A required course designed to ease the transition from high school to college.

ORIENTATION

All Freshman and Transfer Student-Athletes Team and individual orientation sessions are scheduled.

TUTORING

All Student-Athletes

Individual and group tutoring appointments are available on-site.

ADVISING-COUNSELING All Student-Athletes

SAASS works closely with each student's academic advisor within the college of their major.

ACADEMIC PROGRESS All Freshman and Transfer Student-Athletes

Academic progress reports are sent from the student-athlete's professors to his or her athletic academic advisors twice each semester.

SAASS COMPUTER LAB All Student-Athletes

The lab is a computer integrated learning environment conveniently located in Lane Stadium.

ACADEMIC RECOGNITION Qualified Student-Athletes

Student athletes with a GPA of 3.0 and above are recognized at the end of each semester as members of the Athletic Directors Honor Roll.

STUDY HALL

All Freshman Student-Athletes and Upperclassmen with a GPA Below the Team Requirement

Study Hall is mandatory for all freshmen, transfers, and currently-enrolled students with an overall GPA below 2.30.

ACADEMIC AND ATHLETIC ELIGIBILITY All Student-Athletes

Academic records are monitored to ensure that all student-athletes are making progress towards their degree.

JERMAINE HOLMES

Director of Student-Athlete Support Services

Jermaine Holmes is in his second year at Virginia Tech as the director of Student-Athlete Academic Support Services. As director, Holmes provides leadership for SAASS and, along with a staff of 10, oversees the development and execution of programs aimed to help Hokie student-athletes balance their academic and athletic demands and achieve success in both areas.

A former Hokie himself, Holmes was a member of the Tech football squad from 1991-1996 and also served as director of Student Life at Virginia Tech before taking an athletic academic counselor position at Cal State Fullerton.

Holmes returned to Tech in January of 2009 after serving as assistant director of Student-Athlete Support Services at The Ohio State University. He began his time with the Buckeyes in 2004 as an athletic academic counselor and was promoted to assistant director of a support unit that served nearly 1,000 student-athletes. Holmes most recently managed that department's day-to-day activities, office operations, facilities and staff, in addition to overseeing the academic support programs for all studentathletes and serving as the academic counselor for Ohio State's football and track programs.

Holmes resides in Blacksburg with his wife LaTanya and son Aiden, born September 2009.

GREG BEATTY Assistant Director SAASS

Greg Beatty is in his second year with Student Athlete Academic Support Services as an assistant director.

He provides all academic support services to make the baseball team as successful in the classroom as it is on the field. During the academic year, he monitors the athletes' academic progress in every class and also has one-on-one meetings with students when difficulties arise; such as school-related issues, adjusting to a new environment or helping the student-athlete find the right career path. In addition to baseball, he also serves as the advisor for the women's soccer, golf, wrestling and lacrosse teams.

Beatty attended the University of North Carolina, where he majored in business administration. After graduating, he worked for several years at UNC as a financial aid counselor before attending graduate school at the University of Texas, where he received his masters of education with a concentration in sport management. While at Texas, Beatty served many roles in the Athletics Student Services Office including study hall monitor, tutor, mentor and academic counselor.

During the 2007-08 academic year, Beatty completed an internship at North Carolina State University in the Academic Support Program for Student Athletes where he worked with the men's basketball and women's soccer teams.

COMPUTER SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Another example of Virginia Tech's commitment to providing its student-athletes with the best academic resources possible is the presence of the Computer Services department, under the direction of Tommy Regan and Chris Mayer.

Because all Tech students are required to own computers, the Virginia Tech athletics department helps its scholarship athletes fulfill that requirement by providing them with computers.

In addition to ordering computers for the athletes, the office also addresses computer service needs for the student-athletes and the entire Virginia Tech athletics staff.

TERRY MITCHELL Assistant Director for Strength & Conditioning

Terry Mitchell, the assistant director for strength and conditioning, is in his ninth year working with Virginia Tech. A graduate of Lee University, Mitchell earned his master's in community health promotions from Virginia Tech in 2004. He is an NSCA certified strength and conditioning specialist and holds various certifications from U.S. Weightlifting and the Cooper Institute.

Off-season strength workouts consists of dynamic flexibility, speed, agility, strength training and mobility work. Mitchell uses an integrated approach inseason, where each training session involves some aspect of the components so players will not lose the benefits of offseason training.

> Mitchell is a national level powerlifter and frequently competes in competitions along the East coast. He currently holds the drug free, Master's national and world record in the bench press event, which he set at the American Powerlifting Federation nationals in April 2006 with a lift of 529 pounds. He also placed second in the Master's division 220-pound weight class for the combined powerlifting competition that consists of the squat, bench and deadlift totals combined.

Mitchell is married to the former Terri Thompson, who serves as assistant vice president and controller for the Virginia Tech Foundation, Inc.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

There's much more to athletic performance than weight training. Always striving to be on the cutting edge, Virginia Tech has combined strength and conditioning with nutrition and sport psychology to the benefit of its student-athletes. At Tech, these areas are part of the student-athlete's preparation for game day and for life.

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

Thanks to the direction of Assistant Athletics Director for Athletic Performance Dr. Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech strength and conditioning program is among the best in the nation.

The baseball team trains in the Jim "Bulldog" Haren Weight Room. Located in Jamerson Athletic Center, the 5,000-square foot weight room was officially dedicated in September 1985 in honor of Haren, a former Hokie football player and long-time supporter of the Virginia Tech Athletics Department. Altogether, Tech has more than 22,000-square feet of strength and conditioning training space.

Gentry, who received his doctorate in curriculum and instruction from Virginia Tech in 1999, is in his 23rd year as the director of strength and conditioning. His duties include overseeing the strength and conditioning training of athletes in all 21 varsity sports at Virginia Tech. He is aided by five full-time assistants.

Director of Strength and Conditioning for Olympic Sports Terry Mitchell, who worked in the Texas Rangers' farm system, serves as the full-time performance coach of the baseball team. Mitchell is a 1994 graduate of Lee (Tenn.) University, and he earned a master's in health promotions at Tech in 2004.

NUTRITION

Eating healthy and choosing nutritious diets are important aspects of a Virginia Tech student-athlete's life and that's why in July 2002, the athletics department implemented the sports nutrition program. Amy Freel serves as the director.

Freel works individually with student-athletes to provide them with information they need on their diet. She provides individual players with diet counseling on issues such as gaining lean muscle mass, losing body fat, and eating choices to improve performance.

She also designs preseason menus, snacks and training table menus for the baseball team.

"It is extremely beneficial for our student-athletes to have nutrition education and counseling available to them in order for them to remain successful in their sports and outside of athletics," Freel said. "The individualized nutrition education allows the athletes and me to get very specific on their nutritional, personal and sport-specific goals."

Also in July 2002, the Virginia Tech Athletics Department purchased the BodPod body composition system. Tech is one of a handful of college athletic departments using this type of technology. The BodPod is found in many professional training facilities, such as the NFL and Major League Baseball. It accurately measures body composition (percent of body fat, lean muscle mass and fat mass) through air displacement within five minutes. Research has shown that an increase in lean muscle mass will increase athletic performance. The Sports Nutrition Program has helped countless Tech athletes maximize their athletic performance.

SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

Virginia Tech offers another important service to all of its student-athletes – sport psychology. Dr. Gary Bennett coordinates the sport psychology department, which offers psychological and performance enhancement services for student-athletes. Bennett also works closely with the Cook Counseling Center.

Bennett meets with student-athletes on an individual basis for personal counseling and to discuss the mental aspects of the game. He also works on team building, communication and performance enhancement.

"I've always felt that sport psychology was an important element," Gentry said. "We want to be a holistic model of an athletics department, and we wanted to and needed to include sport psychology in that model."

"We try to address all the various factors that affect student-athletes' performance on and off the field," Bennett said. "We believe we can help athletes perform better by addressing those concerns."

The sport psychology department also offers an injury group to afford injured athletes the opportunity to meet with other injured athletes and talk about their recovery process. Injured athletes may also meet individually with the sport psychologists. On average, the psychologists conduct 20 individual sessions per week and meet weekly with teams as the need arises.

One of the sport psychology resources is the Dynavision 2000, a unique conditioning and training program designed to increase focus and concentration, improve coordination and visuomotor reactions and increase peripheral awareness. Virginia Tech is privileged to be one of only a handful of schools with this cutting-edge technology.

The response to the sport psychology program has been positive. The student-athletes are very receptive to the services offered by the doctors. The sport psychology office reaches out to athletes who may not have considered going to the counseling service that is offered to all students at Virginia Tech.

"It is a great resource for our coaches and our athletes," Gentry said. "We've improved a lot in areas of strength and conditioning, nutrition and in sport psychology. It's all about becoming a well-rounded athletic program and helping student-athletes. We want to give them all the resources we can, to put them in a position to be successful."

AMY FREEL Sports Nutritionist

Amy Freel enters her 8th year as the sports nutritionist in the Virginia Tech Athletics Department. Prior to serving as the nutritionist, she served as the coordinator of student life for a little more than two years.

In 2005, she was named the Young Dietitian of the Year by the Virginia Dietetic Association for her work as the nutritionist in the Tech athletics department.

Freel, a native of Glen Ellyn, Ill., received her undergraduate degree in dietetics in 1996 from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., while competing in gymnastics for four years. She became a registered dietitian in 1997 and earned her master's degree in dietetics from Ball State in 1998.

After graduation, Freel served as a clinical dietitian at the Lewis-Gale Medical Center for a year-and-a-half before coming to Tech in September of 1999. She became the full-time director of sports nutrition in July 2002.

Freel and her husband Mike live in Blacksburg and have four children Ben (8), Matt (7), Ashley (3) and Luke (1).

Representation and Alter sectors and a sector where a state of the sector is the sector.

DR. GARY BENNETT Sport Psychologist

Dr. Gary Bennett is in his 11th year as the sport psychologist for the Virginia Tech Athletics Department.

The Lexington, Ky., native began working at Virginia Tech in 1995 at the Cook Counseling Center. In addition to seeing students in therapy, Bennett has taught and supervised pre-doctoral level interns.

In athletics, Bennett also serves on the committees for nutrition, performance and substance abuse; and the planning committee for the "Summit for Student-Athlete Success" events. The 49-year-old also does work with various teams in the area of performance enhancement.

Bennett received a B.A., in English from Centre (Ky.) College in 1981, where he played baseball. He was awarded a master's in rehabilitation counseling from the University of Kentucky in 1988 and received a Ph.D., in counseling psychology from UK in 1995. Bennett is licensed as a clinical psychologist and has additional training in sport psychology. He is a member of the Association of Applied Sport Psychology, as well as the American Psychological Association's Division 47 (Exercise and Sport Psychology).

Bennett lives in Blacksburg and enjoys playing golf and basketball, as well as hiking and skiing, in his spare time.

STUDENT LIFE

The Virginia Tech Athletics Office of Student Life is under the direction of Reyna Gilbert, the assistant athletic director for student life, who came to Tech from Nova Southeastern University in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Assisting Gilbert is coordinator of student life, Danny White.

The programs and services implemented by the Virginia Tech Athletics Office of Student Life are inspired by the NCAA/CHAMPS (Challenging Athletes' Minds for Personal Success) Life Skills Program. The program was honored for its commitment to serving the good of the student-athletes by the Division I-A Athletic Director's Association in 2006-2007 as a Program of Excellence.

STUDENT ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Student Athlete Advisory Committee is a committee made up of student-athletes assembled to provide insight on the student-athlete experience. VT SAAC also offers input on the rules, regulations and policies that affect student-athletes' lives on NCAA member institution campuses. Two members from each sport team serve on SAAC each academic year. The leadership team during 2009-2010 is Tim Miller (wrestling), president; Sarah Ameen (women's swimming), vice-president; and Kelly Phillips (women's track), secretary.

Highlights from the 2008-2009 year include the second annual Relay for Life dodge ball tournament, third annual Brother/Sister toy drive competition among sports teams for the Montgomery County Christmas Store, which collected over 1, 000 toys, and a canned food drive competition collecting over 4,000 lbs of food items for the local food banks. Members of SAAC also rode on stationary bikes for a total of 250 miles in two hours for Bike to Uganda to help raise awareness and funds to build and support educational infrastructure projects for vulnerable children in sub-Saharan Africa.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

In October 2008, Virginia Tech student-athletes welcomed Linda Hancock to campus, director of the Wellness Resource Center at Virginia Commonwealth University. Hancock provided an interactive and engaging program on alcohol education and sexual responsibility using personal response systems (clickers) to record student responses to questions. Student-athletes celebrated National Student-Athlete for three weeks through Coach for College, a global initiative to promote higher education through sports.

Each fall semester, all freshmen and transfer student-athletes are required to attend the Sexual Assault

Facts & Education (S.A.F.E.) Workshop. This program, presented by staff members from the Office of Student

Conduct, Virginia Tech Women's Center, and Blacksburg Police focuses on sexual assault, relationship violence,

In an effort to better assist Virginia Tech studentathletes in reaching their career goals, the Athletics

Office of Student Life has created the Career Game

Plan. This program is intended to focus on a different aspect of career development each year of student-athlete's career at Virginia Tech, essentially serving as stepping stones on their path to post graduate success. The Office of Student Life works with Becca

Scott in the Virginia Tech Career Services Center to create programs designed to help student-athletes fill their career development "play book" with information that will help them achieve post-graduate success.

Student-athletes are encouraged to take advantage of Go2Athelte, an online career networking resource, as well as participate in on-campus interviewing and

Day with a presentation from five-time Olympic for academic honors and awards. Athletes swimming medalist and motivational speaker, Josh are nominated for on-campus, Atlantic Coast Conference and national awards. Student-athletes Men's soccer student-athlete Taylor Walsh, along with a 3.0 GPA are rewarded each semester by with women's soccer players Robin Chidester and being honored on the Athletic Director's Honor Ashley Seldon, and former Hokie women's soccer Roll. The 2008 calendar year listed 342 studentgoalie Ashley Owens traveled to Hoa An, Vietnam athletes with this honor.

> Kelly Phillips (women's track & field) and Pedro Graber (men's tennis) received the Skelton Award for Academic Excellence in Athletics which is given to one male and one female studentathlete who demonstrate leadership, outstanding academic excellence and community involvement. The recipients of the award receive a $5,000 scholarship donated by the late Dr. Bill Skelton and his wife Peggy.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Virginia Tech student-athletes were involved more than ever in the local community. During the 2008 academic year, Virginia Tech student-athletes reached almost 5,500 youth through community involvement. Having volunteered hundreds of hours annually in local schools, community groups and hospitals, the student-athletes are setting a high precedent for all involved with the program. Each athletic team has a community partner with which it volunteers time and hosts at a home game to honor the partnership program. Annual community outreach initiatives include the Margaret Beeks Elementary School Hokie Night, Montgomery County Christmas Store, Winning Choices Week and Scouting Day with the Hokies. Six student-athletes were awarded the ACC Top Six for Service Award for their contribution to volunteering on campus and in the surrounding communities. The baseball team partners with both the Special Olympics and with Caring Bridge, a program that pairs volunteers with terminally ill children.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The Sports Medicine Department at Virginia Tech is always evolving to incorporate new ideas utilizing state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of all Hokie student-athletes. Under the leadership of Assistant Director of Athletics for Athletic Training Mike Goforth, the department is constantly improving and developing new strategies to provide the most current and comprehensive care.

Their team of certified athletic trainers, orthopaedic surgeons, Board Certified primary care physicians, chiropractors, physical therapists, sport psychologists, nutritionists, massage therapists and orthotists are available on site to manage the health care needs of Tech athletes. The staff continually looks for ways to enhance the services provided for their athletes as evidenced by their participation in local and national projects.

Tech is entering its ninth full year in the 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room, which consolidated the training rooms that existed in the Merryman Center and Cassell Coliseum. The facility gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes. There is top-of-the-line equipment and a unique style of architecture, developed by Glenn Reynolds, AIA and Larry Perry as the consulting engineer.

The Ferrell Training Room nearly doubled the size of the former Merryman Center facility. Tech now has more than 10,000 square feet dedicated to sports medicine, placing in the top five percent nationally. The $10 million Merryman Center includes 2,400 square feet of medical space and a physician's suite. The suite is equipped with a new, state-of-the-art X-ray system, a fluoroscopy unit and a minor procedure room. The training room also has offices for the staff, dozens of training tables, two cold tubs, whirlpools, an underwater treadmill, a Biodex System 3 and various other pieces of rehabilitation equipment and treatment modalities.

After the sports medicine staff diagnoses and treats an ill or injured athlete, the staff starts collaborating with the strength and conditioning staff to provide the best injury prevention and performance enhancing programs possible.

The range of benefits that athletes have access to includes custom orthotics, custom mouth guards, specialized DonJoy prophylactic bracing and many other options to help prevent or protect them from injuries.

The sports medicine staff also takes great pride in treating the athletes year-round. Special attention is paid to off-season activity. During this time, the staff will analyze past injury data from each participant and construct a preventative program that is followed over a nine-week period between the end of the season and the beginning of spring practice. This same procedure is followed during the summer.

"We value the off-season greatly within our department," Goforth said. "We have adopted the same mindset as our strength and conditioning staff. We look at our off-season time as an opportunity to get our athletes better as opposed to time off for our staff."

If physical therapy is needed, student-athletes can be seen by physical therapists Mark Piechoski in the Ferrell Training Room. Piechoski, a certified athletic trainer, physical therapist and strength and conditioning specialist, plays a large role in the overall program developed to return an injured athlete back to 100 percent. In addition, staff sport psychologist Dr. Gary Bennett is available to all student-athletes for personal and performance issues. Team chiropractors, Dr. Greg Tilley and Dr. Dale Reynolds, provide Tech athletes with specialized treatment for spine-related conditions and play a huge role in performance enhancement through various chiropractic techniques.

"Our goal is to provide the same high level of health care that professional and Olympic athletes receive," Goforth continued. "Our usage of specialist care is modeled after the NFL system and incorporates components of the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs."

Team orthopaedic surgeons Dr. Jim LeBolt and Dr. Demian Yakel bring a wealth of experience and skill to assist when athletes need orthopaedic consultation for certain types of sports-related injuries.

A vital part of student-athlete medical services is access to the Montgomery Regional Hospital's SWVA Center for Orthopaedics and Schiffert Student Health Center. Both facilities are staffed with qualified physicians and staff, and feature a wide variety of technologies designed to increase the level of care available to athletes.

Tech also maintains a special relationship with Montgomery Regional Hospital. Montgomery Regional Hospital is the choice for state-of-theart equipment to perform surgeries, diagnostic imaging and processing of laboratory requests.

Certified athletic trainer John Shifflett works directly with the baseball team, attending practices and traveling with the team.

Located just behind Rector Field House and adjacent to the Johnson-Miller Outdoor Track is English Field (right), home of the Hokies' baseball team, which hosted the New York Yankees in an exhibition on March 18, 2008.

One of the benefits of the Virginia Tech athletics complex is its centrality – all the facilities are near one another while still being on campus. Situated just across the street from Lane Stadium/Worsham Field, Tech Softball Park (left) is the home of the Hokie softball team; which was ACC champions in 2007 and 2008 and advanced to the Women's College World Series in 2008.

The Burrows-Burleson Tennis Center offers six indoor courts and six hard outdoor courts for the use of the Virginia Tech men's and women's tennis teams and features new scoreboards.

The Pete Dye River Course of Virginia Tech, where the Hokies' 2007 ACC champion golf team practices and plays, was voted the fourth-best course among the "Best New Remodels" by Golf Digest in 2006.

Rector Field House boasts one of the most impressive indoor tracks in the country. With six lanes, eight dash lanes and various other areas for jumping and throwing, the facility plays host to exciting meets for Virginia Tech's ndoor track and field team. The field house also serves as the indoor practice facility for football.

The women's soccer team advanced to the NCAA Tournament the last two years.

<complex-block>

The Hokies have seen their success and visibility grow immensely over the past few years. For the ever-growing legion of Tech fans, the most exciting part is that the future looks even brighter.

On July 1, 2004, Virginia Tech officially became a member of the prestigious Atlantic Coast Conference - a move that has already helped the Hokie athletics program grow even stronger.

Tech competes at the Division I level of the NCAA, and with a total of 21 varsity sports, 11 for men and 10 for women, Virginia Tech provides generous opportunities for athletes (and fans) to get in the Hokie huddle.

Tech's nationally known football team has had unprecedented success over the past decade. The Hokies have played in 17 consecutive bowl games. In 2009, Tech won 10 games for the sixth consecutive season, including the Chick-fil-A Bowl in Atlanta over the Tennessee Volunteers. The Hokies have won the ACC Championship three times, including back-to-back titles in 2007 and 2008 – after taking the title in 2004, its inaugural season in the league. The Hokies also won BIG EAST Championships in 1995, 1996 and 1999, and played for the National Championship in the 2000 Nokia Sugar Bowl.

The women's basketball team has advanced to the postseason 12 times in the past 16 years. The men's basketball team competed in the NCAA tournament in 2007 and in NIT three times in the past five years, advancing to the 2008 NIT quarterfinals.

The women's track team captured the ACC Indoor and Outdoor Championships in 2007 and 2008, while the men's tennis team advanced to the NCAA Tournament in 2009 for the third straight year.

In the fall of 2007, the men's soccer program had its most successful season ever by advancing to the NCAA College Cup. The softball team advanced to the NCAA tournament for the fourth consecutive season and made its firstever appearance at the Women's College World Series in Oklahoma City, Okla., led by National Player of the year, Angela Tincher.

Additionally, the softball squad won both the 2007 ACC regular season and tournament titles, and also captured the 2008 tournament crown.

The women's soccer team reached the postseason for the first time in its history during 2004 and earned the ACC sportsmanship award in 2005. The Hokies have advanced to the NCAA Tournament in both 2008 and 2009.

In 2001, the Hokie golf team won a nation's best six tournaments, including the BIG EAST Golf Championship, and went on to record an eighth-place finish at the 2001 NCAA Golf Championship. In 2007, the Hokies tied for the ACC tournament title and last year advanced to the NCAA Regionals once again as senior standout Drew Weaver was named First Team All-Conference.

In 2009, the wrestling program had its share of inspiring victories, knocking off nationally ranked opponents, including No. 17 Michigan in Ann Arbor and No. 6 Central Michigan in Mount Pleasant. It sent a school-record eight wrestlers to the NCAA Championships and finished 15th in the country as a dual meet team.

Many individuals within the athletic programs have also participated in NCAA postseason competition in recent years, including Hokies from wrestling, tennis, swimming, golf, cross country and track & field. Cross country runner Tasmin Fanning earned All-America honors for the second straight year in 2008, claiming third place in the nation's biggest race and earning the highest finish for a Tech runner in program history.

In 2005, Spyridon Jullien won NCAA titles in the indoor weight throw and the outdoor hammer throw, bringing the school its firstever NCAA Championships in any sport. During Jullien's senior year, he again won the weight throw during the indoor season and captured the hammer throw title at the NCAA Outdoor Championships.

To follow up, Marcel Lomnicky took home a national title in the hammer throw event at the 2009 NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships with a throw of 235 feet, 6 inches. He also won two ACC titles and an NCAA East Regional crown and earned All-America honors in the weight throw event at the NCAA indoor championship meet.

Among other 2009 track and field accomplishments, Queen Harrison, who participated in the 2008 Olympic Games, was named the ACC Women's Performer of the Year after winning ACC crowns in the 100-meter and 400-meter hurdles at the outdoor conference meet. Will Mulherin and Abby Schaffer both captured ACC Freshman of the Year awards, as Mulherin took gold in the 5,000-meters at the outdoor championships, while Schaffer won the women's pole vault title at the indoor championships with a clearance of 13-05.25, the 15th-best height in the nation.

Men's swimmer Kaan Tayla was the 2008 ACC champion in the men's 50- and 100-freestyle, was named to the Turkish Olympic Swimming and Diving team and competed in the 2008 Olympics in Beijing, China. Tayla was the 2007 Turkish National Champion in the 50, 100 and 200 freestyle events.

Prior to joining the ACC, Virginia Tech was a charter member of the BIG EAST Football Conference since 1991, and a member of the BIG EAST in all other sports except wrestling from 2001 to 2004.

Bold indicates this year's opponents.

Since Virginia Tech fielded its first baseball team in 1892, the Hokies have compiled an overall record of 1,908 victories, 1,313 losses and 26 ties in 116 seasons (no teams in 1894 and 1899) - a winning mark of 59 percent. Tech has suffered just five losing seasons over the past 44 years and has averaged 34 wins a season over the last 29 years. Here is year-by-year look at the past 60 seasons of Tech's results, from 1950 to the present:

2010 BASEBALL

HOKIE HIGHLIGHTS

FIRST BASEBALL NUMBER RETIRED

The familiar No.1 will no longer be seen on a baseball jersey at Virginia Tech. Hall of Fame coach Chuck Hartman's jersey and number were retired during a special ceremony on Sept. 22, 2006. Hartman retired from coaching in June of 2006, following 28 seasons at Virginia Tech and 47 seasons on the collegiate level. His number is the first baseball number to be retired at Tech.

Hartman earned the highest recognition a collegiate coach can receive when he was inducted into the American Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame during the ABCA 2004 annual convention in San Antonio, Texas. The honor came just a little over a year after his induction into the Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame in November 2002 and was magnified by the fact that he was already a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Hall of Fame.

Hartman's overall coaching record of 1,444-816-8 places him fifth in all-time wins among Division I baseball coaches. His final record at Tech was 961-591-8. He became Tech's winningest baseball coach in 1987 and guided Tech to more victories than any other coach during the university's athletic history.

YANKEES GIVE HOKIES A DAY TO REMEMBER

March 18, 2008, was a special day not only for Hokie baseball, but for Virginia Tech as a whole. That was the day that professional sports' most recognizable franchise, the New York Yankees, visited Blacksburg to help the community's ongoing healing process from the campus tragedy of April 16, 2007.

Over 100 members of the media were in town to chronicle one of the most unique events in Tech or Yankee history, an exhibition game for which 5,311 fans crammed into English Field for a day of remembrance of what was, and for a celebration of what is yet to come.

After an emotional visit to the campus memorial, the Yankees decided to honor Tech's fallen and connect with Tech's future by doing what they do best - playing the game of baseball. What happened at English Field that day was not just an 11-0 victory by the Yankees, but a special moment shared between grown men who've realized their dreams, young men who still have a chance to reach theirs, and thousands of fans who got to witness it while imagining theirs.

FIRST BASEBALL JERSEY RETIRED

Virginia Tech retired the jersey of former Tech baseball great Johnny Oates on May 4, 2002, during a special ceremony prior to a double-header against Connecticut at English Field.

Oates was presented with a framed jersey in recognition of the honor and a special display with his name and number has been placed on the outfield wall. Oates' jersey is the first baseball jersey to be retired by Virginia Tech. His number 15 remains available to future Tech players.

Oates came to Blacksburg in 1965 and was an outstanding catcher for the Virginia Tech baseball team. He hit .410 in 1966 and .342 in 1967 before signing with the Baltimore Orioles after his junior season. Oates spent 11 seasons in the major leagues as a player, seeing action in two World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers and one with the New York Yankees. After retiring as a player in 1981, Oates tried his hand at coaching and went on to become the major league manager of the Baltimore Orioles and the Texas Rangers.

Oates was inducted into the Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame in 1983. He died Dec. 24, 2004.

RIPKEN BEGINS TRADITION WITH BASEBALL NIGHT IN BLACKSBURG

Baseball icon Cal Ripken, Jr., was the keynote speaker at the baseball team's fundraising banquet, the inaugural Baseball Night in Blacksburg, in February of 2008. The former Baltimore Orioles legend kicked off an event that included dinner, drinks, silent and live auctions, and served as a way to celebrate Virginia Tech baseball with members of the local community.

Hall of Famer Jim Palmer continued the tradition at the event's second go-around in 2009, and former Hokie and two-time Major League all-star Mike Williams did the honors in 2010.

HOKIE STONE

Hokie Stone is used to construct most of the buildings on the beautiful Tech campus. This natural rock is 475-million-year-old dolomite limestone, mined from a quarry located less than a mile from Cassell Coliseum.

In constructing the buildings at Tech, a stone mason shapes individual stones, arranges them and cements them together with mortar to create walls of great strength and durability.

WHAT IS A HOKIE?

That's the most often-asked question in Virginia Tech athletics. The answer leads all the way back to 1896 when Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute. With the change came the necessity for writing a new cheer and a contest for such a purpose was held by the student body. Senior O.M. Stull won first prize for his "Hokie" yell which still is used today. Later, when asked if "Hokie" had any special meaning, Stull explained the word was solely the product of his imagination and was used only as an attention-getter for his yell. It soon became a nickname for all Tech teams and for those people loyal to Tech athletics. The official University school colors, Chicago maroon and burnt orange, also were introduced in 1896. The colors were chosen by a committee because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

Beginning in 1872 with 132 students and two programs of study, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, popularly known as Virginia Tech, has evolved into a comprehensive university of national and international prominence. With about 27,500 students in Blacksburg and about 2,500 other students statewide, the university produces world-class scholarship in a challenging academic environment. University tradition is firmly rooted in its motto, Ut Prosim (That I May Serve), and its historic land-grant mission is brought to life through learning, discovery and engagement.

LEARNING

Virginia Tech's challenging academic standards attract high-achieving students. Nine colleges (Agriculture & Life Sciences, Architecture & Urban Studies, Engineering, Liberal Arts & Human Sciences, Natural Resources, Pamplin Business, Science, The Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine and Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine) and Graduate School offer more degree programs – approximately 200 – than any other university in the state. More than 85 percent of departments offer e-learning courses, which have attracted more than 100,000 enrollments since 1998. During this time, more than 700 different faculty members have offered more than 3,500 different courses.

DISCOVERY

The university's groundbreaking research transforms lives and communities. With annual research expenditures of nearly $373 million, Virginia Tech ranks 42nd among research universities in the United States. The university, which has more than 100 research centers, also consistently ranks among the top institutions in industry-supported research and near the top 10 in the number of patents issued each year. The university's nationally and internationally recognized faculty and motivated students are involved in more than 3,500 research projects in fields ranging from biotechnology to materials, from the environment and energy to food and human health and from transportation to computing information.

ENGAGEMENT

As part of Virginia Tech's outreach mission and in adherence to its motto, the university serves and engages the citizens of the commonwealth, the nation and the world. Virginia Tech is involved in a multitude of economic and community development projects. These efforts focus on education and the dissemination of knowledge to the global society in which we live.

Professionals, organizations and communities tap Virginia Tech's vast resources, expertise and research results through hundreds of continuing and professional education programs and five campus centers located throughout the commonwealth. Virginia Tech has a long history of providing innovative distance-learning techniques to meet the various needs of working adults and other nontraditional students.

The Inn at Virginia Tech & Skelton Conference Center on campus and The Hotel Roanoke & Conference Center in Roanoke, both owned by Virginia Tech, support the university's outreach mission by working with faculty to plan and

- U.S. News & World Report ranks the College of Engineering's graduate program 27th nationally, with four individual programs in the top 10.
- The Pamplin College of Business undergraduate program was ranked 43rd in the nation and 24th among public schools by U.S. News & World Report.
- Virginia Tech consistently ranks among the top 15 schools in the nation in number of patents received.

DesignIntelligence ranks Virginia Tech's undergraduate architecture program first in North America. It also ranks the university's undergraduate interior design program fifth in the nation. In addition, it ranks the graduate architecture program 10th in the nation and the graduate interior design program fifth.

• The university's forestry program is top-ranked in North America, according to a study conducted by Auburn University.

BLACKSBURG, VA.

COLLEGE TOWN, U.S.A. - A GREAT PLACE TO SPEND FOUR YEARS ... OR A LIFETIME!

One of America's best college towns, Blacksburg is a perfect setting for a great university like Virginia Tech. Located in Southwest Virginia on a plateau between the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, Blacksburg combines the laid-back lifestyle of a small town with the amenities one would expect to find around a major center of higher education. Together, the town and university have worked hard to create a progressive community that ranks among the nation's elite living environments.

Virginia Tech and the Town of Blacksburg gained national and international attention by creating the world's first "electronic village." Businesses and industries have been drawn by the potential of the quaint town.

Established in 1798 by John and William Black, the town is surrounded by scenic mountain views that accentuate the area. Since its founding, Blacksburg has grown to become the largest town in Virginia. The over 43,000 residents (including students) enjoy a close proximity to a variety of recreation areas such as the Blue Ridge Parkway, Appalachian Trail, Claytor Lake and the New River. The region features a moderate climate and four distinct seasons.

Blacksburg's location (adjacent to major interstate highways) provides convenient access to most points in the southern and eastern parts of the country.

More information on Blacksburg can be found on the web site of the Blacksburg Electronic Village, www.bev.net, or the town's web site, www. blacksburg.va.us.

JIM WEAVER DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

James C. Weaver, whose innovative ideas and work as a reformer have made him one of college athletics' most popular administrators, is the director of athletics at Virginia Tech.

Weaver, 64, was appointed on Sept. 24, 1997, and has been a tireless leader on behalf of Tech athletics. His efforts were recognized in December 2009 when he accepted the prestigious John L. Toner Award, which is presented annually by the National Football Foundation & College Hall of Fame. The award is given each year to a director of athletics who has demonstrated superior administrative abilities and shown outstanding dedication to college athletics and particularly college football.

A top personal priority for Weaver is the continuing improvement of Tech's facilities. Progress is evident in a number of new facilities which are now in use or currently under construction.

Tech's basketball staffs and teams moved into their new practice facility in August 2009. The $20 million building boasts two practice gyms, a 3,000 square-foot basketball weight room, coaches' offices, film rooms and locker rooms.

A new football locker room and lounge building is being constructed adjacent to Jamerson Athletic Center. The three-story building will be completed in advance of the 2010 football season and will feature a spacious locker room for players and coaches, as well as a lounge on the second floor and a wrestling facility on the third floor. The vacated space in Jamerson will then be renovated to provide expanded weight training, sports medicine and locker room facilities for Olympic sport teams.

Weaver came to Tech from Western Michigan University, where he was director of athletics from January 1996 until he came to Blacksburg. Prior to that, he was AD for three and a half years at UNLV, where he reconstructed a troubled athletic department.

It was with the Nittany Lions' football team that Weaver first made a name for himself in athletics. He was a center and linebacker on Penn State teams coached by the legendary Rip Engle and Joe Paterno.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Weaver was recruited to Penn State by Engle. He played three seasons under Engle and one under Paterno, who is still the coach of the Nittany Lions.

Weaver graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a bachelor's in psychology and rehabilitation education. He received a master's in college counselor education, also from Penn State, in 1968.

Prior to landing the athletic director's job at UNLV, Weaver spent nine years at the University of Florida. He was a strong force at Florida in the field of compliance and concluded his time there as associate athletics director.

Weaver drew rave reviews at UNLV for his fundraising expertise. He generated nearly $15 million in his time there and built a new athletic complex.

Weaver and his wife Traci have four sons - Josh, Paul, Cole and Craig.

ATHLETICS COMMUNICATIONS

Matt Kovatch, Assistant Director of Athletics Communications, and Dave Smith, Assistant A.D. for Athletics Communications, coordinate media services for baseball. Members of the media requesting information on Virginia Tech baseball are asked to contact Kovatch in the Virginia Tech Athletics Communications Office (ACO). Media requests for baseball photos should be directed to Photography Coordinator and Designer Dave Knachel at (540) 231-1838 or dknachel@vt.edu. The ACO is located in room 460 of the Jamerson Athletic Center next to the Bowman Room.

Baseball information, as well as up-to-date statistics, is available to the media throughout the season via the Virginia Tech athletics Web site, www.hokiesports.com.

INTERVIEWS

All media interviews with players and coaches should be arranged through the ACO with at least 24 hours advance notice. During the week, head coach Pete Hughes will usually be available between 9:30 a.m. and noon except on travel dates and game day. Player interviews will be arranged around the players' academic and practice schedules.

COVERING A GAME

Media members wishing to cover Virginia Tech home baseball games from the English Field press box should contact Kovatch or Smith in the ACO. There is no charge for admission to Virginia Tech home baseball games and a credential is not needed to enter English Field. Seating in the press box, however, is by request only and is assigned on a priority basis in accordance with athletics department media policies. All requests should be made prior to game day. Non-working individuals, such as spouses, dates, friends and fans, will not be permitted in the press box or on the field during the game. Seats in the working area of the press box are not available for major league scouts.

Rosters, statistics and media guides/notes will be available to the media and scouts prior to the game and a final box score will be compiled for distribution at the conclusion of each contest. Post-game media interviews, cleared through the ACO, are allowed on the field shortly after the conclusion of each game or doubleheader. Phone lines and wireless access to the Internet are available in the press box to file stories.

PHOTOGRAPHY

Accredited photographers or cameramen on assignment may shoot from the top of the dugouts or from inside the fence beyond the dugouts. When shooting from inside the fence, no equipment should be placed on the field of play. Tripods are not allowed inside the fence. The roof of the press box can be made available for working photographers or cameramen upon request. The position of all photographers and cameramen is always subject to the discretion of the umpires. Freelance photographers and fans are not allowed on the dugouts or inside the fences.

VISITING RADIO

Visiting team radio crews wishing to broadcast games from English Field should contact the ACO well in advance of the game for clearance and information on the availability of space and telephone lines.

TECH ON THE WEB

Keep up to date on Virginia Tech baseball action via the Internet at the official Web site of Hokie athletics: www.hokiesports.com

Rosters, individual player and coaches profiles, notes, statistics and game summaries are all part of the baseball section.

THEACC.COM

Follow 2010 Atlantic Coast Conference baseball action on www.TheACC.com. An updated baseball release can be accessed every Monday and Friday throughout the season, while the ACC Player and Pitcher of the Week will be announced on Monday afternoons. The official Web site of the ACC contains the league's latest recaps, releases, statistics and standings and will feature play-byplay coverage of ACC Tournament games. Links to the official athletic sites of each of the 12 member schools are also accessible on TheACC.com.

ACC ALL ACCESS

ACC ALL ACCESS airs every Thursday night on FOX Sports South, FOX Sports Carolinas, FOX Sports Tennessee, FOX Sports Florida and Comcast SportsNet (check your local listings for times) and delivers unprecedented access to Atlantic Coast Conference teams, capturing the behind-the-scenes, real-life experiences of ACC student-athletes and coaches. This weekly series goes inside the huddles and on the sidelines and gets up-close and personal in practice and in the classroom, providing insight into the world of ACC sports.

The weekly, half-hour ACC program of record, ACC ALL ACCESS is hosted by Jenn Hildreth and originates from FOX Sports South's Atlanta studio. The regional sports networks serving the Southeast – FOX Sports South, FOX Sports Carolinas and FOX Sports Tennessee – collectively reach more than 12 million cable and satellite television households. In the states of Maryland and Virginia and in the District of Columbia, ACC ALL ACCESS airs on Comcast SportsNet/Mid-Atlantic, and it airs on FOX Sports Florida in the state of Florida.

LIVE STATS

Live statistics will be available via the Internet for Tech's home (and most away) games. Fans and media can view play-by-play and up-to-date box scores by clicking on the live stats link on the ticker at the top of Tech's athletics homepage, or by going to http://www.hokiesports.com/ baseball/live/

DIRECTIONS TO ENGLISH FIELD

The Virginia Tech campus is located in Blacksburg, Va., approximately 40 miles southwest of Roanoke, Va. To reach the campus from Interstate 81 take Exit 118B onto U.S. Route 460 West toward Blacksburg. Remain on 460 West, following the signs to Virginia Tech. Take a right turn at the Virginia Tech Central Campus exit marked Rt. 314 and Southgate Drive (first stoplight you come to). Take the first left at the stoplight onto Duck Pond Drive and English Field will be on the right.

BY AIR

Roanoke Regional Airport in Roanoke, Va., is served by major domestic airlines. Limousine services provide transportation between the airport and campus. Private planes may land at the Virginia Tech Airport, near campus.

JUST VIRGINIA TECH, PLEASE

While the full name of the school is Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, the school is commonly referred to as Virginia Tech. There is no such school as Virginia Tech University.

Founded in 1872 as Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College, the school changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1895. Alumni and media shortened the name to VPI before Virginia Tech became the primary popular reference. The university officially became a state university in 1970 to bring the official title to what it is today.

Those covering Hokie athletics are asked to refer to the university as simply Virginia Tech. Virginia Tech University, VA Tech, VPI and SU, VPI&SU and VT are not recognized names and should not be used.

TECH ON THE RADIO

For the seventh consecutive season, Virginia Tech baseball will have a commercial radio package. This season, the Cumulus Radio Group will broadcast all of Tech's ACC contests. Information on the entire 2010 broadcast schedule, along with stations and times, is available on the schedule on page 85.

Torye Hurst

Coverage will begin 15 minutes prior to the first pitch with the pregame show. At the conclusion of each game, the post-game show will include comments from Coach Hughes and a featured player.

Torye Hurst will handle the play-by-play duties again this season. Hurst broadcast Tech's BIG EAST Conference Tournament games for two seasons prior to taking on the broadcast duties five years ago during the Hokies' first season in the ACC. He has also announced selected women's basketball games and served as the Tech baseball public address announcer for three seasons. Prior to Tech, Hurst served as the PA announcer for the Augusta GreenJackets Class A minor league baseball team in Augusta, Ga., and following college, was the play-by-play announcer for University of Southern Mississippi women's basketball for four seasons.
