Antonio Freeman

1999 Pro Bowl Starter
Green Bay Packers
Wide receiver

One of the National Football League's superstars at the wide receiver position, this seventh-year pro had a career-season in 1999 with an NFL-leading 1,424 yards on 84 receptions. Freeman was selected as a starter on the NFC's 1999 Pro Bowl squad. From his flanker spot, he has led Green Bay in receptions and receiving yards each of the last four years, including one of the top seasons in club history in 1998. In 1997, he had 1,243 yards and 12 touchdowns on 81 receptions. Freeman had 1,074 receiving yards two years ago, his third 1,000-yard receiving season. That allowed him to join James Lofton (5) and Sterling Sharpe (5) as the only players in club history to have as many as three such 1,000-yard years. Last season, he caught 62 passes for 912 yards and nine scores. He has five seasons with 50 or more receptions, joining Lofton (7) and Sharpe (7) as the only players in club annals to have at least five such seasons. His 81-yard touchdown reception in Super Bowl XXXI is the longest in Super Bowl history.

Jim Pyne

Cleveland Browns • Offensive Guard

Former Hokie Jim Pyne will always be remembered for being the first unanimous All-American in Virginia Tech football history. He will also be remembered for two other things — generously donating money back to the athletic department and being the first player selected in the 1998 expansion draft.

A native of Milford, Mass., Pyne capped a great Tech football career at the center position by making every major All-America team in the nation in 1993. He was selected on the first team by The Associated Press, Walter Camp, United Press International, The Football Writers of America and The Football Coaches' Association.

Still an active member of the Virginia Tech family, Pyne donated a $100,000 gift earmarked for athletic construction in 1998. Pyne asked that the gift be added to the fund for the Merryman Center, Tech's sparkling all-purpose facility.

"Everything about the experience at Virginia Tech was very special to me," Pyne said. "This is my way of saying 'thanks,' for the football coaching and the education."

Pyne's gift was applied to the fund that was raised for the memorabilia area in the new facility, which is scheduled to be completed this fall. To show appreciation for the gift, Tech now has a position meeting room in the Merryman Center named for the former Hokie great. The Pyne Room is designated for the Hokies' offensive linemen.

When the National Football League returned to Cleveland in 1999 in the form of the Browns, the organization made former Virginia Tech standout Jim Pyne their chosen one. The 6-foot-2, 297-pound Pyne was plucked off the board in a hurry by the Browns' new regime. Introduced as the first overall pick in the expansion draft, Pyne stepped onto the stage to a standing ovation supplied by the 4,000-plus rabid fans that had been lucky enough to acquire one of the draft's tickets.

Now entering his eighth season as a pro, Pyne has played for Tampa Bay, Detroit and now the Browns. He has started 72 games over that span and has played in 76 games. Pyne started all 16 games for Cleveland in its inaugural season, but was limited to just two starts last season due to an injury.

Bruce Smith

11-Time Pro Bowl Selection • Defensive End
Washington Redskins/Buffalo Bills

Widely regarded as one of the game's most dominant defensive players ever, Smith is one of a very select few who can change the complexion of a game by himself. The Norfolk, Va., native has been selected to the Pro Bowl 11 times and was the game's MVP in 1987. He trails only Reggie White (13) and Jerry Rice (12) in selections. Smith led the AFC in sacks with 13.5 sacks in '96 and 14 in '97. He was one sack shy of the AFC leader in 1989, '90 and '93 and just 1/2 sack shy in '86, '87 and '88. Smith was named the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year by AP, UPI and several publications in 1996 and 1990. He also earned defensive player of the year honors from NEA and Pro Football Weekly in 1993. He is the Buffalo Bills' all-time sack leader (171.0) and his career total of 181.0 sacks trails only Reggie White (198.0) for the NFL's all-time lead in that category. Last season, in his first year with the Washington Redskins, Smith recorded 10.0 sacks.
