HEAD COACH Seth Greenberg

A MESSAGE FROM HEAD COACH GETH GREENBERG

irginia Tech basketball is entering a new era and a new world. As I begin my first season as the head coach of the Hokies, the future of Tech Basketball and Virginia Tech athletics looks bright.

Virginia Tech has a rich tradition of basketball through the years; I want to revive that tradition. The Hokies have won many big games with great players, great teams and great coaches, but, most of all great fans who generated great excitement in Cassell Coliseum. I want that to return to Virginia Tech basketball. I want people to say: The Cassell Rocks!

The way we will return that feeling to Tech basketball is through hard work and outstanding players. Under my supervision, Virginia Tech will be known as a team that works hard, both on and off the court and a team that takes care of all the details, no matter how large or how small. Our motto is simple: Playing hard is not an option. We will be relentless in everything we do. We will be relentless in practice, we will be relentless in conditioning, we will be relentless in games and we will be relentless in using this great university to become better people.

This will be our final season as a member of the BIG EAST Conference. The BIG EAST is one of the best and most prestigious conferences in the nation. Every game is a battle and this final season will test our team fully. Next season, Virginia Tech will become a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference. As good as the BIG EAST has been for Virginia Tech, the ACC will be, in essence, a homecoming for our athletics department and alumni. Virginia Tech fits well into all aspects of the conference and the move will only make our basketball program stronger. Tech is a perfect fit for the ACC and the move will provide tremendous competition, decreased time away from the classroom and much more media and fan interest.

We want the Virginia Tech community to embrace our program and help us become an elite program in college basketball. We want Cassell Coliseum to be known as the toughest arena in the country for an opponent to visit. We want our players to use all the resources of this top-notch university to become outstanding and well-educated individuals.

> This era that we are embarking upon will bring great pride and excitement to Virginia Tech. We will succeed and we will do it as a community. I can't wait for the season to begin.

Sett Sceenberg

UIRGINIA TECH * 2003-04 BASKETBALL

Press Services

The Virginia Tech Sports Information Office will be available throughout the 2003-04 basketball season to accommodate any media requests. Following are some guidelines that will make it easier for media members to cover the Virginia Tech men's basketball team. Any additional questions should be directed to Bill Dyer, assistant sports information director.

Press Credentials

Requests for press credentials are screened with care to ensure a working press row. Traditional print, television and radio (media agency) regularly assigned to cover Virginia Tech and the visiting school will receive first priority, as well as national news-gathering agencies. Credentials for on-line Internet sites will be granted to Virginia Tech operated Web sites, the visiting team's official Web site and the BIG EAST Conference's official Web site.

Requests should be made in writing on company letterhead at least 10 days prior to the game to guarantee consideration. Requests should be directed to Bill Dyer, assistant SID.

All other qualifying credential requests, and requests made the week of the game will be filled on a space-available basis.

Any abuse of a working credential will result in the media agency losing credential privileges.

Additional Accreditation Guidelines

- Only full-time, salaried employees intending to provide actual game coverage may receive a credential.
- A requesting media agency must represent a collective, organizational editorial voice, not simply the offerings of a single individual.
- Membership in a writer's association does not automatically qualify an agency for credentials.
- A media agency may assign one of its credentials to its on-line entity.
- An on-line entity, not associated with a traditional media agency, may qualify for one credential, subject to the following conditions:

An on-line entity may receive a credential only if its own full-time staff writes a majority percentage of that site's own material.

On-line entities that focus primarily on Virginia Tech athletics and also sponsor message boards or chat rooms may receive credentials provided they adhere to a policy that requires that a posted message or opinion is identified with the actual name and city of the individual.

Any on-line service that is recognized as an outlet intended primarily for the purpose of delivering news related to the recruitment of student-athletes will not qualify for credentials.

On-line entities will not receive photography credentials.

On-line entities (other than those identified above) registering 20,000 legitimate unique users per month in each of the past 12 months will be given first consideration.

"Real-time" transmission of digital images, audio and data, including live game play-byplay and statistics, of any home game is the exclusive property of Virginia Tech and/or its rights holder(s). "Real-time" is defined as "live continual coverage or description of an event."

Photo Credentials

The NCAA has established a control policy to keep the court free from congestion. Only photographers on assignment and members of the television media are given photo credentials. Free-lance or amateur photographers will not be issued credentials. Accredited photographers may work along the playing floor at both ends behind the restriction line established by the NCAA.

Media Will Call

In most cases, credentials will be mailed. Credentials may be picked up the day before a game from secretary Donna Smith in the Sports Information Office. Credentials not mailed or picked up will be held at the Will Call Window located at the front entrance to Cassell Coliseum.

Parking

Media parking is available in the lot across from Cassell Coliseum. The entrance to this lot is on Spring Road. Requests for parking credentials should be submitted to Bill Dyer.

At the Game

Cassell Coliseum is the site of Hokie home basketball games. There is no smoking permitted in Cassell Coliseum. The working press area is located courtside on the main floor. Visiting radio stations will be seated on press row. Virginia Tech grants broadcast rights to the official radio outlet of the visiting team on a reciprocal basis.

Game Services

The Tech Sports Information Office will be at your service throughout the game. All media will be provided game programs, rosters, press guides and other pertinent information. Computer generated statistics will be available at halftime and at the conclusion of the game. Information provided includes: play-by-play and individual and team statistics in standard NCAA box score format and a shot chart. A pregame meal is served, starting approximately one and one-half hours before tip-off in Room 309B and refreshments are available throughout the game. Members of the media work in a modern press room, which is located on the third floor of the Coliseum in Room 309B. There are four phone lines available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Postgame Interviews

The Virginia Tech lockerroom and player lounge are closed to the media. Coach Seth Greenberg and the visiting coach will hold postgame press conferences in the utility gymnasium across from the Tech locker room. The visiting coach will go first, followed by Coach Greenberg after his post-game radio interview. Tech basketball players will also be available for interviews in the utility gymnasium after a short cooling-off period. Media access to visiting players will be determined by the visiting SID.

Interview Policy

Virginia Tech's coaches and players will be available throughout the season for interviews by members of the news media. It is important, however, that all requests for interviews be made through the Sports Information Office at (540) 231-6726. Please allow at least 24 hours notice for a request. Media members wishing to attend practice should contact the Sports Information Office the day before the practice to be attended. This season, Virginia Tech practices are closed following the first 15 minutes.

Calling Coach Greenberg

The best way to reach Coach Seth Greenberg, other than on the BIG EAST conference call, is through the Sports Information Office at (540) 231-6726.

The BIG EAST on the Web

The BIG EAST site on the Internet is available at bigeast.org. The site contains current information on all facets of the BIG EAST Conference. In addition, in-game scores will be updated in-progress. Please contact Rob Carolla in the BIG EAST media relations department for more information.

Tech Web Site

Notes, releases, statistics and other pertinent information are available on Tech's official Web site, hokiesports.com. The Web site will also have live stats during each home game.

TECH ON TELEVISION

 sk anyone associated with college basketball and they will tell you that the biggest change in the sport in recent years is the explosion of coverage of the game on television. And no place is that explosion better seen than at Virginia Tech.

The Hokies have gone from occasional to frequent television appearances in just a few years. When the Hokies joined the BIG EAST Conference for the 2000-01 season, Tech witnessed a jump in television exposure, both in games televised and the coverage of local, regional and national outlets. With next season's move to the Atlantic Coast Conference, the Hokies will see that exposure perhaps double in just one season.

Tech is fortunate to have all the variables for great television exposure. A loyal fan base that is interested in all Virginia Tech athletics, a cadre of local, state and regional media that follows the team, and an outstanding television package as a member of the BIG EAST Conference.

CONNECTING WITH THE HOKIES

irginia Tech has witnessed unprecedented increases in media exposure over the past several years and with the move to the Atlantic Coast Conference for the 2004-05 season, that exposure will surely increase again.

Hokie fans throughout the state, region, nation and world can find instant information on Virginia Tech athletics with the click of a mouse, the flick of a TV remote, the switching of a radio dial or the browsing of a newspaper. Media in all forms cover the Hokies home and away, and the demand for Tech basketball information grows every year.

The Virginia Tech/ISP Sports Network provides fans with game action over the airwaves and the Internet. Hokiesports.com, the athletic department's official Web site, displays live in-game statistics and features from the award-winning staff of Hokiesports – the newspaper. As a member of the BIG EAST Conference, the Hokies are a part of a comprehensive television package, and the number of newspapers covering the Hokies has increased over the years.

With the added enthusiasm of next year's entrance into the ACC, these media opportunities are sure to increase. That, added to the well-known fervor of Hokie fans around the world, leads to exciting times in the near future for Tech Basketball.

NEW EKA BEGING FOR TECH BAGKETBALL HOKIES AIM FOR SUCCESS IN FINAL BIG EAST SEASON

here will be a new look for the Hokies this season. In the school's final year of play as a member of the BIG EAST Conference, Seth Greenberg takes over at Virginia Tech. Challenges abound, but the groundwork already laid by the new coaching staff has the Hokies primed to compete now and for vears to come.

BRYANT MATTHEWS

The arrival of Greenberg to Virginia Tech brings many changes to the Hokies, but one constant remains. The Hokies boast one of the top one-two punches in the BIG EAST Conference in Bryant Matthews and Carlos Dixon.

The 2003-04 edition of the Hokies will have the two most experienced wing players in the league, but question marks abound at almost every other position on the court. Perhaps never has the saying "youth and experience" been better used to describe a team.

As the summer months turned into the fall, team members used the off-season to work on individual areas that needed improvement. The weight room was just as important as the gym for many of the players during the past summer.

Though the group is young, it is talented and enthusiastic. The post is very thin, both figuratively and literally, but the back court has depth. The wing, well let's just use the word "powerful" and leave it at that, for the time being.

"I like our mix of youth and experience," Greenberg said. "We have young players that are excited about being here. They are athletic and will get better as the season goes along. They want to be coached."

The Greenberg-coached Hokies will use an attacking style of basketball, both on offense and defense. Tech will look to make its opponents react and make good plays. Fundamentals and solid defense will be at the forefront and better decisions, both shooting and ball handling will be a premium on offense.

"I think we will be an attacking team on both ends," Greenberg said. "We won't run just to shoot the ball, we'll run to put pressure on the defense. If we can get a good scoring opportunity, that's great. If not, we'll make people defend us. We will play hard. Playing hard is not an option."

With the lack of depth in the front court, the Hokies, as a team, will have to pick up the slack in rebounding. This is not a one or two person job; it's a team concept.

"A big part of our team is going to have

"We are fortunate to have two seniors who can make a difference.

They're athletic, play

hard, competitive,

skilled and experienced.

They have paid their dues, and I see they are hungry to have success

as seniors."

the guards help us rebound the ball. We do not have great depth up front. We expect to use everyone each and every game," Greenberg says.

When talking about the Hokies, one must start with the team's two seniors — Dixon and Matthews. The duo may have more minutes played than any tandem in the league. They are, at the same time, the team's top offensive threats and defensive stoppers. A pair of bookends on the wings, their size and athletic ability make them tough to guard and, perhaps tougher to get past.

"I want Carlos Dixon and Bryant Matthews to evolve into strong senior leaders. We are fortunate to have two seniors who can make a difference. They're athletic, play hard, competitive, skilled and experienced. They have paid their dues, and I see they are hungry to have success as seniors."

Last season, Matthews became the first player in BIG EAST history to lead his team in scoring, rebounding, assists, steals and blocked shots. You name it; he did it for Tech. By the time league play ended, Matthews scored in double figures in all 16 league games and the team's final 19 games overall. He was the rare player who saw his overall scoring average rise during league action. By the time the season ended, he had established himself as one of the top players in the BIG EAST.

GEAGON OUTLOOK

To list Matthews' superlatives would take up pages of text. He made big plays at big times. He led his team to wins over Virginia and nationally-ranked Connecticut. But most importantly to the team, he proved that hard work and added maturity can make you a better player.

"Bryant Matthews is very quick off the ground and has an excellent first step. He was the hardest worker in our individual workouts. He's a guy that can play more than one position. He's perfect for the way I play. I like big wing players. I want him to lower his turnover numbers and make better decisions on the court," Greenberg says.

With the loss of many front court players during the off-season, Matthews may be called upon to move, at times, from the wing to one of the post positions. As a freshman, Matthews was forced to play a great deal at the four spot; this time around, he is more physically prepared.

"I may look to slide Bryant Matthews to one of the front court positions and use his quickness, athleticism and his ability to make plays in the front court. We can create mismatches by allowing Bryant to use his quickness and athleticism against bigger, slower players. He has proven the ability to rebound the ball and that should not change for whichever position he plays."

If you are a BIG EAST coach, the most frightening thing about Matthews is the knowledge that, with his work ethic and natural ability, he will do nothing but get better. He should enter his senior season bigger, stronger, faster and coming off a summer of jump shots and lifting weights. He will improve, that is a given.

To many, the drive for the BIG EAST Tournament ended on a normal looking play with six minutes remaining in the first half at Miami. When Carlos Dixon landed on his foot awkwardly and fractured his fifth metatarsal, the hot Hokies went into a tailspin. Through grit and determination, Dixon rejoined his teammates after a remarkable four game absence. Although he played at a high level for most, he was not the same player.

As school began, Dixon was forced to have surgery after breaking the same bone again. Though he will miss all the preseason conditioning, he should be ready for the start of the regular season.

Dixon was third on the team in scoring and second in assists and blocked shots. In the games leading up to the injury, he had also established himself as a defensive stopper in man-toman and a tough wing to shoot over in the 2-3 zone.

As his senior season begins, Dixon teams with Matthews to give Greenberg and his staff something to be envied; a senior duo that can play a number of positions and guard the two most talented players on the opposing team.

"Carlos Dixon is another multipositional player. He can play the point, he has the ability to make shots, and he has the ability to take people off the dribble. We can post him up some because of his size. He's a solid defender because he has quick feet and good anticipation. He has to improve his shot selection. He's a good shooter that, if he took better shots, would be a very good shooter," Greenberg says.

The Hokies got a lot thinner in the front court when junior Dimari Thompkins did not return to school due to personal and family reasons. The loss of the only upperclassman among the post players will cause the remaining three post players to step it up.

"We'll miss Dimari Thompkins because he played a great deal the last two seasons, but I'm confident that the players that have the opportunity will step up and seize the moment and make the most of it," Greenberg says.

Last year's freshman class will have to step up this season. The two returning post players will have even more expected of them.

"Our front court is going to be extremely young. We need Philip McCandies and Allen Calloway to step up and seize the opportunity that has been presented to them. Coleman Collins is extremely gifted and athletic. He needs to continue to get stronger and to learn how hard you need to play and the process of learning the intensity of basketball at the very highest level. But his talent and athleticism are undeniable."

Last year, Calloway and McCandies got the opportunity to see significant playing time. This season, more will be asked > of this duo. The summer was very important to these two returning players. Each worked hard on conditioning and conditioning may be the biggest thing standing between them and success in the league.

campaigns. But let's not look past what gives these two bright futures at Tech.

McCandies is a driven young man who wants to succeed. With added strength and toughness, he could be a rising star in the post for Tech. His improvement could be swift and noticeable, since his desire to improve is strong.

"I've been impressed with Philip McCandies. He has a strong work ethic and wants to do the right thing. I think he's driven to be successful. He's not afraid of the weight room. He's not afraid of working hard. He's getting stronger," Greenberg says.

Calloway is one of the quickest and most athletic players on the team. An explosive leaper who has a good nose for the ball, Calloway, like McCandies, needs strength and size. Both are players who will have to play a lot of minutes this season. The only variable is the increased size.

"Allen Calloway is an outstanding runner and jumper. He's quick off the ground and explosive. He's just learning the game. We have to work with him and teach him a go-to move, and to use his athleticism to his advantage and become an excellent offensive rebounder. He should be able to be a good off-ball defender because he is so quick. He's a quy that has outstanding upside, but he's got to get a body that matches his athleticism."

Fabian Davis has a world of talent and a good idea of what it takes to be successful. The summer months were invaluable to him, as the shape he is in when practice starts will have a direct correlation to the amount of playing time he receives. He has the talent to succeed in this league.

"Fabian Davis also needs to get in shape," Greenberg says. "At one time, he was a high-level athlete. He is not in the shape he needs to be in to compete at the highest level. He has strength and I'm impressed with his competitiveness. Basketball is important to him. He has > some maturity to him. He appears to have a touch and three-point potential."

The same can also be said for Shawn Harris. At 230 pounds,

Harris was a steady, able reserve for the Hokies as a freshman. Greenberg believes that a thinner. better-conditioned Harris is needed to take the next step for Tech. He has a good feel for the game and could emerge as a leader on this team. He is a solid twoquard who can shoot from the perimeter and is not afraid of going to the hoop and getting

"Shawn Harris has a good feel for the game, but he has to get in shape. He's got to get to the point where he's as light as he can be, so he can defend in this league. He's competitive, has the ability to make shots and I've been really impressed with his leadership skills. He's a very solid person."

Markus Sailes saw little playing time at the point last season, but when he did get to play, it was usually impressive. Without Brian Chase and Eric Branham, Sailes will be asked to assume more time at the point, but once again, the strength word pops up. He needs to get bigger and stronger and then work with the staff to improve his perimeter shooting. He is a coachable player who is smart and wants to improve. He has the size needed to play the point successfully in the BIG EAST.

"Markus Sailes has done a good job this summer. He's long and rangy for a point quard. He can be an effective defender because he has good guickness and is long. He has to get stronger to be able to get through screens and with that strength should come more toughness. He has a good feel for the game. We have to work on his release and shooting mechanics," Greenberg says.

The Hokies will have five newcomers this season. Two newcomers, Coleman Collins and Jamon Gordon, were signed in the fall by the previous staff and point quard Zabian Dowdell was signed in April by Greenberg. Greenberg was also able to add three talented walk-ons, Chris Tucker, Davis Stubbs and Myckael Lattimore. This group, like everyone else on the team, will be given every opportunity to earn playing time.

Collins is a 6-8, 215-pound forward from Stone Mountain, Ga., who has just turned 17-years-old. Collins has a bright future at Tech. He is strong and athletic and also possesses a strong work ethic, both on and off the court. Though he may be a work in progress, Greenberg believes he could become something special.

> "Coleman Collins just turned 17, and has exciting potential. He was third in the state of Georgia in the 400-meter dash, so we know he can run the floor. He's a quy who will improve in front of your eyes. He wants to do well. Being here this summer and having the opportunity to work with our strength and conditioning staff and get stronger was important. He has a chance to be an outstanding player."

With the loss of Thompkins, Collins will be expected to contribute right away in the post. Greenberg thinks that the young man from Georgia will respond well to the challenge.

involved.

"Coleman Collins is extremely gifted and athletic. He needs to continue to get stronger and to learn how hard you need to play and the process of learning the intensity of basketball at the very highest level. But his talent and athleticism is undeniable," Greenberg says.

Gordon is a guard from Jacksonville, Fla., who will be used at both guard spots. He is very athletic and should become an outstanding defender. He is not afraid of penetrating and with added strength, should be a valuable player in the future for Tech.

"Jamon Gordon is a guard that is probably the most gifted athlete of the group. He's a quick jumper. He has the ability to get into the lane and go over people. He's going to be an outstanding defender because he has good feet. I think he's very competitive," Greenberg adds.

Dowdell was Greenberg's lone signee, but may be exactly what the Hokies need—a true point guard. With the loss of Chase and Branham, he and Sailes will be given every opportunity to earn the starting spot at point. He has outstanding court sense and passes the ball well. He also is a good perimeter shooter and has quickness and speed. Once again, added strength is needed to improve his game.

"You have three guys that are each a little different. Zabian Dowdell has a pure position; he's a point guard. He can pass the ball and has a good touch. He shoots the ball well enough to keep people honest. He has to get stronger. He has the ability to penetrate and has a good burst of speed. He's going to have to learn to get tougher on the defensive end, like every freshman," Greenberg says.

Tucker is another in a long line of Hokies from Fork Union. An area player who has always wanted to play for Tech, Tucker is a big forward who should only get stronger. He can make the shots needed and could see immediate time up front for Tech.

"Chris Tucker is a big, rangy, raw-boned kid who can make shots. He's been well coached, and is competitive. Once he gets in our weight room on a regular basis, he could evolve into a physical front court player." Tucker could also see increased time due to the lack of depth in the front court. Greenberg thinks that everyone on the team will be needed to help.

"Chris Tucker will be part of that. Chris can shoot the ball; he has a good feel for the game. He can pass the ball. If we are forced to play four out, he is another player who can use his skill against bigger players."

Stubbs is also a prep school player walking on at Tech. Originally from Asheville, N.C., Stubbs was injured last season at New Hampton Prep, but could be quite a find for the Hokies. He is also a true point guard and could see time as a freshman in the backcourt.

"Davis Stubbs got hurt this past year, but has a good feel for the game. He can pass the ball and has good quickness. He has a pure position, point guard, which is important in this season."

As the school year began, another walk-on, Mykhael Lattimore joined the team. A wing player from New Jersey, Lattimore will be given the opportunity to contribute right away for the Hokies.

Though there are many unknowns for the Hokies as the school year begins, the return of Dixon and Matthews gives Tech a solid foundation. The experience that the sophomore class gained last season was invaluable and the talent of the freshmen gives the Hokies hope that, not just the future, but the near future, will be bright.

"There has to be a consistency to how we play," Greenberg concluded. "You can't take plays off. You have to be competitive, tough and win 50-50 balls to win in any league. We have to win the hustle points."

With the start of the fall semester, the coaching staff has all the players back in school and has had time to work individually with the team. Greenberg has been very impressed with what he has seen, so far.

UIRGINIA TECH

"I'm very pleased with our players' work ethic. We've been slowed a little bit because of Allen Calloway's high ankle sprain, which has limited the opportunity that he's had to work. We need to find a way for these players to be successful. They are buying into the commitment you need to make to be successful."

GEAGON OUTLOOK

The challenges are there, but so is the effort and commitment. The Hokies enter the year optimistic and ready. They can't wait to get on the court and get to work. That's how winners are made.

new era in Virginia Tech men's basketball began on April 3, 2003, as the Hokies introduced Seth Greenberg as their 27th head coach. A proven program builder, an admired and innovative tactician and an experienced recruiter, Greenberg takes over a Tech program that aspires to become a winner in one of the premier leagues in the nation, The BIG EAST Conference.

> "I believe we have found someone who has extensive head basketball coaching experience and beneficial recruiting ties throughout the Eastern Seaboard," Virginia Tech Director of Athletics Jim Weaver said. "I am pleased to welcome Seth to the Virginia Tech athletics family."

Greenberg comes to Virginia Tech from the University of South Florida, where he served as head coach for the past seven seasons. At USF, Greenberg had a record of 108-100. Prior to USF, Greenberg coach at Long Beach State University, where his overall record was 105-70. In his 13 years as a head coach, Greenberg has an overall record of 213-170. An important side note is that, following his initial seasons at LBSU and USF, Greenberg compiled a 194-134 record at the two schools.

During his time at Long Beach and USF, Greenberg's teams posted impressive records against major conference opponents. Included during his Long Beach State tenure were wins over four nationally ranked teams, including a 64-49 victory against then-No. 1 Kansas at Allen Fieldhouse in 1992-93. At South Florida, his teams were 2-0 against Ohio State, had two wins over Texas, and won at Pittsburgh during the Panthers' run to the Sweet 16 in the 2001-02 season. The Bulls defeated eventual Final Four team Wisconsin in the 1999-2000 season.

At South Florida, Greenberg led the Bulls to two National Invitation Tournament appearances and victories in Conference USA play against nationally ranked opponents. In the 2002-03 season, the Bulls finished 15-14 overall and 7-9 in the National Division of C-USA. The Bulls defeated BIG EAST member Providence and NCAA Tournament participants Memphis and East Tennessee State, plus NIT participants St. Louis and DePaul. The Bulls led C-USA in field goal percentage defense, allowing opponents just 39.9 percent from the floor. USF was among the conference leaders in three-point defense, blocked shots and steals. The Bulls also had the C-USA individual leader in assists this past season.

"I am very excited about the challenge and opportunity presented at Virginia Tech," Greenberg said. "Everything is in place to have one of the elite programs in the BIG EAST Conference. I look forward to visiting with Coach Foster, Coach DeVoe and Coach Moir to pick their brains regarding the process they went through to build a rich Virginia Tech tradition.

"My family and I are excited about the move to Blacksburg and getting involved in the community," Greenberg continued. "My wife and I have always embraced the communities in which we've lived. Virginia Tech is a state university, and I feel it's important and part of our mission to reach out and make a difference in the community."

A 1978 graduate of Fairleigh Dickinson, Greenberg was a four-year letterwinner under head coach Al Lobalbo. His father, the late Ralph Greenberg, played at Long Island University under coaching legend Clair Bee, college basketball's all-time winningest coach.

Greenberg began his coaching career as an assistant at Columbia in 1978. He moved to Pittsburgh two years later where he made two trips to the NCAA Tournament in three years with the Panthers. He then spent the 1983-84 season at Virginia, helping the Cavs reach the Final Four before moving on to Miami as an assistant under future Virginia Tech head coach Bill Foster. There, he helped revive a program that had been dormant for a number of years.

Greenberg first went to Long Beach as associate head coach under Joe Harrington and, three years later, replaced Harrington when he accepted the head coaching position at Colorado. In his six seasons at LBSU, Greenberg led the 49ers to two NCAA Tournament appearances and one NIT appearance. He led LBSU to two Big West Conference championships and one Big West regular season title. While at LBSU, the 49ers defeated four nationally ranked teams. Greenberg also tutored two current NBA players - Bryon Russell (Utah), and Lucious Harris (New Jersey), and former NBA player Juaguin Hawkins.

A TALK WITH HEAD COACH BETH GREENBERG

Q: How has your first six months at Virginia Tech been?

A: "I've been really pleased with the transition so far. The players have been extremely receptive. The community has embraced us. The commitment from the administration has been genuine, sincere and legitimate. It's been an exciting, invigorating last six months.

Q: How has the ACC move affected the way that you go about your job?

A: "We are coaching and working in the present and recruiting for the future, so really, it hasn't affected the way we do our jobs. We don't talk with our players about the ACC, but you recruit for the future and we recruit with the ACC in mind. I don't mean that in terms of a level of player, but we are recruiting to a geographic footprint that fits our institution. We need to be successful in Virginia, North Carolina and Maryland and that's been a focal point. I'd be lying if I didn't say that the ACC was a great calling card. But the BIG EAST is a magnificent calling card, also.

Q: What are some of the challenges this team faces this season on the court?

A: "We have very limited depth in terms of 10 scholarship players, very limited depth in the front court and an unproven point guard. I think there are two players that are proven commodities in the BIG EAST; two 1,000 point scorers that have played well at a high level. Going into the season, we pretty much know what we're going to get out of Bryant Matthews and Carlos Dixon, although Dixon's health is a concern. After that, it's just one big question mark. We are asking players that averaged two points a game to be competitive at the very highest level of college basketball. Until someone has done it, we can't say that they are able to do it. But they are sure going to get an opportunity to do it.

Q: What's been the key to getting your foot in the door so quickly with big name recruits?

A: "The Virginia Tech brand is a very strong brand. The institution sells itself. The success of our football team gives us a model to follow. And we are not afraid to ask. You can't get the prettiest girl in school to go out on a date with you unless you ask her. You can't be successful in any business unless you try. The ACC has been a real boost for us. But, its one thing to get the date, the next thing is to get her to marry you.

Q: What are some of the traits that Hokie fans will see in your teams in time?

A: "First and foremost, we want to play hard. We want to be consistent. We are going to compete, each and every day and each and every play. We are going to be physical, defensively and be a changing defensive team. I think we will be an attacking team on both ends of the floor. We can't just be happy to be in the ACC, we have to compete in the ACC.

Q: How difficult is it to find players who can compete both athletically and academically?

A: "Virginia Tech is a special place. There are no remedial classes. You've got to be ready to do your work at a high level. We have a great academic support system in place. The people that we are going to get are going to be people that want to be successful in life as a Virginia Tech graduate. The education that we are selling is going to open doors to the future.

Q: What do you want people to know about your team and your program?

A: "It's not going to get fixed overnight, but it's going to get fixed. It's going to get fixed the right way. We are going to fix it with program players, with players who are committed to being here, players that want a Virginia Tech degree. Also, we are really working hard to embrace the former players and coaches, the people that make up the history of Virginia Tech basketball. We want to get them involved and make them feel it's their program again. We are going to work as hard as we can, each and every day.

THE BIG EAST CONFERENCE

6.3 64 6.3 6.3 L__ 7____ E - 1 [7] 6.3 L-J

s The BIG EAST Conference celebrates its 25th anniversary in 2003-04, it takes pride in its long list of accomplishments. Providing opportunities to excel amongst the nation's best, both athletically and academically, has always been its mission.

Since opening its doors in 1979, the league has won 22 national championships in six different sports and 118 student-athletes have won individual national titles. The BIG EAST has always been able to boast that some of its best students are also some of its best athletes. More than 300 student-athletes have earned Academic All-America honors, including Connecticut basketball standout Emeka Okafor who earned first team recognition last year. A BIG EAST student-athlete has won the Honda-Broderick Cup as Collegiate Woman of the Year four times, the last by Notre Dame soccer player Cindy Daws in 1997-98.

BIG EAST student-athletes have continued their success after leaving the classrooms and playing fields. Former Connecticut women's basketball standout Dr. Leigh Curl was inducted into the Verizon Academic All-America Hall of Fame in 1999. Former Georgetown men's basketball star Dikembe Mutombo was named a winner of the President's Service Award, the highest honor in the U.S. for volunteer service.

The BIG EAST continued to thrive amongst the nation's elite in 2002-03. It became the first conference to win the men's and women's NCAA titles and the men's NIT Championship in the same year. The Syracuse men won their first national championship, the Connecticut women took home their fourth national title and St. John's won the NIT for the sixth time.

The BIG EAST has won each of the last four women's basketball titles.

In the classroom, 21 student-athletes earned 2002-03 Academic All-America honors, including 10 who garnered first team accolades. UConn's Diana Taurasi was the consensus national player of the year in women's basketball. Additionally, she was the women's basketball Honda Award winner.

Whether it's the student-athletes or the league as a whole, moving forward successfully has been the norm for the conference that was formed in 1979.

In the spring of 2001, the BIG EAST added women's lacrosse to its growing list of sports and the inaugural women's golf championship was held in the spring of 2003.

When the 1990s began, The BIG EAST Conference had just completed its eighth season with nine members. The league was arguably as healthy as a conference could be. The BIG EAST was a headline-grabber immediately, especially in men's basketball, its signature sport. The BIG EAST Football Conference did not exist.

The '90s was a decade of enormous change in college athletics with conferences adding new members and new leagues beginning. The BIG EAST was no different than most groups. The BIG EAST Football Conference, with eight members, became a major player in college football immediately after its inception in 1991.

The BIG EAST became a reality on May 31, 1979, following a meeting of athletic directors from Providence College, St. John's, Georgetown and Syracuse Universities. Seton

- Four schools, Georgetown (1984), Villanova (1985), Connecticut (1999), and Syracuse (2003) have won NCAA Championships as members of the BIG EAST Conference.
- Three other schools, Providence, St. John's, and Seton Hall, have advanced to Final Fours as members of the BIG EAST Conference. In all, the BIG EAST has made 11 Final Four appearances.
- The largest crowd ever to witness a college game in an on-campus facility was March 9, 2003, as a crowd of 33,071 witnessed Syracuse defeat Rutgers, 83-74. That surpassed the previous record of 33,048, when Syracuse defeated Georgetown, 62-58, in the Carrier Dome on March 3, 1991.
- In the 1985 Final Four at Rupp Arena in Lexington, Ky., three of the four competing teams, including both finalists, were BIG EAST Conference member institutions. Villanova defeated Georgetown, 66-64, to win the title. It is just the third time in NCAA history that teams from the same conference met in the finals and the only time that three teams from the same league were in a single Final Four.
- Four BIG EAST Conference teams share arenas with NBA teams.

Hall, Connecticut and Boston College completed the original seven-school alliance.

After one season, Villanova was added and began play in 1980-81. Two seasons later, Pittsburgh joined the group and started competition in '82-83.

Miami was admitted in 1990 and began BIG EAST competition in '91-92. Rutgers, West Virginia and Notre Dame joined in '94 and started to compete in '95-96. Virginia Tech became the league's 14th full member in 2000-

While the membership has increased, the focus of the BIG EAST remains unchanged. It is a group that reflects a tradition of broadbased programs, led by administrators and coaches who place a constant emphasis on academic integrity. The BIG EAST Conference has enjoyed a leadership role nationally. Its studentathletes own significantly high graduation rates and their records of scholastic achievement notably reflect a balance between intercollegiate athletics and academics.

Any successful consortium enjoys outstanding leadership. Michael Tranghese, the league's first full-time employee, and for 11 years the associate of Dave Gavitt, took over the Commissioner's reins in June, 1990. In his first year at the helm, he administered the formation of The BIG EAST Football Conference.

BIG EAST sports attract the interest of followers in the nation's largest media markets including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, D.C., Miami, Pittsburgh and Hartford. The league has long been considered a leader in innovative concepts in promotion and publicity, particularly regarding television. Those efforts have resulted in unparalleled visibility for BIG EAST student-athletes. Exclusive longrange television contracts with CBS, ESPN, Inc., and ABC provide BIG EAST basketball and football with more television exposure.

While BIG EAST basketball games are regular sellouts at campus and major public arenas, including the annual BIG EAST Championship in Madison Square Garden, attendance figures also are significant at BIG EAST soccer, women's basketball and baseball games.

More than 500 BIG EAST athletes have earned All-America recognition and dozens have won individual NCAA national championships. The BIG EAST has been well represented in U.S. or foreign national and Olympic teams, with several athletes earning gold medals in the summer Olympiads in Sydney in 2000, Atlanta in '96, Barcelona in '92, Seoul in '88 and Los Angeles in '84.

The BIG EAST has its headquarters in Providence where the conference administers to more than 5,500 athletes in 23 sports.

TECH'S CONFERENCE TIMELINE

- Feb. 13, 1872 Virginia Tech is founded.
- Oct. 21, 1892 Tech played its first football game, recording a 14-10 win over St. Albans, a private boys prep school in Radford.
- Feb. 25-26, 1921 Tech, under the leadership of athletics director C.P. "Sally" Miles, joined the Southern Intercollegiate Conference as a charter member. Other members included Alabama, Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn), Clemson, Georgia, Georgia School of Technology (Georgia Tech), Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College (Mississippi State), North Carolina, North Carolina State, Tennessee, Virginia and Washington and Lee. In 1922, Louisiana State, Mississippi, South Carolina, Vanderbilt and Tulane joined the conference.
- December 1923 The name of the conference was officially changed to the Southern Conference. Also, conference officials added the University of the South to the conference. The following year, VMI joined the conference, and in 1929, Duke joined.
- 1932 It was agreed that the 13 southernmost members should form a separate conference. The Southeastern Conference, thus, was formed with Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, LSU, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Sewanee, Tennessee, Tulane and Vanderbilt as the members.
- 1953 The following seven colleges withdrew to form the Atlantic Coast Conference: Clemson, Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Maryland, South Carolina and Wake Forest College.
- June 1965 Tech withdrew from the Southern Conference.
- July 1965-May 1978 Tech competed as an independent in virtually every varsity sport.
- May 1978 Tech ends its 13-year status as a major independent by accepting a bid to join the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference (a.k.a. the Metro) for all sports except football.

The Hokies join Cincinnati, Florida State, Louisville, Memphis State, St. Louis and Tulane in the Metro, which was founded in 1975.

"Affiliation with the Metro Conference is beneficial from the standpoint of scheduling, national identity and postseason activity," Tech president William Lavery said. "It will provide us with national exposure and television coverage, as well as improve the basketball schedule and bring good teams to Blacksburg."

Feb. 5, 1991 — After 26 years as a football independent, Tech officially accepts a bid to join the newly-created BIG EAST Football Conference. Tech joined Miami, Syracuse, Boston College, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Temple and Rutgers as charter members of the conference.

- January 1995 Five Metro members UNC Charlotte, Tulane, Louisville, Southern Miss and South Florida — voted Tech and Virginia Commonwealth out of the league. At the time, those schools were planning merger with other Midwestern schools (hence, the birth of Conference USA) and the Hokies and Rams were not interested in such a merger. As a result, those five league members decided to vote them out of the league.
- Feb. 3, 1995 Tech, VCU and the Metro agree to a $2.27 million settlement which the Hokies and Rams split. A portion of conference revenue was going to be withheld from the two schools, but this settlement put an end to the issue.
- Two weeks later, 1995 Tech joins the Atlantic 10 Conference for all sports except football, which is in the BIG EAST, and wrestling, which is in the Colonial. (Tech wrestling began competition in the Eastern Wrestling League in the 1997-98 season.) Tech AD Dave Braine picked the Atlantic 10 over the Colonial because of three factors.

"No. 1 was Northeast exposure," Braine told Bill Roth in the Feb. 17 issue of The Hokie Huddler. "No. 2 were the basketball rankings of the Atlantic 10 and the high level of play in the league. And No. 3, most of our outof-state students are from the Northeast."

- June 24, 1999 Tech receives a proposal from the BIG EAST Conference, inviting the school to join the conference for all sports.
- July 20, 1999 Tech submits a counterproposal, addressing financial issues that the school has with the original proposal. BIG EAST athletic directors address those concerns at the athletics directors' meetings in mid-July and submit the proposal to each school's respective president for a vote.

Aug. 24, 1999 — Tech and the BIG EAST announce that the Hokies will join the conference for all sports beginning in 2001-02.

"Virginia Tech is thrilled to become a full member of the BIG EAST Conference and looks forward to its academic and athletic associations with the entire conference membership," Tech president Paul Torgersen said.

- November 2, 1999 BIG EAST Conference Presidents vote to advance Virginia Tech's participation as a full member to July 1, 2000.
- June 18, 2003 In a surprise move, presidents of Atlantic Coast Conference schools privately drop a plan to invite Miami, Boston College and Syracuse and instead, vote on inviting Virginia Tech and Miami. This comes after five weeks of negotiations with the other three schools for ACC invitations.
- June 19, 2003 Responding to speculation that Virginia Tech has been invited to join the ACC, the university issues a release stating that no offer has been extended officially or unofficially.
- June 24, 2003 Presidents of Atlantic Coast Conference schools hold a teleconference and vote to begin the official process of offering invitations to Virginia Tech and Miami.
- June 25, 2003 Atlantic Coast Conference officials make an official site visit to Virginia Tech, with the Hokies passing with flying colors. This is the final step before an official invitation can be extended.
- June 27, 2003 Virginia Tech President Charles Steger announces that the Hokies have officially accepted the ACC's invitation to join the conference.

"Today we have received the formal offer of membership, which we will accept," Steger said. "We know that this affiliation will be good for our students, athletes, fans, and communities for many years to come."

July 1, 2003 – Virginia Tech and Miami are officially introduced as the 10th and 11th members of the Atlantic Coast Conference at a press conference in Greensboro, N.C. The Hokies will officially join the ACC on July 1, 2004 and will begin play in the 2004-05 academic year.

"I'm excited for our fans and our constituency," Weaver said. "This membership is something that the fan base and alumni and friends of Virginia Tech have wanted for a long time. It's home for us. We've had prior relationships with these institutions for many years and this is something our fans are excited about. I'm happy for them, for our coaches and for our student-athletes."

CONFERENCE TIES

he Atlantic Coast Conference is one of the strongest and most storied conferences in the nation. Among basketball conferences, the ACC perhaps reigns supreme. Over the years, the ACC has produced nine national champions, five NIT champions, 23 national players of the year a total of 28 times, nine national coaches of the year a total of 18 times and a staggering 130 All-America selections. Virginia Tech and Miami will join the ACC for the 2004-05 basketball season and Boston College will become the league's 12th team in the near future.

Although Virginia Tech does not officially begin Atlantic Coast Conference play until next season, the Hokies have a long history of competing against the schools of the ACC. Tech has played a total of 380 games against teams that will compete next season in the ACC. Through the years, Tech and ACC teams have played great games in great venues with great players making great plays.

2002-2003 SEASON IN KEVIEW Individual Accomplishments mark 02-03 Season

n Virginia Tech's third season as a member of the BIG EAST Conference, the men's basketball team completed the 2002-03 season 12-17 overall and 4-12 in the BIG EAST Conference East Division.

The season saw the emergence of Bryant Matthews and Carlos Dixon as two of the top players in the league and the continued solid play of senior center Terry Taylor. The Hokies were more competitive than in years past, but the improved play, unfortunately did not lead to more victories. The high points of the season were accompanied by an equal number of low points and a late season injury to Dixon may have cost the Hokies any chance of advancing to the BIG EAST Tournament. The Hokies opened the season with a third place finish at the Paradise Jam in the Virgin Islands, with wins over Michigan and Toledo. Tech also claimed a non-conference win over arch rival Virginia in Cassell Coliseum. The conference slate was highlighted by a 95-74 home win over #18 Connecticut, Tech's first win over a nationally-ranked team under Ricky Stokes. Tech also recorded victories against NIT participants Villanova and Providence and a win at eventual NIT champion St. John's.

As the team showed that it was closing the gap in the always-tough BIG EAST, several individuals stepped forward for Tech. When the 2003-04 preseason awards are announced, don't be surprised to see the names Matthews and Dixon. The teams in the league got all they wanted of the pair during their junior seasons. Matthews may have had the most complete season of any player in the league, and though not voted the league's most improved, the argument for that award could certainly have been made. Dixon was, perhaps, equaling the season of his classmate before breaking his foot at Miami. Always a top threat on the offensive end of the floor, Dixon had become one of the top defensive players in the league, in both zone and man-to-man schemes.

Individual highlights were evident throughout the season. Matthews led the Hokies in scoring, rebounding, assists, steals and blocked shots, becoming the first player in BIG EAST history to accomplish that feat. He joined teammate Brian Chase in surpassing the 1,000 point career mark. Matthews was named honorable mention All-BIG EAST Conference and first team All-State. Dixon recorded his third straight season in double figures, averaging a career-high 13.8 points per game. Defensively, he will soon join the top 10 in school history in steals and blocked shots.

Taylor became the first player in Tech history to be honored as the BIG EAST Conference Player of the Week for his efforts in the Paradise Jam, where he was named to the all-tournament team. Dimari Thompkins improved as the season went on and showed the completeness of his game.

The large group of freshmen showed flashes of promise. Shawn Harris became a steady reserve off the bench for most of the conference slate. Allen Calloway and Philip McCandies each saw action in the starting line-up and made it evident that, with added strength and maturity, they will be potent forces in the league. Markus Sailes and Fabian Davis used the increased playing time afforded by Dixon's injury to show that they are players of the future in the Tech program.

The end of the season saw a change in the coaching staff for the Hokies. New mentor Seth Greenberg and his assistants will have a solid foundation to build upon and a mixture of youth and experience. And the senior duo of Matthews and Dixon should become one of the top one-two punches in the BIG EAST.

Hokies' Home Coukt

Assell Coliseum is a great place to play basketball, if you are a Hokie. For opposing teams, players and coaches, Cassell is not that much fun. The Hokies have an all-time winning percentage of .775 inside the walls of the Cassell and have had just one losing season in the arena's 42 years of hosting college basketball. With a loud pep band, a student section that sits courtside and a tough, aggressive style of play for the Hokies, Cassell Coliseum will continue to be a place opponents would just as soon not experience.

TWO NIT CHAMPIONSHIPS HIGHLIGHT TECH'S EXCITING Postseason play

uided by Coach Bill Foster, Virginia Tech basketball hit the jackpot in 1995 and 1996 with a championship run in the National Invitation Tournament and an appearance in the NCAA.

The players and coaches of the 1994-95 team cemented their names in Hokie basketball lore in one of the most dramatic NITs of all time.

Tech won the title, defeating Marquette in overtime, 65-64, on two free throws by Shawn Smith with 0.7 of a second left. Other starters on that great Tech team were Ace Custis, Travis Jackson, Damon Watlington and Shawn Good and key reserves were David Jackson and Myron Guillory.

Marquette had come from four points behind to take the lead at 64-63 on Anthony Pieper's driving layup with 18.3 seconds left.

That set up the final play for Tech. Smith spun to the basket and took an eight-footer. Golden Eagle Faisal Abraham fouled him on the left elbow and body.

Smith calmy sank the first free throw to tie it. After Marquette called a timeout, Smith made the second.

Fans at Madison Square Garden rushed on the court. Smith ran into the stands to give his father a bear hug. Blacksburg went wild as students and townspeople stormed the downtown area to hail their heroes.

Tech had reached the championship game by defeating Clemson, 62-54; Providence, 91-78; New Mexico State, 64-61; and Canisius, 71-59. That Tech team finished with 25 victories, the most in school history.

The next season, Tech qualified for the NCAA Tournament. Drawing a disappointing ninth seed, Tech was placed in the same bracket with power-packed Kentucky.

The Hokies beat Wisconsin-Green Bay in the first round at Dallas, Texas, 61-48, as Good led the way with 25 points. The Hokies, however, lost in the second round to eventual national champion Kentucky, 84-60.

That Tech team finished with a 23-6 record, one of the best marks in school history.

In all, Tech has made 14 postseason appearances, compiling an overall record of 22-12.

Tech's NIT title in 1995 was the second for the Hokies. Tech also won the crown at Madison Square Garden in 1973 in strikingly similar fashion.

Tech guard Bobby Stevens hit a jumper at the buzzer in overtime to propel the Hokies to a 92-91 victory over the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame and the NIT title. The victory was a highlight of the championship series in which Tech won four games by a total of five points, including a first-round victory over nationally ranked New Mexico, 65-63, on national television.

Tech's first postseason appearance came in 1966, when the Hokies lost to Temple, 88-73, in the NIT's opening round.

A year later, Tech made its first NCAA Tournament appearance, advancing to the finals of the Mideast Regional with wins against Toledo and Indiana University. The Hokies fell just short of the Final Four when they dropped a heart-breaking 71-66 overtime decision to Dayton.

In the 1980 Mideast Regional, Tech made headlines with its amazing first-round comeback victory against homestanding Western Kentucky. The Hokies trailed 48-30 at the half, but rallied to take an 89-85 overtime win. In the second round against Indiana and Isiah Thomas, Tech came close to an upset. The Hokies trailed by only three points with less than five minutes to go, but fell, 68-59.

The Hokies made it back to the NIT in 1982. Tech advanced into the quarterfinals with impressive wins against Fordham and Mississippi before finally losing to Georgia and high-flying All-American Dominique Wilkins.

Shawn Smith calmly sank two free throws to tie and then win the NIT title game at Madison Square Garden in 1995.

In 1983, Tech opened NIT play at home against William & Mary, winning 85-79, then lost on the road at the University of South Carolina by a 75-68 count.

Tech also had the good fortune of opening the 1984 NIT at Cassell Coliseum against Georgia Tech of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Hokies prevailed, 77-74, behind 19-point performances from Dell Curry and Perry Young. A lastsecond tip-in by point guard Al Young sparked the Hokies to a 68-66 win against South Alabama at Greensboro, N.C. The Hokies then returned home where they rode a 27-point outing by Curry to a victory against Tennessee, 72-68.

In the semifinals at Madison Square Garden, it took a lastminute comeback by eventual champion Michigan to beat Tech, 78-75. The Hokies bounced back

Allan Rlistom

A scrappy forward who paced the Hokies to the National Invitation Tournament championship in 1973. Bristow scored in double figures during every game of his Tech career and still holds the Hokies' single-game scoring mark of 52 points. After 10 years as a player in the NBA, Bristow went into coaching, including a stint as the head coach of the NBA Charlotte Hornets. He was inducted in 1984.

John meiser

A swingman who was always at his best in the clutch, Wetzel led Tech to its first-ever national postseason tournament in 1966. He enjoyed a 10-year NBA playing career and has been in the pro coaching ranks since 1979. Wetzel was inducted in 1985.

Harla Rnzhkal

A fine scorer and playmaker, Bushkar capped his career by being named All-Southern Conference in 1945-46. He was tabbed Virginia's Player of the Year that season and made the SC All-Tournament Team. Bushkar was captain of the 1944, '45 and '46 Tech teams. He was inducted in 1986.

George Parrish

One of Tech's first big-name stars, Parrish earned All-South honors in both basketball and football during a career that extended from 1916 to 1920. Parrish was regarded by many as the best center in southern basketball in 1919 when he scored 320 of the Hokies' 766 points. He was inducted in 1986.

HOMALA baland

One of the greatest shooters in school history, Pardue played on Tech teams in the early 1960s. He finished with a career scoring average of 20 points and was named to the All-Southern Conference team three years in a row and twice was named to the Southern's alltournament team. He was inducted in 1992.

He sparked Tech to its only Metro Conference Tournament championship and was named the tourney's MVP. He went on to become the first player to make All-Metro four years in a row. In 1990, he was chosen on the Metro's decade team of the 1980s. Solomon tallied a career total of 2,136 points and ranks third behind Bimbo Coles and Dell Curry on the Hokies' all-time scoring list. He was inducted in 1994.

DELL CULLA

This silky-smooth outside shooter scored a Tech record 1,021 field goals and tallied a total of 2,389 points. Still rated one of the best long-range shooters in school history, Combs helped the 1967 Tech team to the finals of the NCAA Mideast Regional, where an overtime loss to Dayton cost the Hokies a spot in the Final Four. Combs, who averaged 17.9 points over his three varsity seasons at Tech, went on to enjoy a seven-year career in the ABA. He was inducted in 1987.

lee melear

Melear, who averaged in double-figure scoring all three of his varsity seasons, was inducted in 1989.

rop afflerzwau

A hot-shooting forward from 1957-61, Ayersman made the All-Southern Conference team two years in a row. He still ranks sixth in career scoring at Tech and his 26.5 scoring average in 1958-59 still stands as the secondbest in school history. Ayersman was inducted in 1990.

lewis mills

A point guard deluxe, Mills was the captain of the Hokies in 1959-60 and helped that team post the school's first 20-win basketball season. He entered the coaching field after graduating from Tech and served as the head basketball coach at the University of Richmond from 1963 until 1973. Mills, who also spent 12 years in athletic administration at VCU, was inducted in 1991.

Earl (RN2) Hall

The Southern Conference's leading scorer in 1932, Hall was a unanimous choice for the all-conference team that year. Nicknamed "The Princeton Phantom," he was a complete player who excelled as a floor leader, dribbler and passer, as well as a scorer. Hall was inducted in 1992.

A mixture of good ballhandling skills, leaping ability and a keen eye for long range iumpers helped make King one of the best guards to play for the Hokies. He was the captain and leading scorer for Tech's cage teams in 1969-70 and 1970-71. He averaged 19.3 points per game as a junior and carried a 21.3point scoring average as a senior. During his last two years, he reached doublefigure scoring in 45 of 47 games, including the last 23 in a row. King finished his Tech career with 1,248 points and a 17.1 scoring average. He went on to play in the American Basketball Association and French Professional League. King was inducted in 1998.

The 6-5 forward was Tech's second-leading scorer as a sophomore in 1965-66 with a 14.6 average. ayne Robinson missed just one game during his Virginia Tech career and still ranks as one of the most athletic big-men in school basketball history. The 6-9 forward/center from Greensboro, N.C., helped Tech to an 81-35 record during his four seasons in Blacksburg. The Hokies participated in the National Invitation Tournament in 1976-77 when Robinson was a freshman and earned NCAA Tournament bids his junior and senior seasons. Tech won its only Metro Conference Basketball Tournament Championship in 1979.

Robinson was a central figure in Tech's drive to that Metro Conference Tournament title. When leading scorer Dale Solomon was forced to miss the opening game of the tournament against Cincinnati and star center Pat Cummings, Robinson took charge. The Tech junior was the hero of the day, outplaying Cummings and finally fouling out the Bearcat

Robinson was Tech's leading rebounder each of his three years as a starter. He averaged 12.4 points and 9.2 rebounds in 1977-78, 13.5 points and 9.1 rebounds in 1978-79 and 15.2 points and 8.2 rebounds in 1979-80. He shot 51.7 percent from the field for his Tech career and 74.4 percent from the free throw line. Robinson ranked fourth among the Hokies' career rebound leaders and 10th among the school's scoring leaders when he graduated. His 852 career rebounds currently rank seventh at Tech, while his 1,283 career points now stand 19th. He also ranks fifth

He finished as Tech's all-time scoring leader in 1973 with 1,804 points and still stands fifth on the list. He holds Tech records for career scoring average, most points in a game, consecutive double-figure scoring games and most field goals in a game. After 10 years as a player in the NBA, Bristow went into coaching, including a stint as the head coach of the NBA Charlotte Hornets. His jersey was retired on Oct. 17, 1998, at the Temple homecoming football game, commemorating the 25th anniversary of the 1973 NIT team. TECH COACHING GREATS

The coach of the Hokies was Don DeVoe, in just his second season in Blacksburg. DeVoe took a group of experienced players in his first season, built upon that foundation by teaching strong fundamentals and put the Hokies on the basketball map.

"I was fortunate at the age of 29 to be named the head coach at Virginia Tech," DeVoe said. "I was lucky to inherit five outstanding seniors. I give credit to those five seniors in being able to grasp what we were teaching and believing in what we were teaching. That first team laid the foundation for what we were to accomplish in the future."

DeVoe was fortunate to work with an outstanding staff, including future head coaches Sonny Smith (VCU, Auburn) and Jim Hallihan (East Tennessee State). A graduate assistant on those teams was Kevin O'Connor, currently the senior vice president of basketball operations of "It was really exciting to see what was happening at Virginia Tech. It was exciting to see the people in the state get excited about Virginia Tech basketball and football. We enjoyed tremendous support from the students and the community. The NIT season, just about every game was a full house. It was an exciting time in Virginia Tech athletics."

the NBA's Utah Jazz and father of Tech women's assistant basketball coach Katie O'Connor. That group was able to recruit an outstanding group of players that brought a lot of excitement to Blacksburg.

"My first staff, Sonny Smith and Jim Hallihan, were great at finding the type of kids we wanted in our program. They helped us establish the success that we had and we were fortunate to have them here," DeVoe said.

DeVoe coached the Hokies for five seasons, compiling an 88-45 overall record. He is the fifth-winningest coach in Tech history and is remembered for being the coach that got the Hokies started on the most prolonged and successful streak in the school's basketball history.

"When we left, we were able to leave behind an outstanding group of players and I know that Charlie Moir took those outstanding players and was able to continue the success at Virginia Tech."

erhaps no era in Virginia Tech basketball was more successful and more exciting than the 11 years that Charlie Moir led the Hokies. An assistant coach under Bill Matthews and Howie Shannon in the 60's, Moir is Tech's all-time winningest coach. His teams won big games against the top teams in the nation.

Cassell Coliseum was a feared place to play and Tech was one of the top teams in the nation.

During Moir's time in Blacksburg, Tech won more than 64 percent of its games. Moir never had a losing record. In only three seasons did Tech fail to win at least 20 games, and two of those three seasons saw Tech win 19 games. The Hokies made seven post-season appearances, including four of the school's seven NCAA trips. The Hokie also won the 1979 Metro Conference Tournament under Moir.

Great players dotted the rosters during Moir's term. The top four scorers in school history all played for Moir. Bimbo Coles, the only Olympian in Tech history was recruited by Moir. Moir coached the highest-scoring teams in Virginia Tech history.

> "The seats go way up there, and it feels like the fans are so close to the court. I know other coaches hate to play there. It felt like a great place, with tremendous fan support, and most nights it was rocking," Moir said.

Tech's biggest wins in Cassell Coliseum came under Moir. On Monday, January 10, 1983, Moir and the Hokies spoiled the day for Memphis State, as the Hokies knocked off the No. 1-ranked Tigers, 69-56, in a sold-out Cassell Coliseum. MSU had ascended to the top spot in the national polls earlier that day. Tech had other memorable wins under Moir, including a 76-72 victory over second-ranked and unbeaten Memphis State in 1986.

> The names that played for Moir are among the bestknown for Tech. Bimbo Coles, Dell Curry, Dale Solomon, Al Young, Perry Young, Bobby Beecher, and 2003 Virginia Tech Hall of Fame inductee Wayne Robinson were all vital parts of the great teams under Charlie Moir.

Charles Moir won almost 85 percent of his games in Cassell Coliseum.

BILL FOSTER TECH COACHING GREATS

ill Foster came to Blacksburg as a proven successful basketball coach. Everywhere he had coached, including Miami, Clemson and UNC Charlotte, Foster had won. But perhaps more importantly, Foster had won with grace and integrity. During his time in Blacksburg, he proved that class shines through.

Foster enjoyed many successes and milestones during his time at Virginia Tech. On Dec. 31, 1995 in New Orleans, the Hokies defeated Wright State, to give Foster his 500th coaching victory. During that season, Tech climbed to eighth in the polls and lost in the second round of the NCAA Tournament to eventual champion Kentucky. Tech finished the season ranked 22nd nationally.

The previous season had seen perhaps Foster's greatest accomplishment at Tech, as he led the Hokies to the 1995 NIT Championship. Tech defeated Clemson, Providence, New Mexico State, Canisius and Marquette to capture the school's second NIT title. During his six seasons at Virginia Tech, Foster amassed a 101-78 record with the Hokies and stands as the fourth-winningest coach in school history.

"The people here were special to work with, including Coach Beamer and President (Paul) Torgersen. The improvement we had over four or five years was amazing to see. NIT was a great experience, as well as getting an NCAA bid the next year," Foster said.

Foster has a connection to the current era of Virginia Tech basketball. Hokie head coach, Seth Greenberg, was a member of Foster's first staff at Miami. Greenberg gives much credit to his former boss and will rely on Foster's knowledge and experience in helping mold his new program in Blacksburg.

"Seth Greenberg is a bright young man who has built and developed outstanding programs at both Long Beach State and South Florida. He is a hard worker who has been a basketball person since he was old enough to dribble a ball. I don't know anything but positives about Seth Greenberg," Foster said.

"I was very fortunate that I had a lot of guys who weren't highly recruited, but became overachievers. A lot of those guys weren't interested in individual statistics, but the team stats. I just had a special group of over achievers." — Bill Foster ard work got Bimbo Coles to where he is today. During his four years at Virginia Tech, Coles worked hard both on and off the court. He used the total collegiate experience to improve as a person and as a player and that hard work has served him well since his graduation in 1990.

"I worked hard in my four years at Virginia Tech and took that to the NBA," Coles said. "I got better and better every year. I became a better person and matured quite a bit."

Still the only Virginia Tech U.S. Olympian, Coles left Blacksburg with a wealth of honors for his days on the court. He is the all-time leader in points scored, assists and free throws made at Virginia Tech and ranks second in three more categories. He was a second-round pick of the Sacramento Kings of the NBA and has enjoyed a long career in the league, having recently signed to return to the Miami Heat.

"Virginia Tech was a terrific situation for me," Coles said. "I remember my visit to the campus. I loved the campus. We defeated No. 1 ranked Memphis State during my visit and I remember the fans and the crowd in Cassell Coliseum being so loud. Coming to Tech was a no-brainer."

His Tech experience has progressed off the court as well. He is in the movie theatre business with childhood friend and former Tech football player Brian McCall. Before the NBA season begins, you can often find Coles in his suite at Lane Stadium, supporting the Hokies. Coles has indeed taken hard work to great successes.

QUINTON NOTTINGHAM

uinton Nottingham played guard for Virginia Tech from 1986-89. As a player, he learned important time management skills. "After joining the basketball team I learned the best time for me to work and the best time for me to play," he says. "I think for college kids today, learning the time at which you get your best work done is very important."

He describes playing at Cassell as "simply unbelievable" and feels like it was just an incredible place to play. "When I played in the Cassell, with the crowd constantly roaring, it always seemed as if I was jumping a little higher, moving a little faster ... walking on clouds."

Nottingham graduated from Virginia Tech with bachelor's and master's degrees, and earned a Ph.D., in statistics. He has worked for the business information technology department since 1995 and was promoted to assistant professor with tenure in 2001. He teaches mostly Quantitative Methods I & II and his research is in nonparametric regression, data visualization and neural networks. He has had several academic publications in his field.

Notthingham is married to the former Jacqueline James, who is associate director in the admissions office. They have two children, Sir, 7, and Jacob, 6. He served three years as a color analyst on radio for the Hokies (during the time that his cousin. Ace Custis, played at Tech) and maintains a close relationship with the coaching staff. He also attends most of the home games. "Having been a student-athlete at Tech was a wonderful experience and it continues to be a rewarding opportunity for me."

Cassell Coliseum is constantly undergoing improvements. Three years ago, new stateof-the-art video screens were added and two years ago, each seat in the arena was refinished to a natural wood look. Prior to last season, the athletics department completed step one of a three step process to renovate and improve the ambulatory of the coliseum.

Restoration and sealing of the exterior concrete walls and buttresses of Cassell Coliseum took place in 1997. Roof repair was completed in the fall of 1996, with replacement of the roof surface and installation of structural access to the heating and lighting systems as well as installation of steel beams in the top of the arena.

The men's basketball team was given a gift from Pat and Sandy Cupp of Blacksburg, Va. The gift was used for renovation of the men's basketball locker room which is now the Bill Foster Basketball Suite, named after one of Tech's most successful men's basketball coaches.

Entering the 2003-2004 season, the Hokies have won 409 out of 528 games played in Cassell, for a winning percentage of .775.

During the 1994-95 season, Cassell was the site of high excitement as the Hokies hosted two of the National Invitation Tournament games, en route to the championship. The Hokies beat Clemson in a first-round game at the Coliseum, then scored an emotional 64-61 third-round win over New Mexico State, turning the arena into a madhouse.

The first basketball game was played in the Coliseum on January 3,1962 as the Hokies routed Alabama, 91-67. The near-capacity crowd had to sit on the concrete floor to watch the initiation of the new building because the seats had not arrived.

There have been four perfect season records for the Hokies in Cassell: two 10-0 years (1961-62 and 1965-66), an 11-0 campaign (1972-73) and a 14-0 season (1975-76). The Hokies have lost only one game on their home court in 11 other years, including 13-1 records in 1977-78 and 1987-88.

State rivals have had little success playing the Hokies in Cassell, winning only 12 of 108 visits. Tech won both games against commonwealth of Virginia opponents last season.

On September 17, 1977, Virginia Tech officials and friends dedicated the Coliseum in honor of the late Stuart K. Cassell.

Adjacent to Cassell Coliseum is the Jamerson Athletic Center. Completed in 1982 and dedicated in the fall of 1983, it is named in honor of J.E. Jamerson and his son, William E. Jamerson, owners of the firm that built the building.

The complex contains administrative and coaching offices, athletic department accounting and business offices, team and coaches' meeting rooms, the Jim "Bulldog" Haren Weight Room and the Gordon D. Bowman Memorial Club Room on the top floor for Hokie Club members. Prior to the 1988-89 season, a modern, spring-loaded playing floor was installed in the Coliseum. During the fall of 1989, the facility was upgraded with an improved lighting system in the arena.

Construction for the main portion of the Coliseum began in 1961. It was completed in December 1964, at a cost of $2.7 million. Built by T.C. Brittain and Company of Decatur Ga., it houses a 10,052-seat basketball arena, locker rooms, two auxiliary gymnasiums, offices and other athletic facilities.

Although capacity crowds are a frequent occurrence in Cassell Coliseum, the largest crowd ever recorded was an overflow of 11,500 for Purdue on December 3, 1966.

he top research institution in the commonwealth, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University is a comprehensive university of national and international prominence. Virginia's premiere land-grant university, Virginia Tech has grown from a small college of 132 students into the largest institution of higher education in the state during its 131-year history.

раве 140

W

Recognizing that higher education is a key force behind the quality of American life, economic competitiveness, and our democratic form of government, President Charles W. Steger has challenged the university to become one of the country's top 30 research institutions by the end of the decade. Tech is currently ranked 49th in the nation.

Among recent research innovations, Tech teamed with Wake Forest University to establish the Virginia Tech-Wake Forest University School of Biomedical Engineering and Sciences to offer M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in biomedical engineering (BME) and to be the focus of collaborative research. The university's Virginia Bioinformatics Institute is leading the way in helping scientists merge computers and biotechnology to sort through complicated genetic material to speed research. And the university's partnership with the University of Virginia and Carilion Health System to form the Carilion Biomedical Institute is improving health care worldwide and increasing economic development opportunities in Southwest Virginia.

In other areas, Virginia Tech has one of the most comprehensive and successful programs to support state and local economic development, according to a study conducted by the Southern Growth Policies Board and funded in part by the National Science Foundation. The study report, Innovation U: New University Roles in a Knowledge Economy, named the nation's 12 most successful universities in terms of outreach, economic development and technology transfer practices.

Virginia Tech was established in 1872 as an all-male military school dedicated to the original land-grant mission of teaching agriculture and engineering. Today, the coeducational institution, which operates a European studies center based in Switzerland and educational, research and outreach/Extension facilities throughout Virginia, has recognized programs in music, business, architecture and the humanities, as well as its traditional strengths in the sciences, engineering and technology.

While participation in the Virginia Tech Corps of Cadets is now voluntary, the corps, which has approximately 700 cadets, remains a proud tradition of the university. Virginia Tech is one of only three public universities in the nation with a military component and a large civilian population.

Virginia Tech is organized into eight colleges – Agriculture and Life Sciences, Architecture and Urban Studies, Science, Pamplin College of Business, Engineering, Liberal Arts and Human Sciences, Natural Resources and Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine. Together, the colleges offer about 175 bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree programs to approximately 26,000 students, who hail from countries throughout the world.

The university's 2,600-acre main campus is home to more than 100 buildings, hundreds of research laboratories, the Donaldson Brown Hotel and Conference Center and an airport.

Adjoining the campus is the 120-acre Corporate Research Center, home to more than 100 companies and 1,800 employees who take advantage of the university's research and faculty expertise. Within five miles of campus is a 1,700-acre research farm.

Virginia Tech follows the dictates of its motto, Ut Prosim ("That I May Serve"), focusing on its land-grant missions of instruction, research, and solving the problems of society through outreach and Extension activities. Through the generation of new knowledge and the outreach mandate, the university disseminates practical knowledge through the classroom and to society as a whole. It is a university that puts knowledge to work.

Instruction

Eight colleges offer more degree programs than any other university in the state, with 62 undergraduate and 115 graduate programs. In addition, the university is one of the nation's leaders in integrating instructional technology into the curriculum, requiring all entering students to have a computer. The university's Math Emporium has been hailed as an innovative way to break the credit-for-contact model of classroom instruction.

Research

With annual research expenditures of about $232 million and more than 100 research centers, Virginia Tech consistently ranks among the top institutions in industry-supported research and in the top 10 in the number of patents issued each year.

The university's faculty and students are involved in more than 4,000 research projects in fields ranging from biotechnology to nanotechnology, from the environment and energy to food and health, and from transportation to computing information.

THIS IS TECH

$\stackrel{\scriptstyle -}{\smile}$ Outreach

раве 142

6.3

Virginia Tech is involved in a multitude of projects as part of its outreach mission. For example, it spawns economic development, helps global marketing efforts, investigates better uses for strip-mined land, helps clean the Chesapeake Bay and other state waterways, provides design and planning assistance to communities and directs reforestation in Senegal. University scientists developed the vaccine that is the standard for preventing brucellosis in cattle around the world.

Outreach efforts also focus on education and distance learning techniques — satellite videoconferencing, multimedia, interactive video, interactive computer conferencing and web-based courses, for example — to meet the various needs of working adults and other nontraditional students. Professionals, organizations and communities also tap Virginia Tech's vast resources, expertise and research results through Continuing Education, which offers hundreds of programs annually.

Virginia Cooperative Extension, operated jointly in the commonwealth by Virginia Tech and Virginia State University, has been helping people improve their economic, cultural and social well-being for nearly 90 years. And while Extension has a long history of helping make America's agricultural powerhouse more productive and economical, it also does important work from helping people learn healthy nutritional practices to counseling families in financial distress — in the state's urban as well as rural areas. With 107 city/county offices, and more than 61,000 volunteers, more than one million participants benefit annually from Extension's non-formal educational. Extension has touched virtually every life in the state in some way.

WHAT IS A HOKIE?

hat's the most often-asked question in Virginia Tech athletics. The answer leads all the way back to 1896 when Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute. With the change came the necessity for writing a new cheer and a contest for such a purpose was held by the student body. Senior O.M. Stull won first prize for his "Hokie" yell which still is used today. Later, when asked if "Hokie" had any special meaning, Stull explained the word was solely the product of his imagination and was used only as an attention-getter for his yell. It soon became a nickname for all Tech teams and for those people loyal to Tech athletics. The official school colors — Chicago maroon and burnt orange — also were introduced in 1896. They were chosen because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

DK. CHAKLES STEGER UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

ew people within the university community are unaware of Virginia Tech's national leadership aspirations. Setting his sights on joining the nation's truly elite universities, President Charles W. Steger laid down the challenge to become ranked among the top 30 research universities by decade's end and energized the university community in the process. "If you're not moving quickly forward, you might as well be standing still," he said when announcing the goal shortly after becoming president on Jan. 7, 2000.

The signature initiative of his administration likely will be the Virginia Bioinformatics Institute, an interdisciplinary research center formed by the convergence of computer science and biological research. Populated by worldclass researchers, the VBI already has built a contract base of more than $20 million. Harnessing and manipulating huge arrays of data, the VBI studies molecular, cellular, and environmental interactions that affect human health, agricultural systems and the environment.

Although state funding for operations continues to slide, the university currently oversees a mini building boom with $268 million in construction underway. Among facilities under construction are Chemistry/Physics, Agriculture and Natural Resources, Bioinformatics, Hotel/Alumni/Conference Center, Student Services, Career Services, a dairy facility, and several classroom modifications. Steger had chaired the executive committee of the successful 2002 statewide bond campaign, which partially funds some of the building projects.

A registered architect and former dean of Tech's College of Architecture and Urban Studies, Steger was an architect of a different sort as the leader of the university's successful fund raising campaign. Under his leadership as vice president for development and university relations, the Campaign for Virginia Tech raised $337 million. Last year, the university raised a record $70 million.

> Steger's ties to Virginia Tech span four decades as a student, professor, dean, vice president, and now president. While on the faculty, he twice won teaching excellence awards. When he became dean of the college in 1981, he was the youngest architecture dean in the nation at 33 years of age.

Steger received his Bachelor and Master of Architecture and a Ph.D., in Environmental Science and Engineering from Virginia Tech.

JIM WEAVER DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

ames C. Weaver, whose innovative ideas and work as a reformer have made him one of college athletics most popular administrators, is the director of athletics at Virginia Tech.

Weaver, 58, was appointed on September 24, 1997 and has been a tireless leader in behalf of Tech athletics. In his years on the job at Tech, Weaver has taken steps to place increased emphasis on projects benefiting student-athletes.

Weaver is also committed to the continuing improvement of Tech's facilities.

To meet a growing demand for Virginia Tech football, Weaver spearheaded the construction of the south end zone project to expand seating capacity to 65,115 for the 2002 season. A north end zone addition was completed prior to the 2001 season. Future renovations are planned for the west side of Lane Stadium as well.

One thousand permanent seats and new restroom facilities are in use for the first time this season at Virginia Tech's regulation-size lighted field for men's and women's varsity soccer and women's lacrosse.

This year, Weaver represented the BIG EAST at the NCAA's Sportsmanship Summit and he is the BIG EAST AD representative on the Bowl Championship Series committee.

Weaver came to Tech from Western Michigan University where he was director of athletics from January, 1996 until he came to Blacksburg. Prior to that, he was AD for three and a half years at UNLV, where he reconstructed a troubled athletic department.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Weaver was a center and linebacker on Penn State teams coached by the legendary Rip Engle and Joe Paterno.

Weaver graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a bachelor's in psychology and rehabilitation education. He received a master's in college counselor education, also from Penn State, in 1968.

Weaver started a coaching career as an assistant at Penn State for six seasons. He later > season at Villanova in 1974. He also spent five years as an assistant professor at Clarion State and three years as director of franchise sales at Athletic Attic.

> Prior to landing the athletic director's job at UNLV, Weaver spent nine years at the University of Florida, which was sanctioned by the NCAA in 1983. He was a strong force at Florida in the field of compliance and concluded his time there as associate athletic director.

Weaver and his wife Traci have four sons -Josh, Paul, Cole and Craig.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

here's much more to athletic performance than weight training. Always striving to stay on the cutting edge, Virginia Tech has combined strength and conditioning with nutrition and sport psychology to the benefit of its studentathletes. At Tech, these areas are part of the student-athlete's preparation – not just for game day, but also for life after college. Virginia Tech tries to provide the best services, facilities and support staff for all of its student-athletes, to make them better athletes and better people.

Strength & Conditioning

These days, college basketball is as much about strength and conditioning as it is about having outstanding athletes on your team. If you have both, your team will likely be successful.

Thanks to the direction of Assistant Athletics Director for Athletic Performance Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech strength and conditioning program is among the best in the nation.

One of the main support centers of Tech basketball is the strength and conditioning program. The results of hard work by the staff and the student-athletes have paid huge dividends for the Hokies in their ascent in college basketball.

The basketball team trains in the beautiful 17,000-square foot training center on the first level of the Merryman Athletic Center. The weight room facility features new free-weight equipment, a full line of Hammer Strength equipment, 12 platforms and a 6,000-square foot state-of-the-art speed and agility room.

Tech also has the use of a 10-by-40-yard sand pit located outdoors and adjacent to the weight room. This pit is used for resistive running drills to improve speed. The Hokies also have the practice field for use in running drills.

Assisting Gentry in the weight room this year are three full-time assistant strength and conditioning coaches: Jay Johnson, assistant director of strength and conditioning, Terry Mitchell, strength and conditioning coordinator of men's Olympic sports and Emily Chones, strength and conditioning coordinator for women's Olympic sports. Gentry will also have the services of four graduate assistants — Erin O'Neil, Lisa Guarneri, Gabe Teeple and Jarrett Ferguson.

Johnson coordinates the strength and conditioning program for the men's basketball team. He is a graduate of Emory & Henry College, where he played football for four seasons. He earned a master's degree from Radford University and earned his Ph.D., from Virginia Tech in 2001 in curriculum and instruction.

Johnson came to Virginia Tech in 1999 after serving as the head strength coach at Radford from 1996-99, working primarily with the basketball team. He is certified by the National Strength and Conditioning Association (Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialists), Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches Association (Strength and Conditioning Coach Certified) and the USA Weightlifting (Club Coach Certification).

Jay Johnson Assistant Director of Strength and Conditioning

A service offered to Virginia Tech studentathletes since August 2000, is sport psychology. Dr. Gary Bennett coordinates psychological services for student-athletes, and Dr. Robert Miller, director of the Cook Counseling Center, joins him to counsel student-athletes.

The psychologists meet with studentathletes on an individual basis for personal counseling and to discuss the mental aspects of the game. As a team, the sport psychologists work on team building, communication and performance enhancement. The licensed psychologists also offer an injury group to afford injured athletes the opportunity to meet with other injured athletes and talk about their recovery process. Injured athletes may also meet individually with the sport psychologists. On average, the psychologists conduct 20 individual sessions per week.

The response to the sport psychology program has been very positive. The studentathletes are very receptive to the services offered by the doctors. The sport psychology office reaches out to athletes who may not have considered going to the counseling service that is offered to all students at Virginia Tech.

Sports Nutrition

Since the summer of 2000, the athletics department has included nutrition as part of its program for student-athletes.

Amy Freel, former coordinator of student life, became the fulltime sports nutritionist in the athletics department in 2002.

Freel works one-onone with studentathletes to provide them with information that they need on their diet. She also provides individual players with diet counseling on issues such as gaining lean muscle mass, losing body fat, and how to eat to improve performance.

Freel works with the "Training Edge," a dining option for health-conscious students and athletes, to design menus for training tables and daily menu selections.

STUDENT ATHLETE ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES

раве 1 Ч В

> The success of Virginia Tech's athletic program rests largely on the academic progress of each studentathlete. The academic performance of Tech student-athletes has improved each year due in part to the Student Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS).

> The Virginia Tech graduation rate for student-athletes has risen significantly in recent years and reached 70 percent in 2003 as compared to the national average of 60 percent. The 70 percent student-athlete graduation rate marks the second straight year and five in the last 10 years that Tech has reached that level.

> In addition to posting impressive graduation figures, Virginia Tech's student-athletes continue to excel in the classroom. Last spring, the Athletic Director's Honors Breakfast paid tribute to a record 371 student-athletes, student trainers, student managers, cheerleaders and HighTechs who posted 3.0 or greater GPA's in the 2002 calendar year.

> Student-athletes are the most visible student component of a university. They entertain thousands of fans, students and alumni. Their athletic ability and achievement is the primary focus for national media attention. Athletic events bring back not only faithful alumni, but are a welcome mat for potential new students.

Student-athletes devote many hours to practice, conditioning and training that are not required of all students. Due to their time commitment and their high visibility, it is an obligation and in the best interest of the university to supply these students with services which will allow them to maximize their academic potential.

The Virginia Tech Student Athlete Academic Support Services office commits to providing fundamental and supplemental programming, consistent with University and NCAA policy, aimed at enhancing each student athlete's educational experience leading to graduation.

The expectations of the Virginia Tech community are that each student-athlete achieves their maximum academic and athletic potential. With the proper assistance, facilities and encouragement, these potentials can become a reality.

Student Athlete Academic Support Services provides programming for student-athletes from their freshman year through graduation. This includes a comprehensive orientation to Tech, study hall, mentoring, tutoring, academic monitoring, academic recognition and eligibility education. Additionally, studentathletes are referred to and encouraged to take advantage of other campus agencies charged with helping students in their academic pursuits.

OFFICE OF STUDENT LIFE

> he Office of Student Life at Virginia Tech is committed to developing the total studentathlete. Megan Armbruster, Director of the Office of Student Life, is dedicated to enhancing the guality of the student-athlete experience through the programs that this office administers.

Based on the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills Program, the services are designed for student-athletes to develop the individual skills necessary to lead successful and productive lives. The focuses of the programs sponsored by the office are the five areas of commitment defined by the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills Program: academic excellence, athletic excellence, community outreach, personal development and career development. This program attempts to build individual confidence, promote respect for diversity, enhance interpersonal relationships, develop leadership skills, and enable each one to make a valuable contribution to the community.

Armbruster says, "The goal of our office is to provide students with the total college experience. When athletes graduate, I want them to look back and believe they had full access to a variety of opportunities while at Virginia Tech."

Chris Tucker helps some youngsters develop their skills on the court.

Hokies With Heart

'Hokies With Heart' is the nickname of the community outreach program organized through the Office of Student Life. In the past year, Virginia Tech athletes participated in nearly 40 community service projects. Individual and team community service provide opportunities for Hokie student-athletes to give back to the faithful Virginia Tech fans.

In cooperation with local Rotary members, Corp of Cadets, Virginia Tech student organizations and Montgomery County Public Schools, the student-athletes support the Winning Choices Program. Winning Choices week provides an opportunity for Virginia Tech student leaders to bring messages of outstanding character and involvement to the Montgomery County elementary schools. The culmination of Winning Choices Week is a large assembly hosted at Cassell Coliseum in the spring, bringing in speakers to reiterate the importance of good decision-making and goal setting.

Virginia Tech Student Athlete Advisory Committee

The Virginia Tech Student Athlete Advisory Committee (VT-SAAC) promotes effective communication between athletic administration and student-athletes. SAAC is comprised of two representatives from each sport team.

The SAAC encourages their teammates to get involved both on campus and in the community. The SAAC Representatives help to design and provide programs that encourage academic success, health promotion, social responsibility, and general awareness.

Career Development

In close collaboration with the Virginia Tech Career Services Center, programs and workshops are designed specifically for student-athletes. Resume design, career fair etiquette, mock interviews, interview attire and mini-career fairs are just a few examples of workshops hosted by the Athletics Office of Student Life. Student-athletes are encouraged to participate in on-campus interviewing, eRecruiting along with securing internships and coops during their college career.

Staff

Graduate assistants Amy Turley and Jessica Hood are assisting Armbruster this year in coordinating the programs and activities.

egan Armbruster begins her first year at Virginia Tech as the new director of student life. As director, she will oversee the day-to-day operation of the office of student life, as well as direct the HiTOPS CHAMPS/Life Skills Program.

Armbruster comes to Tech from the University of Nebraska, where she has spent the last several years. She last served as assistant academic counselor at the Hewit Academic Center for Student-Athletes for two years. While pursuing her master's degree, Armbruster also held various internships at NU, working in admissions, university housing, the Vice-Chancellor's Office and the Campus Recreation Center.

She earned her bachelor's degree in community health education in 1998 and received her master's in educational administration in 2001, both from Nebraska.

GPORTS MEDICINE Providing Experienced, professional health care

he Virginia Tech Sports Medicine Department is an ever-changing and developing unit that strives to provide the most current and comprehensive care to all student-athletes. The department, under the leadership of Gunnar Brolinson, D.O., Delmas Bolin, M.D., and Mike Goforth, director of athletic training, is constantly evolving to incorporate new ideas and state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of studentathletes.

A professional staff — including primary care physicians who are Board certified in family medicine and sports medicine, orthopaedic surgeons, certified athletic trainers, physical therapists, chiropractors, massage therapists, sports psychologists, nutritionists and orthotists — is available to manage the health care of athletes.

Dr. Bolin is in his second year as assistant team physician for the Hokies. He is boardcertified in family medicine and is fellowshiptrained in sports medicine. Prior to Virginia Tech, Bolin was the co-director of the University of Pittsburgh primary care Sports Medicine Fellowship Program. He currently oversees a sports medicine clinic and teaches in the Carillion Family Practice Residency in Roanoke.

As part of the evolution, Tech recently completed its first full year in the new 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room. This area consolidated the training rooms that existed in the Merryman Center and Cassell Coliseum. The facility gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes. There is state-of-the-art equipment and a unique style of architecture, developed by Glenn Reynolds, AIA and Larry Perry as the consulting engineer.

The new room, which nearly doubles the size of the former Merryman Center facility, also allows the staff to utilize that room for physical therapy, chiropractic care and massage therapy. With its completion, Virginia Tech now has more than 10,000 square feet dedicated to sports medicine, placing Tech in the top five percent nationally. In addition, the $10 million Merryman Center, a state-of-the-art facility which includes 2,400 square feet of medical space, will supplement the new training room. This treatment room has numerous treatment modalities, including portable X-ray, electric stimulation, ultrasound, hot and cold packs and a lumbar/cervical traction unit. It also has offices for the staff, dozens of training tables, two cold tubs, whirlpools, an underwater treadmill, a Biodex System 3 and various other pieces of rehabilitation equipment.

"We, as a staff, are very pleased with our new facility and the opportunity for all of us to come together for the benefit of our athletes," Goforth said. After the sports medicine staff diagnoses and treats an ill or injured athlete, the staff then starts collaborative work with the strength and conditioning staff to give the best injury prevention and performance enhancing programs possible. The training, medical, and strength and conditioning staffs each have a role in bringing the athlete back quickly and ready to play. After an injury, an athlete will go through rehabilitation and physical therapy. Athletes are then moved to weight training, as they become able. The strength and conditioning staff uses specific programs for each injury in an effort to get the athlete back quickly.

A vital part of student-athletes services is the access to the Schiffert Student Health Center in McComas Hall. A health center and counseling services are available on one side of McComas Hall, while recreation sports and fitness programs are available on the other. The center also has a fully operational diagnostic laboratory, X-ray facilities and eight full-time physicians.

"Our goal is to provide the same high level of health care that professional and Olympic athletes receive," Goforth said.

Keith Doolan serves as the primary trainer for the men's basketball team.

Gunnar Brolinson, D.O. Head Team Physician

r. Gunnar Brolinson enters his second year as the Virginia Tech basketball team physician. Brolinson joined the program through an initiative between Tech athletics and the new Edward Via Virginia College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Prior to coming to Tech, Brolinson served as the Medical Director of the Primary Care Sports Medicine Fellowship at the Toledo Hospital and the Corporate Wellness Program for the ProMedica Health System. He also served as the team physician for the University of Toledo, the United States Ski Team and has acted as a volunteer physician for the United States Olympic Committee.

Brolinson graduated with an undergraduate degree in biology from the University of Missouri at Columbia and completed his medical training at the Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine. Wellness Center in Dalton, Ga., where he was the director of wellness and sports medicine.

He has an extensive background in sports medicine, working at East Tennessee State University, Virginia Tech, William Fleming High School, Tusculum College, Greene County Sports Medicine/Industrial Cooperative and Pioneer Sports Medicine/Physical Therapy Clinic. He also has numerous opportunities to consult on program development throughout the country.

Goforth graduated from East Tennessee State University in 1991 with a bachelor's degree in physical education with a concentration in athletic training. He earned his matter's in coast management from in athletic training. He earned his master's in sport management from Virginia Tech in 1995 and is currently pursuing his doctorate in health education, also from Virginia Tech.

UIKGINIA TECH MONOGKAM CLUB

The Monogram Club was created as a social organization comprised of graduated athletes who earned one or more monograms (letters) in any varsity sport at Virginia Tech. All former coaches are designated as honorary members. Once a student-athlete's career is completed, the club is an opportunity to remain active in their sport and renew friendships.

The club focuses on keeping an open line of communication between the athletics department and former letterwinners. Each former letterwinner is given an open invitation to return to campus and not only support the current athletes in their individual sport but all the athletes within the entire athletics department.

Over the past three years, the club has seen a resurgence of activity with record growth in the organization's membership.

In 2001, the Monogram Club welcomed its director, Russ Whitenack, the former men's head track coach who oversaw that program for the previous 28 years.

Whitenack has set some lofty goals for himself and the club for the next few years. He wants to host Monogram Club events on the road in conjunction with Tech athletic events, and to increase membership benefits. Already Whitenack has arranged for each club member to receive a subscription to hokiesports the newspaper.

The Monogram Club started selling football tickets to individual games from a block of 100 in the south end zone to the membership. Members can request up to 4 tickets for any home game. Tickets are mailed from the ticket office two weeks prior to the game.

The Monogram Club hosts a tailgate at each of the home football games in the ambulatory of Cassell Coliseum. You can check their Web site for starting times at hokiesports.com and then click on Monogram Club.

"Ultimately I'd like to see every letterwinner join the club," Whitenack said. "I would like to get reps in all of the major cities where we have several members and I would like to see the club work more closely with the Hokie Club."

MONOGRAM

CLUB

membership was instituted for recent graduates, allowing them a three-year membership into the club once their eligibility is up. In April 2001, 83 new seniors were added as complimentary members.

Membership dues are $25 per year with the membership year being from July 1 to June 30. A new five-year membership is being offered for $100. A lifetime membership has been instituted with the amount set at $500. The Monogram Club has set a goal of doubling membership by next year.

In January, the Monogram Club will unveil an address list of all former athletes, accessible to all paid members of the club.

For membership information, call Russ Whitenack at (540) 231-9156, or e-mail mclub@vt.edu.

The Virginia Tech men's basketball team is interested in reconnecting with all former players. The "Where Are They Now" feature on pages 114-115 originated from the list of Monogram Club members. or 28 years, Russ Whitenack held the reins of the men's track program, guiding it to conference titles and national recognition. Prior to taking over in 1974, Whitenack served as an assistant coach for two years. In addition to being the men's coach, he also guided the women's team for 10 years during the 1980s and early 1990s.

A 1969 graduate of the University of Tennessee, Whitenack was a member of the Volunteers' All-America 440-yard relay team. UT won three Southeastern Conference team championships during his four years on the squad. He served for one season as a graduate assistant at Tennessee and three years as coach at Palmetto Junior High in Miami before coming to Tech in 1972.

During Whitenack's tenure, the Tech program produced 20 All-Americans, including former coach Steve Taylor and recent graduate Erick Kingston. Whitenack led the Hokies to two Metro Conference indoor championships, one in 1993 and one in 1994, and he was chosen by his peers as Metro Coach of the Year during the 1992 outdoor season and again following Tech's 1993 indoor championship. During the late 1990s, the Hokies dominated the Atlantic 10 Conference, capturing both the indoor and outdoor titles four straight years. Whitenack was named the A-10 indoor and outdoor coach of the year for each of those victories. He also received the Walt Comrack Award for excellence in coaching from the Virginia Military Institute in 1997. Whitenack and his wife, Judy, have one son, Jon. In his spare time, Whitenack enjoys outdoor activities, especially kayaking, boating and jet-skiing.

BLACKSBURG, VA. College town complements the university

ne of America's best college towns, Blacksburg is a perfect setting for Virginia Tech.

Located in Southwest Virginia on a plateau between the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, Blacksburg combines the laid-back lifestyle of a small town with the amenities one would expect to find around a major center of higher education. Together, the town and university have worked hard to create a progressive community that ranks among the nation's elite living environments. Virginia Tech and the Town of Blacksburg gained national and international attention by creating the world's first "electronic village." Businesses and industries have been drawn by the potential of the quaint town.

Established in 1798 by John and William Black, the town is surrounded by scenic mountain views that distinguish the area.

The nearly 36,000 residents (including students) enjoy a close proximity to a variety of recreation areas such as the Blue Ridge Parkway, Appalachian Trail, Claytor Lake and the New River. The region features a moderate climate and four distinct seasons.

Blacksburg's location (adjacent to major interstate highways) provides convenient access to most points in the southern and eastern parts of the country.

More information on Blacksburg can be found on the Web site of the Blacksburg Electronic Village, www.bev.net or the town's Web site, www.blacksburg.va.us.
