{ THE 2011 QUALIFICATION PROCESS }

Beginning in 2009, the NCAA used a new qualifying system based on an RPI system. Wrestlers in each weight class are measured on the following: winning percentage, rating percentage index (minimum 15 matches) and coaches' rankings. Wrestlers that meet or exceed threshold levels for all three measures will be labeled "Gold Standard." Wrestlers that meet or exceed threshold levels for any two of the three measures will be labeled "Silver Standard."

Qualifying events (such as the ACC Championship) receive one qualifying slot for each gold or silver wrestler at a particular weight class. For example, when the rankings are released in late January of 2011, if the ACC has four wrestlers at 125 pounds gain gold or silver status, qualifying wrestlers at 125 pounds will be vying for four qualifying slots at the ACC Championship.

If a qualifying event does not have any gold or silver standard wrestlers at a weight class, one qualifier position will be allocated for that qualifying event's champion at that weight class.

There are still 330 spots in the championship field with 33 wrestlers earning spots in each of the 10 weight classes. The ACC Championships will be held on March 5 at the University of Virginia's John Paul Jones Arena.

At-large qualifiers will be announced the week of March 7. The NCAA Championships will be held March 17-19 in Philadelphia, Pa.

Kevin Dresser enters his fifth season at the helm of the Virginia Tech wrestling program, a program that he has headed toward the upper echelon of the college game.

In three of his first four seasons, he's had a wrestler win an ACC title and twice has had a wrestler named Most Outstanding Wrestler at the ACC Championships. In 2007, it was Jon Bonilla-Bowman who won the ACC title at 157 pounds and, in 2009, Matt Epperly came out of nowhere to win the 165-pound class and advance to the NCAA Championships.

In 2008-09, his team broke all sorts of school records, including dual meet wins (20) and NCAA qualifiers (8). Tech also had upset road wins against No. 17 Michigan and No. 6 Central Michigan. Last year, he coached four ACC champions and helped lead Chris Diaz to an All-American finish at Nationals.

His recruiting has taken off, and the Hokies have had four-consecutive top-11 national recruiting classes under his direction, including the 11th-best class in the country last year according to InterMat.

Dresser is a familiar name in the New River Valley as he was the head coach at Christiansburg High School for 10 seasons, winning the Group AA state title five times and claiming second place three times. Prior to his stint in Christiansburg, he led Grundy High School to eight titles in as many years.

A native of Humboldt, Iowa, Dresser was a two-time high school state champion at Humboldt High School. In 2009, Dresser was inducted into the Iowa High School Athletic Association Wrestling Hall of Fame.

He graduated from the University of Iowa, where he won a national title in 1986 at 142 pounds. Dresser was a two-time All-American (placing fourth in 1985 at 142 pounds), as well as a two-time Big Ten champion. For his performance in 1986, he received the Mike Howard Award, given to the most valuable wrestler for the Hawkeyes.

Tony Robie is in his fifth year at Virginia Tech, serving as the associate head coach of the Hokies' wrestling program. Robie coaches the middle and upper weights, as well as working with team travel, equipment and recruiting.

Robie came to Blacksburg after serving as the head coach at Binghamton University in New York. A two-time collegiate All-American and 1997 NCAA runner-up, Robie took over a program that had been discontinued after the 2003-04 school year because of budget constraints. Before taking over at Binghamton, he was an assistant coach for four seasons at the University of Michigan.

In seven years as a Division I assistant coach prior to coming to Blacksburg, Robie helped coach 23 All-Americans, nine Academic All-Americans and one national champion. As the Wolverines' top assistant coach, Robie recruited three top-10 classes, including the No. 2 ranked class in 2004. His one-on-one work with Michigan student-athlete Ryan Bertin culminated with Bertin's 2003 NCAA championship – the school's first national champion in 18 years. In all, Michigan's team earned national top-10 status all four years that Robie was a coach there.

His dedication and influence off the mat resulted in the wrestling team winning the 2003 community service award at the school.

A world-class wrestler in his own right, Robie racked up an 126-23 record on the collegiate mat. A two-time captain for former Olympic gold medalist Bruce Baumgartner at Edinboro University, Robie was a three-time Eastern Wrestling League Champion and a three-time Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference (PSAC) champion. As a senior, Robie led the Fighting Scots to a sixth-place national finish – the highest in school history. He ranks fourth on the school's all-time wins list and went on to earn a bronze medal at the 1998 U.S. Open Freestyle Championships. In 2008, he was inducted into the Edinboro Sports Hall of Fame.

Robie brings strong ties to the eastern wrestling hotbed as he also served as an assistant coach at West Virginia (1998-99) and Edinboro (1999-00).

For his career, the Lakewood, Ohio, native posted a 121-31 record, including an impressive 61-8 mark over his final two seasons. He went 31-3 as a senior and was a tri-captain for the Buckeyes.

Palmer was a four-time Ohio prep state champion at St. Edward High, posting a 150-6 career record. He also was a 2006 Senior National Champion at 140 pounds.

After graduation, he signed with Sacramento-based management company, MMA, Inc., and is training with Urijah Faber and Team Alpha Male.

2010-11 PREVIEW

It's year No. 5 for head coach Kevin Dresser at the helm of the Hokies, and after several years of growing pains, the Tech wrestling program has taken major steps forward over the past two seasons. The 2010-11 team could be his best so far and his Hokies will look to take the next step.

The team is a veteran one as three seniors and two juniors will anchor the starting lineup, one that features seven guys who have qualified for the NCAA Championships during their careers. With solid experience returning, a great crop of youngsters coming in and depth being developed up and down the lineup, this team has the chance to do even more than it did last year.

"We felt like we've taken steps every year, but the next step is to get multiple All-Americans and to win an ACC title," Dresser said. "We think we're capable of finishing in the top 10 or 15 at Nationals and we've got a host of guys who, if they put it together, have a chance to be All-Americans. Will they all do it? Probably not. But I'm excited to pick up the papers in March and see who did."

Here's a look at each weight class and who figures to help out this season:

125 Jarrod Garnett, who won his first ACC title last year and advanced to the round of 12 at the NCAA Championships, returns as the undisputed starter here. He went deep into the NCAA Tournament last year, and the coaching staff expects him to challenge for All-America honors once again this year.

True freshman T.J. Mitchell and junior Schuyler Swanton will back him up. True freshman Ty Mitch, whom coaches have high expectations for, will likely redshirt.

133 True freshman Devin Carter, from nearby Christiansburg, is the leader early on. Coaches say the potential of Carter is off the charts and he is one of the most impressive guys in the room this year. He could have a big impact on the ACC and nationally this year. Eric Spjut is coming off a knee injury from last January and will likely redshirt this year, making veteran Jared Jones the likely back-up.

141 Chris Diaz, a senior from Delaware, will again be the starter at this weight class. He became Dresser's first All-American when he took eighth place last year and coaches are looking for him to go higher this year.

"Chris is expecting big things out of himself, as are we," Dresser said. "We have a lot of good depth at this class, but Chris is the man and hopefully he can finish his career with a high finish on the podium."

Transfer Zach Neibert was heavily recruited out of high school and will push Diaz all year. Nick Murray, who has seen starting duty during his time at Tech, will also look for mat time here.

149 A year ago at this time, Brian Stephens was a freshman looking to redshirt. But after starter Pete Yates went down with a knee injury in December, Stephens was thrust into the lineup. All he did was go on to win the ACC title and become the ACC Rookie of the Year. Coaches are expecting another great year out of the sophomore.

"Brian is one of our hardest workers and one of the most entertaining guys we have to watch wrestle," Dresser said. "He has an endless motor and should get the fans excited with his style of wrestling."

Backing him up will be prep nation runner-up Chris Mears from Texas and local product Cameron Hurd.

157 Pete Yates is back after a knee injury and makes the jump up to 157 pounds this year. He's back and stronger than ever and ready to be a force in this weight class this year.

"If Pete puts it all together, he can be an All-American," Dresser said. "We need to find a way to keep him healthy and on the mat, though."

Jesse Dong had a huge year, winning the ACC title and earning a No. 3 seed at Nationals, but will likely redshirt this year. Taylor Knapp could redshirt, but could also back-up Yates.

165 Matt Epperly, a two-time ACC champion, returns for his final year at 165 pounds. Coaches need Epperly to take it to the next level and have success at Nationals. He's a talented wrestler who's been around the block a few times but has to continue to work hard and bring it day in and day out.

Freshmen Tanner Eitel and Chris Moon will battle for the back-up spot, although one will likely redshirt. Harrison Hightower could also back-up here or at 157 pounds.

174 This is the weight with the question mark beside it as the early favorite is transfer Nick Vetterlein, who played football at Wagner last year. He has a lot of work to do in the room to make up for lost time, but is a hard-nosed worker whom the coaches love.

Freshman Angelo Malvestuto is pushing him hard and will continue to do so throughout the year. Transfer Robbie Wannenburg and true freshman Sam Law will also battle for the spot.

184 Tommy Spellman is back for his fourth year as the starter at 184 pounds. He's another senior who has been to the NAAs a few times, but needs to take it to the next level. Coaches want him to win an ACC title and make some noise at the NCAA Championships. He continues to work hard on his offensive moves, especially from on his feet. He's gotten bigger and stronger and should have a big final season.

John Dickson from Virginia Beach will be the top back-up here.

197 Sophomore Chris Penny has improved by leaps and bounds from a year ago and coaches are expecting him to be a different wrestler this year.

"Chris kind of got thrown to the wolves last year, but he's a different wrestler this year," Dresser said. "He getting it done in the room, but we have to wait and see what he does when there are fans in the stands."

D.J. Bruce, coming off an ACL surgery, and freshman Bobby LaVelle will back him up.

HWT David Marone is back after redshirting last season and is ready to roll. He has his weight up to 240 pounds and the coaches think he will have a breakout year. He made it to the round of 12 two years ago and is an athletic heavyweight who is fun to watch wrestle.

"With Marone back, and the guys at 174 and 197, we go from bad to good this year," Dresser said. "Not good to above average, but bad to good, and I think it'll show in dual meets and at Nationals."

The key for this year's squad is staying healthy. With the projected lineup, this team is poised to make a run at an ACC title and finish high at the NAAs.

"We're not young anymore and we need to grow up," Dresser said. "We need to be in pressure situations and we need to respond. Now is the time."

The 2011 ACC Championships will be held March 5 in Charlottesville, Va., and the NCAA Championships will be held March 16-19 in Philadelphia.

NCAA EXCITEMENT!

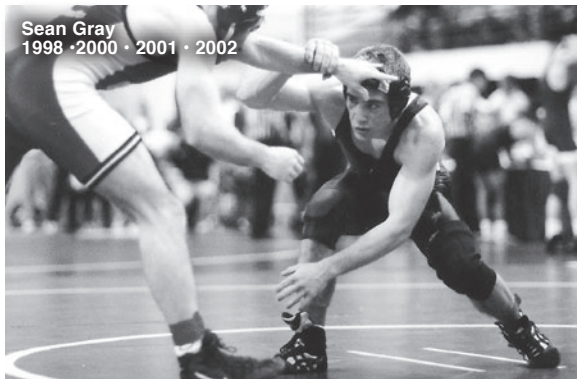

Virginia Tech wrestlers will be working this year toward competing in the NCAA Wrestling Championships at the Wachovia Center in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. They'll be looking to join other Tech grapplers who have made their marks on college wrestling's grandest stage.

With the NCAA qualifying system in place, the Hokies – and the rest of the ACC – continue to strive to qualify more wrestlers this season.

BY THE WAY...WHAT IS A HOKIE?

That's the most often-asked question in Virginia Tech athletics. The answer leads all the way back to 1896 when Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute. With the change came the necessity for writing a new cheer and a contest for such a purpose was held by the student body. Senior O.M. Stull won first prize for his "Hokie" yell which still is used today. Later, when asked if "Hokie" had any special meaning, Stull explained the word was solely the product of his imagination and was used only as an attention-getter for his yell. It soon became a nickname for all Tech teams and for those people loyal to Tech athletics. The official school colors – Chicago maroon and burnt orange – also were introduced in 1896. They were chosen because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

Athletic Trainer Sean Collins works closely with the Tech wrestling team to provide top-notch care.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The Sports Medicine Department at Virginia Tech is constantly evolving to incorporate new ideas utilizing state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of all Hokie student-athletes. Under the leadership of Assistant Athletics Director for Athletic Training Mike Goforth, the department is constantly improving and developing new strategies to provide the most current and comprehensive care.

Their team of certified athletic trainers, orthopaedic surgeons, Board Certified primary care physicians, chiropractors, physical therapists, sport psychologists, nutritionists, massage therapists and orthotists are available on site to manage the health care needs of Tech athletes. The staff continually looks for ways to enhance the services provided for their athletes as evidenced by its participation in local and national projects pertaining to related topics such as concussion management, prevention of antibiotic resistant types of staph infection (MRSA), high ankle sprains and collegiate health care management strategies. Research is considered instrumental to the sports medicine department. The department has participated in several projects with the engineering department and school of education, respectively.

The 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes. There is top-of-the-line equipment and a unique style of architecture, developed by Glenn Reynolds, AIA and Larry Perry as the consulting engineer. In 2010, Reynolds again helped Tech spearhead another 3,000-square-foot expansion of the training room to encompass the weight room.

The Ferrell Training Room nearly doubled the size of the former Merryman Center facility. Tech now has more than 10,000 square feet dedicated to sports medicine, placing it in the top five percent nationally. The $10 million Merryman Center includes 2,400 square feet of medical space and a physician's suite. The suite is equipped with a new state-of-the-art X-ray system, a fluoroscopy unit and a minor procedure room. The training room also has offices for the staff, dozens of training tables, two cold tubs, whirlpools, an underwater treadmill, a Biodex System 3 and various other pieces of rehabilitation equipment and treatment modalities. Athletes have many options to help prevent or protect them from injuries. The sports medicine staff takes great pride in treating athletes year-round. Special attention is paid to off-season activity. The staff will analyze past injury data from each participant and construct a preventative program that is followed over a nine-week period between the end of the season and the beginning of spring practice. This same procedure is followed during the summer.

Sean Collins, in his fifth year at Virginia Tech, works with the Hokie wrestling program. He is assisted by student athletic trainers Deidre Deacon and Trevor Stewart.

Tech wrestlers have the luxury of training in both their workout room and in a 5,000-square foot weight room.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING

One of the most important aspects of the Virginia Tech wrestling program is its strength and conditioning program.

Mike Gentry

Thanks to the direction of Assistant Athletics Director for Athletic Performance Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech strength and conditioning program is among the best in the nation.

Terry Mitchell handles the strength and conditioning efforts for the Hokie wrestling squad.

SPORTS NUTRITION

Eating healthy and choosing nutritious diets are important aspects of a Virginia Tech student-athlete's life. Amy Freel is in her eighth year as the nutritionist. Freel, who is one of 16 full-time college dietitians in the country, also serves on the nutrition and performance committee with Dr. Gary Bennett.

Freel provides individual players with diet counseling on issues such as gaining lean muscle mass, losing body fat, and eating choices to improve performance. She also designs preseason menus, snacks and training table menus for the swimming and diving teams.

Amy Freel

Also in July 2002, the Virginia Tech Athletics Department purchased the Bod Pod body composition system. Tech is one of a handful of college athletic departments using this type of technology. It accurately measures body composition (percent of body fat, lean muscle mass and fat mass) through air displacement within five minutes. Research has shown that an increase in lean muscle mass will increase athletic performance. The sports nutrition program has helped countless Tech athletes maximize their athletic performance.

SPORT PSYCHOLOGY

Virginia Tech offers another important service to all of its student-athletes – sport psychology. Dr. Gary Bennett coordinates the sport psychology department, which offers psychological and performance enhancement services for student-athletes. Bennett also works closely with the Cook Counseling Center.

Gary Bennett

Bennett meets with student-athletes on an individual basis for personal counseling and to discuss the mental aspects of the sport. He also works on team building, communication and performance enhancement.

The wrestling team's community partner is Falling Branch Elementary. The team took part in the school's "Beautification Day" in which they took part in groundskeeping projects the school needed help with.

STUDENT LIFE

At Virginia Tech, student-athletes don't just play sports. With help from the Athletics Office of Student Life, Hokie student-athletes work outside the athletic venue to develop into community assets and responsible adults.

Led by the Virginia Tech Student-Athlete Advisory Committee, Hokie student-athletes volunteered countless hours in the local community last year. In addition, over 300 Virginia Tech student-athletes earned a 3.00 grade point average during one or both semesters, while achieving great success within athletics as well.

Reyna Gilbert

Inspired by the NCAA/CHAMPS (Changing Athletes' Minds for Personal Success) Life Skills Program, the Athletics Office of Student Life creates programs designed to enhance student-athletes in five areas of commitment: athletic excellence, academic excellence, personal and leadership development, community service and career development. The program has been previously honored for its commitment to serving the good of the student-athletes by the Division I-A Athletic Director's Association as a program of excellence.

STUDENT-ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) is a committee made up of student-athletes assembled to provide insight on the student-athlete experience. They also offer input on the rules, regulations and policies that affect student-athletes' lives on NCAA member institution campuses. Two members of each sports team serve on SAAC each academic year.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Office of Student Life aims to help student-athletes lead balanced lifestyles, encouraging emotional well-being, personal growth and decision-making skills. Each team attends two personal development workshops during the year to educate members in healthy living, service learning, career development, diversity and life skills.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

Virginia Tech student-athletes savor their collegiate athletic experiences with the understanding that they will need to secure a job upon graduation. The Office of Student Life works to enhance student-athlete career development by collaborating with the Virginia Tech Career Services Office. Student-athletes also receive assistance in learning about majors and minors, preparing for career fairs, and obtaining scholarships and internships.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

The Office of Student Life is also responsible for nominating student-athletes for academic honors and awards. Athletes are nominated for on-campus, Atlantic Coast Conference and national awards. Student-athletes with a 3.0 GPA are rewarded and honored on the Athletic Director's Honor Roll. In 2009-10, 370 student-athletes were named to this prestigious list, an increase of nearly 30 from 2008-09.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Virginia Tech student-athletes are now involved more than ever in the local community. In conjunction with the mission of the Office of Student Life and the Ut Prosim motto, student-athletes are encouraged to volunteer throughout their college experience. Each team partners with a local community organization and volunteers time at community-wide events. Along with large volunteer efforts, student-athletes engage in community support with visits to local hospitals and elementary and middle schools. Community organizations can also request Tech student-athletes to attend local outreach events. Involvement in this program helps maintain and improve the positive relationship between student-athletes and the surrounding community.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Expectations placed on Virginia Tech student-athletes are high both in the classroom and on the field. Working together with the Tech Athletics Department, Student-Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS) acts as the backbone for Hokie student-athletes in order to help them achieve their full potential, both inside and outside of athletics. Tutors, study assistance, computer and technology aid and individual skill development programs are just some of the services available.

In addition, SAASS assists students in arranging appointments with various university departments, such as their academic advisors, the Registrar, the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid, deans offices, Career Services and the Cook Counseling Center for Academic Enrichment and Excellence.

SAASS is committed to providing a comprehensive academic and personal development program with counseling and advising for student-athletes, offering academic counseling to ensure students receive a complete system of support.

Student-athletes have access to the department's spacious facilities, located in the West Side of Lane Stadium. Opened during the 2006-07 academic year, the SAASS suite, located in the Quillen Family Academic Center, features 18 private tutor rooms, a state-of-the-art classroom, a 36-station computer lab with printer access, a conference room, three quiet areas for reading and studying and a reference library. The office is available between classes, after practice and in the evenings. Hours of operation are flexible and may be tailored to maximize the student-athlete's limited time. The collection of SAASS programs housed in Lane Stadium guarantees that all student-athletes achieve success during their time at Virginia Tech.

ReGina Garrett serves as the advisor for the Hokie wrestling squad.
